Profits of Sheep Farming in Nebraska WINE AND IRON BITTERS The farmer who settles on the fertile prairie of Nebraska, should make "livestock" a watchword. A correspondent in that State sends us the following encouraging "showing," made by Mr. Myers, of Gage county, a sheep farmer, who has been about four years in Nebraska. Gage county is in the southern portion of the State; and a branch of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad runs through it. The land is good and the natural grasses sweet and nutritive; but it is no more sweet and nutritive; but it is no more than a fair average of Nebraska, south of DYSPEPSIA, Mr. Myers thus "figures" the problem AND ALL FORMS OF of sheep farming in Nebraska, with a flock of 1,000 head:-100 tons of hay, costing INDIGESTION. $3.00 per ton for putting up, $300; 500 SOUR STOMACH, OF bushels of sheaf oats, $100; shepherding for 8 months, $150; wages of one man for RHEUMATISM, 4 months, 100; do., one month, $30; AT SCROFULA, washing, shearing and packing, $200 salt, $35; shedding for winter, $50; H. There can be nothing of more importance than thoroughness. Every live, progressive farmer must of necessity be thorough if he expects to make his occupation a success. He must not try to do too much by cultivating too many acres with too little help and machinery, nor should he keep more stock than can be kept in a good, thriving condition. He should aim to keep ahead of his work, which has been previously planned, and work out his plans to the very letter. Whatever is worth doing should he done well. Theroughness in the climate, &c.
