The Huntingdon Journal. Boots, Shoes and Leather. Karm and Kousehold. CAN'T BE BEATEN What a Young Lady Did. The Delaware county (Pa.) American JOHN H. WESTBROOK gives the following account of a young lady's success in poultry raising:
"In Concord, a farmer's daughter, during the past year, had the care of his poultry yard. In the spring she commenced LEATHERS. with about sixty fowls of the common BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, breeds, including one Dominque rooster and several hens of that stock. She also Hosiery, Shoe Findings, Carpet Sacks, Trunks &c., &c., &c., &c. had two roosters of the Patridge Cochin breed. From these she raised 350 chickens. All of which he is prepared to sell at greatly r When young she fed on cracked corn, but when fattening them gave whole corn, and Indian meal. During the season she sold eggs to the amount of $90, and from September 20th to January 17th she got ready DOWN WITH PRICES. WILLIAM AFRICA for the market 150 pair of chickens, which she sold for $260. She thinks the Domshe sold not seed in the best for market, but they inque much the best for market, but they are not hardy when young. She has some shows are not hardy when young. She has some cather Datridore Cochin breed which LADIES' GAITERS, GLOVE KID SHOES, inque much the best for market, but they hens of the Patridge Cochin breed which seen by this statement what may be done and a large supply of heavy work, suitable for me and boys, at very low prices. I have at all times an assortment of by proper attention to poultry, the profits being perhaps larger than any branch of HANDSOME BGOTS AND SHOES farming. It also shows that the business is one in which females may engage with is one in which females may engage with success. The time occupied in caring for sixty to a hundred hens doesn't average more than an hour or two a day. The exercise is light and pleasant and the change customer work, and orders solicited. S ercise is light and pleasant, and the change from household duties is rather agreeable

Singing to Cows.

Cows are sociable, and understand more than we suppose. The way I came in possession of this choice bit of knowledge, Tim and I used to sing to our cows. They Tim and I used to sing to our cows. They knew very quick when we changed from one tune to another. We have tried them CHEAP BOOT AND SHOE STORE repeatedly. When we sang sober church hymns, they'd lop their ears down, look serious and chew their cud very slowly, reminding me-no irreverance meditated -of nice old ladies in church, listening to durable manner the words of the preacher, yet all the time munching clover. Then we'd change to some quick air, "Yankee Doodle" or the OHN C. MILLER. like, and they would shake their heads, open their eyes, blink at us as much as to entirely, every cow would turn her head, as if asking us to go on with our singing. If it was pleasant, we generally sang together through the entire milking. I love- HILL STREET, the dear animals that add so much to our comfort. Boys, will you not be kind to the cows? - Canada Farmer.

Flax Seed for Stock.

A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker says: Before linseed cake was made so common in England, the seed was a good deal used to fatten cattle and given as food generally to young stock, by the best old-fashioned farmers. It can well remember several homesteads, about the years from 1820 to 1839, where large boilers were fixed for the purpose of boiling the seeds to a jelly, which was done, as any one may suppose, by a great deal of water being used to a small quantity of seed. My father used it freely to fatten all kinds of animals, and I well recollect some horses which had the finest kind of coats, their skin being full of mottled spots and shining like a looking-glass; and I have known cows which have had no fodder but chopped striw mixed with the jelly and, perhaps, a very little given in their racks, without being chopped, which have laid on flesh and fat faster than others eating hay and meal.

Value of Onions.

The Pacific Rural Press says: The onion deserves notice as an article of great consumption in this country, and it rises in importance when we consider that in ome countries, like Spain and Portugal, it forms one of the common and universal supports of life. It is interesting, therefore to know that in addition to the peculiar flavor which recommends it, the onion is remarkably nutritious. According to is remarkably nutritious. According to analysis, the dried onion contains from twenty-five to thirty per cont. of gluten; it ranks in this respect with the nutritious Committees to call and see goods made expressly it ranks in this respect with the nutritious pea and grains.
