

The Huntingdon Journal.

Wednesday Morning, March 18, 1874.

READING MATTER ON EVERY PAGE.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Brief Notices—Home-made and Stolen.

Old Benaon has been on a high. Our new year is hard to beat.

The fitting season is almost here. Winter fingers in the lap of spring.

Huntingdon marksmen are invincible. Our new visiting cards are just the thing.

The clerks of the weather seem to have plenty of change. The local option law is a dead letter in some sections of the town.

The Conference of the M. E. Church is now in session at Altoona.

Port & Friedley's new business stand presents a cosy appearance.

Senator Scott spent several days in town last week.

The little birds welcomed the bright sunshine on Sunday afternoon.

Milwood Academy, at Shade Gap, will be open for pupils in the spring.

Thousand of them are the thing for merchants. Thousands of them in the Journal office.

The Court House is being prepared for the Hook and Ladder Company's festival.

The ladies of Williamsport have opened war on the liquor sellers of that city.

The most self-satisfied young man you see in the town is the least so to anybody.

People who want to get the word of their money should advertise in the Journal.

J. C. Crawford, esq., has been appointed Post Master at Shade Valley this county.

What has become of all the money? There appears to be very little in circulation here.

Mrs. Lisa Lee died suddenly at Shade Gap, on Friday night, 6th inst., of heart disease.

Dennis O'Rafferty laments the loss of his pig in another column. It is a plaintive wail.

A severe effort is being made at Harrisburg, to secure the passage of a General License Law.

Subscribe for the Journal, the cheapest paper in the county. Only $2 per roll in.

Quite a number of chickens have been stolen lately, from different parties, in Shilysburg.

Five more converts were baptized, by the Rev. Hunter, of the Baptist church, on Sunday last.

The new bridge, at the foot of Fourth street, is undergoing repair. Mr. Lamberson is the contractor.

Leister has not abandoned his new hotel yet. We would suggest Leister House, as an appropriate name.

John E. Saucier, esq., visited Philadelphia, last week and speaks favorably of the business prospects east.

Send along your job work. We keep a man to do this kind of work solely. Our work cannot be beaten.

The Watchman thinks because they have Clever in the Morrison House, "the pasture ought to be good."

King, of the Radical, dropped in last week and speaks favorably of matters and things in the Mountain City.

Reader, buy your envelopes at the Journal office and have your card printed on them. Everybody does this.

Shilysburg is about to have another ditch question. It is the same old ditch but breaking out in a new place.

Rev. Penseyacker was in town on Saturday and Sunday and his way to Conference. His little daughter is quite ill.

As a trundler our friend Joe Iseberg, of Henry & Co's, is a success. We like to see young men leaving the baby.

Judge Lewis' Brahma rooster has left. Perhaps he has gone to grow over the result of the late borough election.

What has become of all the butter? Are the cows on a strike? The Legislature ought to regulate this matter of strikes.

We are prepared to print horse bills in a superior style, having one of the handsomest cuts in the State. Give us your orders.

When you have your address printed on your envelopes your letters cannot well get lost. They are bound to come back in the course of time.

Mr. George Swift, of Shirley township, cut a severe gash in his foot, on Friday morning. He was splitting a stick of wood at the time and the axe glanced striking him on the instep.

If you are indebted to the printer, remember he needs his money badly, and will thank you most heartily for discharging the indebtedness. Gladden his heart by responding to his modest request.

David Friedley, of West Huntingdon, who had his hand badly cut, a week or two ago, by the bursting of a bottle that he was cleaning, died on Saturday last of paralysis and pulmonary disease.

Miss Eliza Gibson, daughter of the late James M. Gibson, of Bedford, has been lying very ill, in this place, with pulmonary symptoms, for several weeks. Her friends despair of her recovery.

If any of our friends desire to hear the argument in the Case case, they can take the 9:20 train on Thursday next and be in time. The argument will be held in the Senate chamber in the evening.

Our friend I. D. Massey has worn out one pair of shoes since he has opened on Washington street, and he has replaced them with something decidedly substantial. I. D. knows how to accommodate.

Samuel T. Brown, esq., will go to Harrisburg to participate in the argument before the Investigating Committee, on Thursday. Mr. Brown and his colleagues deserve much credit for their efforts in this case.

The editor of the Globe expects to have plenty of time to attend to his paper in a week or two. He ought not to anticipate the action of the committee. The court, however, may have its say about the matter.

We hope those indebted to us have not come to the conclusion that we can run our business and live without money. It takes a large sum of money to run our business, and we are not getting it. Come, friends, help us. [If]

The gentlemen who so promptly responded to our call for items have our thanks. It would give us great pleasure to receive items weekly from every township in the county.

We went the Journal to a local history of the times. There being now but one distillery in this internal revenue district, John G. Stewart, of Mt. Union, who resides near it, has been appointed U. S. gauger in place of Captain G. W. South, of Lewistown, who had filled the position for some time.

