At the lower end a partition, with several ugly looking windows in it, divides off the lock-up, which is nightly patronized by half a score of tramps. "Honesty" has the reputation of running the best patronized house in town.

Leaving the main engine room the visitor enters the south room, formerly occupied by "Huntingdon," but now occupied by "The Independent Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1." The Hook and Ladder laddies have abundance of room. Casing, similar to that in the engine room, has been put up on the southern wall for the accommodation of the

We first enter the room occupied by the "Hunthe entire community, while unable, perhaps, tingdon"boys, which is handsomely furnished, carpeted and decorated with firemens' paraphanalia. Then, by a narrow hall, we pass the old Council Room, which is now being refitted for the Hook and Ladder boys, and enter the new Council Chamber. It is a very spacious room, well lighted and heated. In the northern end of the room a raised platform, with a comfortable chair and table, indicates the position of the Chief Burgess, when the Council is in session. The Assistpany. We confidently hope that they will not ant Burgesses and Council occupy a chair and be discouraged, and continue on until light table each forming a semi-circle about the platform. The furniture is plain, but neat, and it makes a very creditable appearance. The chandelier is in harmony with the furniture, and helps to set off the chamber to advantage. The lobby is not very extensive. The room is a very creditable one, and will compare favorably with any other Council Chamber, we have seen, in this section of the State.

> We ascended the Tower, by a succession staircases and platforms, and had a very fine view of the town. A bell, weighing about seventy pounds, has been mounted in the Lookout, and the whole is under a substantial frame roof covered with tin.

> We had little idea of the completeness of this structure previous to this visit. When entirely completed and furnished it will be a building of which the people of Huntingdon need not be ashame !. but on the other hand it will add much to their credit for spirit and enterprise.
