His Sudden Death this Morning.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 16 .- Hon. H. Bucher Swoope, United States District Attorney for Western Pennsylvania, died this morn ing suddenly.

THE CASSVILLE SOLDIERS' OR PHAN SCANDAL.

The Joint Committee of the Legislature which was in session, at the time of issu ing our last paper, adjourned at ten o'clock on Tuesday night, to meet at the call of the Chairman, and returned to Harrisburg From twenty to twenty-five witnesses were examined, on the part of the people, and a great mountain of testimony rolled up to overwhelm the brute who has been, for the last year, assailing every prominen individual in this community, when he himself was as vulnerable as the vilest villain that ever disgraced a penitentiary or eked out an existence in Van Dieman's Land There is certainly "a destiny which shapes our ends," or this criminal might have gone on, for years, sowing his blight had he been content to confine his opera tions to the narrow limits of Cassville bu emboldened and hardened by crime, he sought a wider field for his peculiar qual ifications, and the impassioned prayers of a hundred, deeply wounded and terribly outraged mothers, brought about a check t his beasted prosperity-the price of or phans' blood.

The testimony sustained every charge, heretofore made in these columns, in re gard to this creature's guilt, and went far beyond any thing that our imagination could conjure up. It is clear and conclusive. It is of such a character that it is utterly impossible to successfully contradict it. Not if the entire orphan school including the employees, was specially dirilled, for weeks, for the purpose, and forced, by its brutal master, as he forced poor little girls, to swear in direct opposition. Yes, we know it is alleged that he proposes to impach the testimony presistion. Yes, we know it is alleged that he proposes to impach the testimony presented. After having endeavored, for years, to ruin the character of those placed, pure and guileless, in his hands, he now proposes to show that they have no character; after having endeavored, for years, and that they have no character; after having endeavored, for years, and which they have no character; after having endeavored, for years, and which they have no character; after having done all in his power to destroy the teachings of virtuous parents, he now proposes to reap the advantage of his own wrong, which, we might say, is a paradox when applied to law; having done all that a villain, black as Hades, could be to steep others in crime, he now proposes to reap the advantage of his own wrong, which, we might say, is a paradox when applied to law; having done all that a villain, black as Hades, could be to steep others in crime, he now proposes to reap the advantage of his own wrong, which, we might say, is a paradox when applied to law; having done all that a villain, black as Hades, could be successful.

The evidence may be summed up thus: He vilely assaulted his female pupils a ages ranging from thirteen to sixteen; he lard den," known as his office, where his door closed with a spring-lock, and here will be successful. Echo answers so anxiously sought? Echo answers, "where?" Conspicuus, only, we are constrained to say, by his absence!" He has charge of the interests of soldiers orphaus; is directly responsible for the conduct of the schools; and it might reasonably be supposed, that he could have interest enough; to be present at an investigation mow held by him, where the charges, to his knowledge, were of such a nature, as in any event, to seriously impair the efficiency of the symbol and the counting from being made. But this dignified and conscientious officer never showed his head! We are not surprised that the councel for the repondent asserted that Prof. Wickersham would be placed on the stand to prove that it was, only a political persecution! And suppose it was, which we deny, is not truth truth let the motive which produces it be as black as night? "The joint Committee engaged in this inquiry will meet on Wednesday next in Harrisburg. The members intend to make their investigation as thorough as circumstances will permit. It is not deemed probable that criminal proceedings will be instituted against Guss, as a result of this inquiry, because his more flagrant offences, and those for which he could be severely punished, are harred by the statute of limitations. The pupils at Cassville, however, should be promptly removed from his control or influence (he owns the school, buildings and farm on which they are located), and the man himself held up to public scorn as a moral leper. Pennsylvania should be made too hot for him. New evidence is coming to light, which shows that the full depth of his criminal depravity has not yet been

The new bankrupt law has, after protracted deand almost as many different views have occupresented on the subject as there are Members in Congress. On Thursday, Mr. Dawes reviewed the condition of the U.S. Treasury and the financial collected, will meet all legal demands upon the treasury without increased taxation. It is generally admitted however that the passage of the act in June 1872, making the horizontal reduction of ten per cent, on specified importation was a serious mistake. If the warning of Senator Scott had been heeded in time, and the passage of this section of the new tariff bill prevented, the Treasury would to day have been many millions of dollars in have been depreciated as it is at present. It is the opinion of many Congressmen that the 10 per cent. clause of the act should be repealed without delay, as one of the best means of adjusting the financial, manufacturing and labor questions. THE INDIANS—WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH THEM?

Almost daily, during the past week, fresh reports have come to Washington, of murders and depre-dations by the Indians on the distant frontier. No sooner have they been quie other, and the latest telegrams indicate a gener almovement on the part of the Sioux and their confederates to initiate a bloody war. On Thursday Gen. Sheridan telegraphed from New York as follows :

General W. T. Szerman, Washington, D. C.: trouble with the Sloux, which for some time past we been trying to avoid seems now to be beyond any blee solution. In addition to the killing of Lieux, Robi and Corporal Coleman, the chief clerk at the Red C agency has been killed.
