MOUNTAIN HERB BITTERS. To Prevent Cattle Jumping.

A correspondent of the Vermont Farmer thus describes an improved yoke or jumping stick: First, but a piece across the horns. Then have a piece of hard wo do board, one-half or three-fourths inch thick and about three feet long. Have a hole inserted in the bar across the horns in such a way that when this hard wood strip is inserted in it, running out over the back, as the animal naturally carries its head, the rear end will be just free of the back. Drive three or four shingle nails, ground sharp, into this end, letting them come through three-fourths of an inch, so that as soon as the animal makes an effort to raise his head to jump the fence, the nails will soundly prick his back, and he will be apt to frisk his tail and start for some feed that is easier to be obtained.
