

thing for them that they could do for themselves, without his assistance. By fostering and increasing their self-reliance, and by judiciously leading them to encounter and overcome difficulties, by the right use of their own faculties, the teacher will grow up to be true men and women—pupils of the "defying the battle and the breeze" of life, each of them being a living testimonial to his personal and professional worth.

MORAL INCENTIVES TO STUDIOUS HABITS.

The earnest desire to be useful, and to do what is right, are the most praiseworthy principles of human character, the noblest incentives to human action. They are the offspring of the conscience, and as such, the most worthy preceptors of conduct. These, with the anxious desire of advancement, and earnest love of acquisition, are the fundamental elements on which the faithful teacher must repose his efforts, whilst exciting and inculcating studious habits, emulation, or the earnest desire to advance in one's studies, to improve our present condition, to excel others without entertaining the desire to depress them, is perhaps one of the most commendable aspirations which can incite or influence the human heart. Progress is written on our nature; onward and upward should be our motto individually, as it is of Nature in general. Wholesome emulation, when judiciously employed, will seldom fail to develop this progress in youth. It tends to make boys more than they are, or what they are, and in a certain sense enables them to surpass themselves. The desire to excel is, therefore, one of the noblest aspirations which can fire the human heart. "Curiosity" is, in reality, a wholesome curiosity, an intense desire to acquire information. The heavenly delights experienced in acquiring useful and interesting information, varies in proportion to the age and mental capacity of the student; but in all cases the pleasure of acquisition far exceeds the labor. We may feel assured that a boy experiences more pleasure in studying "the philosophy of an old drum" out of which it has just knocked the bottom, or in contemplating the fragments of a china cup which it has just broken, than a miser would experience on discovering a gold mine. In "destroying things" the child seeks to gratify its curiosity—to gain information; and in its aversion the educator can sufficiently arouse and skillfully guide this propensity, in his pupils, thenforth their minds will neither slumber nor stop, and learning will be a pleasure to the teacher and the taught.

The Best Method of Disinfecting Stables.

The following recipe for disinfecting stables comes from an accomplished practical chemist, who fully understands the subject from experience. Take two parts by weight of sulphate of iron (coppers), and one part by weight of slacked lime; mix them thoroughly and allow them to lie in a heap for five hours; then add and mix two parts by weight of dried and powdered clay. This disinfecting powder contains agents (chemically speaking) for the absorption of the ammoniacal compounds and gases which are generated by the decomposition of the stable off. The irritating properties of ammonia or hartshorn are well known, and as the present "horse disease" takes the form of an inflammation of the mucous membrane, or coating of the interior pass ages of the head and of the throat, it is undoubtedly important to avoid in stables the presence of ammonia. This powder will be found preferable to carbolic acid or tar, and was largely used in the army stables during the war. The best time for applying the disinfectant is to use it before making the bed in the evening, when the stall has been thoroughly swept; a dusting or thin coating will be sufficient to last over night. In the morning, after cleaning the stall again, another application should be made.

Growth of Man and Tail.

Middy Morgan gives the following recipe, which he has personally proved to be efficient in restoring a healthy growth of hair on the tails and manes of horses. Corrosive sublimate (bichlorid), oxymuriate of mercury, each four grains; in one ounce of distilled water. Wash the parts where the hair is thin with warm water and soap, then rub dry with a linen cloth, and immediately after rub in some of the above liniment. If the hair has been rubbed off by the animal's own endeavors to allay cutaneous irritation, then dress with the following ointment: One ounce of fine flour of sulphur, one ounce of pulverized saltpetre, made into a soft ointment with fresh rendered hog's lard; rub in at night and wash in the morning with warm water and soap; repeat three or four times. If the hair is scant from natural debility of the capillary organs, then simply use cold water applied with a soft sponge; avoid all combing or brushing, and clean the mane and tail, as the Arabs do, with a coarse flannel rubber.

What a Boy Can Do.

During the last session of an impromptu Farmers' Club, held Thursday evening of the Farnham county Fair, a gentleman related the following circumstances as with his knowledge, and we advise other boys to go and do likewise: In 1863 a boy had, in one way and another, accumulated the sum of sixteen dollars. With his father's consent, he invested this in two yearling steers. These were kept until 1869, then fattened and sold (as three year olds) for $100. This was re-invested in steers, fattened and sold in the corn fed, leaving the boy $195; which sum was again invested by the boy, and in the early part of the present summer he sold his little herd of well fattened steers, receiving the nice sum of $300. The father took the boy's labor the past two years in pay for the grain his cattle had consumed. The boy has not yet attained his majority, and by his father's good sense, has not only nearly a thousand dollars in money, but has acquired a fund of information, in regard to feeding stock, that few boys of his age possess.—Kansas Farmer.

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.
NATURE'S GREAT REMEDY FOR THE THROAT AND LUNGS.

It is gratifying to us to inform the public that Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, for Throat and Lung Diseases, has gained an enviable reputation from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and from these to some of the first trial in Europe, not through the press alone, but by persons throughout the States actually benefited and cured at his office. While he publishes less, so say our reporters, he is unable to supply the demand. It gains and holds its reputation—First, Not by stopping cough, but by loosening and assisting nature to throw off the unhealthy matter collected about the throat and bronchial tubes, which causes irritation. Second, It removes the cause of irritation (which produces cough) of the mucous membrane and bronchial tubes, assists the lungs to act and throw off the unhealthy excretions, and purifies the blood. Third, It is free from opium, belladonna, ipecac, and opium, of which most throat and lung remedies are composed, which allay cough only, and disorganize the stomach. It has a soothing effect on the stomach, acts on the liver and kidneys, and is inhaled and nervous regions, thus reaching to every part of the system, and in its invigorating and purifying effects it has gained a reputation which must hold above all others in the market.
