VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Defence of the Legislature. ME. EDITOR:—The papers of both parties, and all descriptions, have cast great reproach on the late Legislature, especially the House of Representatives, thereby disgrasing the Commonwealth which committed so important concerns to man so unworthy. I was officially connected with the House, during the session, and was acquainted with the whole course of its business. I feel confident that I can measureably vindicate to you and your readers the fair fame of my adopted State, so far as it defining the session of the property of the session of t ators highly lauded till the secret was revealde that the ingrease had been inserted in the bill at the urgent request of many Senators.

The House deserves the credit of yielding to all the Senate's amendments that promoted by the Senate of the third of the commy, and objected only to some items of very doubtful economy and propriety inserted by the Senate. Of the odium of waste, as well as the eredit of saving, each house should take an equal share.

Of the general character of the House and its labors, the Resident Clerk, who has for many years been intimately acquainted with the legislation of the State, declares that in both it was superior to the average. Reform is doubtless needed, but cannot be promoted by declaring the whole mass of business iniquitous and the members a den of thieves.
The scene of pleasantry, on the last night of the seasion, called by some papers "a glorying in their shame," can surely be ascribed to a better motive. Legislators, about to separate after a session in which there had been no party bitterness, no angry passions stirred by the heat of debate, may show themselves "children of a larger growth" without severe ensure. Some truth was told by the invited and sarcastic lecturer on Reform, but it is not strange that the friends of pure legislation that of 1373 sanctioned, the Convention now min his mouth, as a sharp trick to attain some partisan and sinister end.

The Legislature of 1872 inaugurated, and that of 1873 sanctioned, the Convention now employed in framing a new code of fundamental law. When that instrument is completed and commeads itself to the good sease of the people, and that people select their best men to legislate under it, then, and only then, will Reform be accomplished.

I beg leave to suggest, for your consideration, that the citizens of the several townships of this county, be respectfully invited to send you specimens of minerals from their respective townships, viz: iron orc, coal, glass, sands, porcelain and fire clays, lime stone, slates, building and ornamental stone, &c., &c., with which to form feur cabinets of Huntingdon county minerals; one for the use of your association to be placed in the charge of the Clerk or Commissioners of this county, together with printed description of the several specimens, and a county map with figures to designate the locality of each of these, to which strangers and citizens may have access. gers and citizens may have access. Also similar cabinets, one for the State Cabinet, another for the Centennial Celebration, to form the nucleus of a National Mineral Cabinet, accessable to visitors from Europe and elsewhere.

On the 18th of April, 1866, I had prepared and sent to New York, for use of a Congress of business men, called to meet at Cooper Institute, samples and printed description of some of the ores, &c., &c., of the Aughwick Valley, Huntingdon Co., Pa. My letter to this Congress, published in the New York Heratd, was the only report made from that Congress, although the published all was signed by some two hundred distinguished and influential citizens of several states. The object to bring capitalists and manufacturers into more intimate relations with owners of mineral lands, etcetera.

The project was proper, and the intention deserving consideration, perhaps the error was in commencing at the mouth instead of the fountain head, the (Mountain Range) from whence our mineral fiver rises and flows towards the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

Your Centennial Mineral Exhibition presided over by Professor Lesslie, (Pennsylvania's distinguished and competent Geologist,) aided by efficient essaysits would canable visitors from Europe and elsewhere, to realize the extent, versality, and value, of our national mineral wealth—what the exchange is to the merchant and the Library to the compiler of History, such will be to manufacturers, capitalists, and the devytee of science, your County, Municipal, State, National and Centennial Cabinets of Minerals. All of which is respectably submitted for your and public consideration by your humble servant,

MCLIPS-Smos. PLAIN HOME TALK

A SPLENDID FARM AT NEWTON HAMILTON.

We will sell the magnificent farm adjoining the village of Newton Hamilton, in Mifflin county, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land, one hundred and fifty of which are cleared and in a fine state of cultivation, forty-five acres consist of an island, that never overflows, and which is in the highest state of cultivation. The buildings are a large double-floor bank barn, two good dwelling houses. There is an soundance of Limestone on it. There is also great quantities of water, the canal and river passing through it besides a number of excellent springs. Ten acres are covered with good timber. It is the farm adjoining the Camp Ground of the Juniata Valley Camp Meeting Association, and only one-fourth of a mile from the buildings to the railway station. A number of lots would no doubt find ready sale. There's no more desirable property along the line of the railroad. Price, $12,000, a dower of $4,000 to remain in: $2,000 in hand and the balance (6,000) in three qual annual payments with interest, to be secured in the usual manner. J. R. DUEBORROW & CO., Real Estate Agents, Huntingdon, Pa. Oct. 9,1872.
