What is a Grange?

It is an organization of farmers. It has for its object improvement. It is designed to elevate and enlighten the farmer. It would better qualify him for his God-given profession. It aims to bring about these objects by association. It unites those of the same calling into one grand brotherhood for the protection of all. It establishes every neighborhood a lecture-room -which is the grange itself-in which the important truths are unfolded. It disseminates valuable information, that all may be benefitted. It collects as well as disseminates. It is an intellectual institution. It calls for an exercise of the mind. It brings mind in contact with mind, and, by the contact, other minds are illuminated by the friction. It draws out latent talent. It makes active and tangible what has been before dormant and unseen. It shows the importance of cultivating brains as well as the soil. It demonstrates the fact that as rich harvests are developed by brain culture as by soil culture; that a great crop of weeds has grown up and smothered out the useful plants, by the neglect of brain culture. The grange is a social institution. It makes a grand brother and sisterhood. It unites by strong ties those that have before been strangers. It makes each feel an interest in all, and all in each. It heals up the wounds of the unfortunate. It administers comforts to the sick and elevates the sufferings of the distressed. It is a husband to the widow and a father to the orphan. It makes every neighborhood one kind, affectionate It is a financial institution. It seeks to obtain for its members the highest price for their products. It looks to the good of all. It learns how and when the price can be obtained. It buys the necessaries of life where they can be got cheapest and best. It throws its protecting arms over and around all, and would make them more independent .- Ex.

The Pods of Peas.

The Food Journal says: The pods of peas are commonly thrown away as refuse after shelling, or used only for feeding cattle or pigs; but when young and tender they are an excellent vegetable, very fit for being used in soups. There is a kind of pea called the Sugar pea, the pods of which have only a thin pellicle as an internal lining, instead of the hard lining found in other kinds, and peas of this kind are boiled in the pod and used like Kidney beans. The pods of the ordinary garden varieties are, however, of equally delicate flavor, and the only, but insuperable objection to their use as a boiled vegetable is the hard and unmasticable lining. They may, however, be used in soups, being, in the first place, boiled in a separate vessel until they can be rubbed to pieces. This is done by means of a wooden spoon, or similar implement, and the pea shells are then placed in a drainer having wide holes, with the water in which they were boiled, when the catable part passes through the drainer with the water, and forms an excellent addition to soups; or a good soup may be made by merely adding to it proper quantity of extract of meat, or the Australian cooked meat, and heating it a little. The strings and hard linings of the pods remain upon the drainer.

Seasoning Timber.

Experience has shown that the more rapidly lumber can be seasoned in open air the better the quality, and the less liable it is to be affected by the variableness of the atmosphere. During the months of July and August, the air is drier than at any other period, and consequently, better adapted to seasoning lumber. Planks or boards should be piled up under sheds open on all sides, to allow a free circulation of air; in no case ought lumber to be subject to the rays of the sun or rains, and it should be elevated two feet above the ground. If the shed has a floor it will be much better. As soon as the moist weather of the fall months commence, the shed bould be enclosed on all sides, and opene only on clear dry days. Lumber well "stuck up" under sheds of this kind will dry out in two seasons, and retain all the natural strength and elasticity of the timber. The bark should always be removed from white oak and hickory. The grow, ing scarcity of lumber necessitates more care in seasoning, if we would prevent prices advancing too rapidly

A Few Words to Farmers .- Take your son for a companion whenever you conveniently can, it will relieve the already over-burdened, anxious mother of so much care. It will gratify the boy; it will please the mother : it certainly ought to be pleasant to you. What mother's eye would not brighten when her child is kindly cared for? And when his eye kindles, his heart beats, and his tongue prattles faster and faster with the idea of "going with father," does she not share her little boy's happiness? and is not her love deepened by her husband's consideration, so just, and yet too often so extraordinary? It will keep him and you out of bad places, society and temptations into which you separately might enter. It will establish confidence, sympathy, esteem and love between you. It will give you abundant and very favorable opportunity to impart instruction, to infuse and cultivate noble principles, and to develop and strengthen a true manhood. It will enable him to "see the world," and to enjoy a certain liberty which may prevent that certain licentiousness which so often results from a sudden freedom from

A CHEAP DISINFECTANT.—The following is highly commended by those who have used it: Dissolve a bushel of salt in a barrel of water, and with the salt water slack a barrel of lime, which should be wet enough to form a kind of paste. For the purpose of a disinfectant, this home-made chloride of lime is nearly as good as that purchased at the shops and drug stores.—Use it freely about sinks, cellars, gutters, and outhouses.

Dr. Wengert's Family Medicines are considered superior to all others before the American public for the speedy and certain cure of the diseases for which they are recommended. Invalids, try them, and be canvined of the truth of what we assert. It is but ten months since they were first offered to the public, and to-day they are sold by first-class Druggists and Merchants in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, the Virginias, Ohio, Indiana, and the District of Columbia. Surely they are not humbugs or they would at be so highly commended by the intelligence of the most powerful states in all this fair land. They are classified so as to meet the most difficult diseases for which they are offered, not one medicine for all the diseases humanity is heir to.
