The Campaign.

A Dangerous Man.

The following from the Galena (Ill.) Gazette so much better than the ordinary run of blitical campaign poetry, that we publish it tire. It is good enough:

mr. Sumner says Grant is a bold, bad, dangerous man.—Newspaper.

"A bold, bad man is General Grant,"
Said Floyd one gloomy night,
As out from Donelson he crept,
And took his hasty flight.
From Pillow's trembling lips there came
An echo sounding much the same,
And Buckner thought his chief was right,
Nor longer durst maintain the fight: Nor longer durst maintain the fight; And from the fort hung stripes and stars. "That Grant's a dangerous man," said they And doubtless think the same this day.

"A bold, bad man is General Grant." "A bold, bad man is General Grant,"
Said Beauregard one morn,
And from the haughty traitor's brow
The victor's wreath was torn;
And from the field his legions went,
By orders General Grant had sent.
Then Shiloh's field was ours again,
Despite the host of rebel men,
Who came an army boasting loud,
And went a panie-stricken crowd:

"A bold, bad man is General Grant," "A bold, bad man is General Grant,"
Said Pemberton one day;
"Enfreaties are of no avail,
Ho will not go away.
A stubborn, mulish, dangerous man!
He wants our rebel hides to tan."
And still Grant's cannon raked the town,
Until the rebel flags came down;
And then our banners, rent and torn,
Were through the streets of Vicksburg borne,
The "bold, bad man," that glorious "Fourth"
Sent gladsome tidings to the North.

"A bold, bad man is General Grant!" "A bold, bad man is General Grant!"
And poor Bragg's eyes were dim
With tears; said he, "I know,"
"Is useless fighting him."
And soon the cheers of Grant's brave men
On Lookout's crest told where and when
The rebel general had to run,
And what that "bold, bad man" had done
"That Grant's a dangerous man!" he said,
As from the field his army fled.

"As from the held his army hed.

"A bold, bad man is General Grant,"
Said Lee, "that's plain to see;
He must be very bold, indeed,
To think of whipping me."
Then Petersburg and Richmond fell;
And Appomatox—may be—well,
At last our hero's work was done;
The final victory was won.
Perhaps the people may forget
These things, but then they haven't yet.
They needed then such "dangerous" men,
And think, perhaps, they may again.

"A bold, bad man is General Grant!" "A bold, bad man is General Gran Jeff. Davis thought the same, When running off in crinoline, He to the "last ditch" came. A Ku klux gentle voice was heard. And—"Grant is dangerous" averee it needs must be that this is so, For all these rebels ought to know. Then Hall and Tweed—good, hone Say "Grant is bold and bad," and to