During the immersion, on Sunday last, a boy standing on the railroad track a stone which struck a small boy William A. Steel, cutting his scalp and laying the scalp bare for two inches. Boys should be severely punished for such indiscretions.

When you see a man who is always talking about taking care of number one please remember he only wants an opportunity to shove the hair off you. He will skin you close. The man who only lives for himself is an Ishmaelite. His hand is against everybody.

A Porter township man wants to know what has become of the young blood from Huntingdon, who went to Alexandria, to run one of his express trains on the Air Line Railroad, and who wakened up the following morning, minus his cash? It is said to be a bad road for green conductors.

A one-armed soldier stopped off the stage at Shade Gap, one day last week. Wishing to ride to the county, a horse was procured, but he added to a potato on the important "Squire for the loan of one, when he was informed that he could have the saddle, but must pay ten cents a day for the use of it!

The actual expenses of Huntingdon county, exclusive of the Alms House, for the year 1873, are $29,373.09. We doubt whether there is another county in the State that can make a similar exhibit in proportion to the population. It is considerably less than one dollar per head for every man, woman and child in the county.

A good story is out on one of the election officers of Dublin township. It appears that he failed to pay his boarding bill at the last Fall election, and at the Spring election, while eating his dinner, his hat disappeared! On inquiry he was politely informed by the landlady that his hat would not be forthcoming until that old bill was paid.

Dennis O'Rafferty is said to be in a terrible scrape—he can't read our Dutch letter. All he can make out of "deppel" is "de" and "del," and he has an idea it refers to Biddy, Wil, Dennis, Donny is just as much put "wid yer Irish."

And what is to be done; since that fight there is an unreasonable antagonism. The "Grassy Dutchman" hates the putten drinking Irishman.

The Standard endeavors to convey the impression that our friend, Will P. Conrad, is a Philadelphia man. "Not by a long shot." Mr. Conrad is a native of Shavers' Creek Valley and at present a property holder and resident of West Huntingdon. That was a shot in the dark, friend. Conrad is, however, connected with a Philadelphia house that does a slushing business.

The Altona Radical does not want to curtsy favor with one of the aspirants for Legislative honors, in that district, and intimates, if he should be elected, he will curtsy to so effectually that all the prayers of the Chaplain of the late Constitutional Convention shall save him. King, be careful, didn't you tell us those prayers were worth twelve and half cents a piece?

"A subscriber" writes to request "Donny Dellerschlecker, D. W." to write German like "Yohanna" or "Christy" to those who do not understand Pennsylvania German so as to be understood there. This cannot be done. "Donny" addresses a large class of readers, of whom we have quite a number, that cannot well be amused the other way. His letters will take up but little space and will be read and appreciated by somebody in every community.

The travel on the East Broad Top Railroad is on the increase, owing to a great extent, to the popularity of the Conductor and train hands. The Superintendent surely made a happy selection in the selection of men to run the first passenger train on this road. A special train was run from Ohio to Mt. Union and returned at double quick time one night a week or so ago, by the Superintendent of the road, for the purpose of taking Dr. Thompson out to receive an assistant superintendent, but it is a girl.

At Altoona, on Saturday last, an engine standing in the Pennsylvania railroad company's yard, that, at that time, got started in some way, without any person on it, and ran through the round house and across an open space into the large machine shop, running the entire length of the shop, over three hundred feet, in which over five hundred men were at work. One man named Curfman was killed and another named Bradley had his leg taken off and cannot live. It smashed everything in its course.

The Democratic parties are putting R. Bruce Petticoat on the ticket, telling him that he would make a tip-top Democratic candidate for Governor. The Centre Reporter, however, doesn't think so, and says that "we now hear a Huntingdon paper 'fetching him out' for Lieutenant Governor. Trot out your second rate material, there is some more of it on hand." This way we do not consider him even third class, and in Huntingdon, where he is best known, they consider his being mentioned in connection with the Lieutenant-Governorship, as a huge "hook."—Tyrone Herald.

"Observer" of the Mt. Union Times, gives the following Mt. Union items: Mount Union mill flourishing; another minister moves to the town; Five here now and another coming next Spring; Ground broken for a new house on Shirley Street; J. J. Robinson determines to erect three new houses; Jno. H. Miller will build a row of offices on Water Street.

Missionary work inaugurated. Rev. Creveling sells twenty-four family bibles in Mt. Union. One hundred and twenty more wanted to supply the demand; Young ladies of Mount Union assume themselves on Sunday afternoon through streets at telegraph poles and at unfortunate passers by; Heavy fall of snow on Friday; Boardwalks not all cleared off; Snow by the next Monday; Concert by Mount Union Orchestra and Dramatic Association on Monday evening.

