In its Course of Instruction, from the be-ginning to the close, its students are taught in the Christian religion. Starting with Lessons on the Life of Christ, the Course goes on to completion in Christian Cultus, Church Confessions and Christian Ethics.

Mercersburg College commends itself to public favor also by the advantages of its location. It is easy of access, being in direct railroad com-munication with the great thorough fares of travel on every side, and yet at the same time sufficiently retired to form a secure retreat from the stir and noise of public life. In this respect its students are removed from the excitement and distraction of a large city, and brought under the elevating and educational power of an undisturbed college life in the midst of scenery almost unrivaled in its hearty and according. beauty and grandeur. In point of air, water and general climate, it is all that the most anxious parents can desire.
