The Bedford County Press has been enlarged and otherwise improved. It is one of the sprightliest papers received at this office.

The elections held last week were devoid of general interest, and consequently our Democratic friends had considerable gains, which has so excited them that they are wild.

This article requires that all taxation shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected under general law.

It provides that the legislature shall continue and maintain the sinking fund, pay the interest of the public debt, and annually reduce the principal not less than $100,000.

It prohibits the use of the sinking fund for any other purpose. It declares the making of capital out of the public moneys by any of the officers of the state or member of general assembly a criminal offense.

The legislature is required to maintain a thorough and efficient system of public schools, and appropriate $1,000,000, annually for that purpose.

County officers are to be salaried, and the fees which they are authorized to receive shall be paid into the state or county treasury.

This article provides that the cumulative system of voting shall be applied to the election of directors and managers.

This article authorizes any association or corporation to organize for the purpose of constructing and operating a railroad or canal between any points in this state.

It prohibits railroads and canal companies from making any charge or unreasonable discrimination in freight charges, and limits the charge for freight in the same direction to an amount not exceeding the charge to a more distant station.

It also prohibits the consolidation of railroads and canals with competing lines by lease or otherwise, and no railroad or canal company doing the business of a common carrier to engage in any other business, or to hold or acquire lands.

No officer of any railroad or canal company shall furnish materials or supplies for any discrimination in charges or unreasonable facilities between transportation companies and individuals.

No free passes shall be granted except to officers and employees of such company, and no passenger railway in any city shall extend or construct their road without the consent of the local authorities.

The house will be increased to not less than 200 members, and the senate will contain 50—Philadelphia's representation being 38 members and 9 senators.

Section seven relates to special or local legislation in all the cases which heretofore appeared objectionable.

Section eight provides that nothing would save the building. Huge volumes of smoke poured from the windows of the structure, from which emerged the employees of the establishment.

shall vote for no more than two, and candidates highest in vote shall be declared elected.

SUFFRAGE AND ELECTION.

The general election is to be changed from the second Tuesday in October to the first Tuesday in November.

And the local elections will be held on the third Tuesday in February, at which the city ward, borough and township officers are to be elected.

An important provision is that every ballot shall be numbered and recorded on the list of voters opposite the name of the elector.

Another section refers all contested elections to the courts, including the election of the President and vice president of the United States.

TAXATION AND FINANCE.

This article requires that all taxation shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected under general law.

It provides that the legislature shall continue and maintain the sinking fund, pay the interest of the public debt, and annually reduce the principal not less than $100,000.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

The executive committee of the constitutional convention has authorized the publication of this circular to the members of the convention.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ROOMS, PHILADELPHIA, NOV. 5, 1873.—Sir: The executive committee appointed by the convention having conferred concerning the duties assigned to it, has deemed it expedient to address a communication to each member of the convention upon the following points, viz:

First. To communicate with the county commissioners in reference to the duties assigned them by the ordinance of submission.

Second. What assistance may be expected from the local press?

Third. To what extent will the county committees co-operate?

Fourth. The prevailing sentiment respecting the adoption of the constitution, and at what points, and when?

They further urge upon the members of the convention the necessity for personal effort in giving information to the public by such means as they may deem best adapted to their respective localities and local circumstances, and to this end suggest the propriety of each member giving such canvass as will insure the largest vote and the fullest understanding of the merits of the new constitution.

You are requested to communicate with this committee at your earliest convenience, and to suggest such matters touching the most effectual mode of submitting the work as you may deem expedient.

It is desirable to secure the co-operation of the respective county committees in obtaining a full vote, and for further assistance as they may think proper to render.

Please address your reply to the chairman of the convention at the convention hall, W. P. ARMSTRONG, Chairman.

Correspondence.

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31, 1873.

In the valley of Mahoning is situated this beautiful town of 2,000 inhabitants, and being situated on a small elevation, and surrounded by a beautiful and fertile plain, it becomes attractive and worthy of notice.

In the center of the town stands Westminster College, that noted seat of learning, which has sent forth many highly educated men and women, who are now filling places of honor and trust, not only in America but also in many other parts of the world.

Some are missionaries in India, Egypt, China and many other places. Westminster has had her troubles, her trials and misfortunes, along with other institutions; but notwithstanding all she has come out victorious, and now ranks among the first-class institutions of America, and by the earnest labors of Rev. E. T. Jeffries, D. D., President, she stands forth as a shining star which casts its rays of light over every nation.

Connected with the institution is a lecture association, called the "Westminster Lecture Association," through which we have been furnished with some first-class lectures, delivered by E. H. Burritt, Gen. Kilpatrick, Prof. Kidd, the Fat Contributor, and others. Gen. Kilpatrick, a short time since, gave us an eloquent lecture on the subject, "The American Stamp."

These lectures were not only highly entertaining, but also a great literary treat, and was greatly appreciated by all.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR

THE ALDINE, An Illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handicraft Periodical of the World.

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, which is issued with the regularity of a monthly journal, is the most interesting and characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful letters, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white.

Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year.