Devoted success to B. K. Rodgers' method of teaching children to read in the school; Mr. Jeffrey has established a school with wood, etc.; Mr. Jeffrey has established a circulating library. We would like to see the enterprise prove a success.

THE TRIAL OF MARKSMANSHIP.—A Field Day for the Sporting Fraternity—Huntingdon versus Blair—The Mother County Beats Her Only Child—Five Hundred Dollars Change Hands.—For several days past a challenge has appeared in the columns of the Morning Tribune attached to which was the name of Mr. John Taylor, of Hollidaysburg, inviting to a trial of marksmanship any resident of Blair in the park field Centre, Huntingdon or Bedford counties, with Mr. M. M. Cartney, of Logan township, Blair county for a purse of one hundred to five hundred dollars or any sum to make the contest interesting. It was not long until the challenge so boldly heaped abroad by the friends of Mr. Cartney was accepted by a crack marksmen of Huntingdon, one Wm. P. Conrad. The preliminary arrangements, the time for the contest having all been arranged, the time for the contest to take place was yesterday morning on the grounds of the Central Pennsylvania Agricultural Society, near this city. Early in the morning the sporting fraternity of the city and of the county gathered on the quiet preparatory to the hour fixed for the match to begin at twelve o'clock noon—the Exchange hotel being headquarters.

It was agreed upon that the contest should be for a purse of one hundred dollars a side and the championship of the five counties named. Distance 100 yards, 20 shots off hand. At the appointed hour the friends of both parties arrived on the ground and the distance was laid out by the most competent marksman in the territory for a trial of marksmanship but yet both parties labored under the same disadvantages. The ground was covered with snow to the depth of several inches, the wind blowing a perfect hurricane and howling with the voice of a lion, while at the same time lifting up dense masses of snow and mudly driving into the faces of all present, and the excitement attendant upon the occasion was so intense that every one seemed wholly indifferent to the howling winds and stinging cold.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porter was celebrated in Alexandria, Pa., on last Monday, the 2nd inst.—The meeting of old friends, the pleasant reminiscences of fifty years ago, the anecdotes of the merry old times, as they sat around the hospitable board, groaning under its weight of dishes, will doubtless long be remembered by the guests. There were but few of those who had attended the wedding when the bride and groom were young and bony. All their children, of whom there are six, and there, except one, who resides at too great a distance to be present at this delightful meeting.

It is about three years since we recorded the golden wedding of John Porter, esq., elder son of the late Charles Porter, of this county. The two married daughters of the late Conrad Booher, esq., and have lived side by side for half a century, and it must be regarded by all as a most remarkable occurrence that both these gentlemen have been permitted to celebrate their golden weddings. We hope there are yet many happy years in store for them.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

NARROW ESCAPES FROM DEATH.—The carpenter at work on the Acqueduct below town, repairing the bottom, by putting in new timbers. The distance down to the water in the river is 34 feet, and the depth of water is some 14 feet. One day last week, while at work, Mr. Smeeth, dressed in his usual working clothes, was standing on the bridge, and his foot slipped, and he would have fallen a distance of 34 feet into the river. A day or two after, Mr. George Hommon missed his footing and fell down through the works into the river, striking the water with his shoulder; when he rose to the surface he saw to his astonishment that he had not fallen into the water, but was safely landed, he was so exhausted that he could not stand up.—Mt. Union Times.

THE LOSS OF ME PIG. DENNIS O'RAFFERTY.

On December the first, Of misfortune the worst. Its dark shadow threw 'er me prospects so fair; On the instant morn, With a pull of corn, To my shry the post in haste did repair.

Och now gramahree! To my shry the post in haste did repair. Me darlin wee pig in an agony lay, With death in his eye; To my shry the post in haste did repair.

For shure that that pig I three dollars did pay; Me own bonnie pig, With his head shelved so big, To my shry the post in haste did repair.

Before me own eye, The shippaid did die; To my shry the post in haste did repair.

Alas! cried fate; A barrel of mate, To my shry the post in haste did repair.

Was torn from me grasp by her pitiless hand; To my shry the post in haste did repair.

Would he were regained, So high is the price upon sugar-cured ham. Ould Biddy did cry, Och, woe did she say.

To my shry the post in haste did repair; To my shry the post in haste did repair.

On a Christmas mornin ye're flesh I would get; To my shry the post in haste did repair.

"What, Biddy," she i; "Fall him out of the shyte, To my shry the post in haste did repair.

"So be it, ye shure; To my shry the post in haste did repair; To my shry the post in haste did repair."

MAN'S AXE FACTORY.—A correspondent gives the following facts in regard to this establishment: "This Factory is located six miles North of Lewistown, in Millin county, Pennsylvania. The business of manufacturing axes was commenced at the present location by Mr. William Mann, in 1835. Mr. Mann was a man of high moral character, an excellent business man, and a man of great industry and energy."
