posure of all your stock to all the winds and storms, and all of them liable to great damage, while being built or fed out. By providing suitable barns and stables one can avoid all these losses, cares and troubles, and feel confident security as every load of hay is committed to their keeping, and every animal is thriving under their kind protection during the cold

A writer in the Dutchess Farmer, among other things said concerning the advantages of having good barns, remarks that he believes it is safe to say that money invested in well constructed barns pays from twenty to fifty per cent. every year, and that all will agree to the statement when we take into consideration the full advantages. The time to build platforms and fence stacks every year; the increased expenses of doing haying; the ten per cent. in the loss of hay; the half ton saved on wintering every ox or cow, and, in the same proportion as we feed younger and smaller stock; the increased risk of losing stock; the increased cost of doing chores the disadvantage of having stock fixing constantly in your way, the continual ex-

terwards to serve, as his protector and friend. A human hand should first lift him gently to his feet, and direct his little mouth to the source of maternal nourish ment. With the human touch he should thus early be made to associate caresses and a supply for all his wants. Instead of yells and oaths and kicks and rude blows, he should hear only gentle, loving tones from the attendant's mouth, and pettings from his kindly palm. He should be taught to expect and watch for man's entrance to the stall or padlock where he is kept, as a dog waits for the coming of the master, as the season of joy and happiness. His little deer-like limbs should be handled, and he be taught to yield them promptly and without fear to the master's vells and oaths and kicks and rude blows, promptly and without fear to the master's touch. York communicated recently his practice in the management of his cows during the season when the grass begins to fail. He says the great secret of rearing and feeding stock successfully is to keep what you get—to have every pound of flesh and fat that is produced. The question lying still back of that is, how shall the fat and flesh | REGULATOR! be retained? What to do and how to do it REGULATOR! is the question. Hitherto I have always commenced feeding my cows meal in October and continued the regular extra feed through November; and we made more butter in one of those Autumn months than in any other month of the grazing season. oats, of equal parts, made of the pure grain.

I never "cob" my animals. I am down on that cob system of management. With every fifteen bushels of corn and oats I mingle, before it is ground, about one bushel of flaxseed. This improves the quality of the feed for animals of any kind, as ground flaxseed, when mingled with grain, is far better for milch cows, for horses, for fattening sheep, or for young stock of any kind, than oil meal. I sow a little flaxseed every year for the express purpose of having the seed to mingle with the grain that is ground into meal for my the grain that is ground into meas to be cown and other stock. I think this is the true way to make money—to save all that is made without losing any portion. The price $1.00 per package; sent by mail, postage paid, $1.01. This well known remedy is offered to the pu'lic, anotioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect speedy cure of longhs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaint, &c.

CONSUMPTION

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause be hind, as is the case with most preparations, but i loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irrita tion, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

THIS HOUSEHOLD REMEDY

Should be in the hands of every family and indi-vidual, as its prompt use for a slight cough or cold will cause immediate relief, while cases of long standing and apparently incurable character often yield to its wonderful curative powers, and its great adaptation to the wants of man when

and all those whose occupation requires an unusu-al exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the only preparation which will effectually and in-stantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper

SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston.

TR. CROOK'S WINE OF TAR!
