When potatoes are ripe they had better be dug and stored at once. It is the practice of many farmers to let them remain in the ground for weeks in order to prevent decay. Experience proves the practice to be wrong.

The Detroit Tribune says the story in irculation against the Clawson wheat that it would not make good flour, was started by a ring who held a large lot of Gold Medal, which they were afraid of not being able to sell.

Concerning the Bots.

Rary says: "In twenty-seven years' time I have never had a horse to die of been my opinion. Now it is generally known that a horse that has the bots does not appear to suffer until he is too far gone to be cured. To prevent fatal effects of my horses, in the month of September, the following remedy: Of Olive oil, honey and lemon juice, each, two ounces and a half; mix and give these to the horse; the next day purge well. Whether a horse be inclined or not to have the bots, this remedy will do him no harm."

I know of a remedy that is safe and certain. dicovered in the following way: About thirty years ago a friend of mine, lost by bots a fine horse. He took from the stomach of the dead horse about a gill of bots and brought them to our office to experiment upon. He made preparations of every remedy he had heard of, and put some of them into each. Most had no effect, a few effected them slightly, but sage tea more than anything else; that killed them in fifteen beauty and the ending of the end o hours. A bunch of tanzy was growing by my office. He took a handful of that, brusied it, added a little water, squeezed out the juice, and put some in , they were dead in one minute. Since then I have had it given to every horse I have seen affected with bots, and have never known dure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him VEGETINE and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he declares he is too well to be taking medicine.

> while asking what would be the effect if everbody farmed in the best manner. As individual farmers, we are competing with each other and selling in a common market. Our aim must be to lessen the cost of production and to raise such articles as will command the prices. We can lower the cost of production, by raising larger crops per acre, or by keeping such animals as give more milk and grow more rapidly in proportion to the food consumed. Prices depend on supply and demand. In feeding animals we can make close esti mates as to the cost of our products, but in raising crops, the influence of the season, of mildew and frost, of rain and drouth, and insects, must never be forgotten. Nothing we can do will ever make us independent of the weather. But it is certainly true as a rule that the good farmer suffers less from adverse seasons, insects, &c., than the farmer whose land is undrained, poor and weedy. During Mr. Lawes twenty years' experiments on barley, the least yield on the plat, without manure, was fifteen bushels per acre. The same year the adjoining plat, dressed with barn-yard manure, produced forty-eight bushels per acre. In a favorable season the result was forty four bushels, without manure, and sixty-five bushels with main the interest of the people of Huntingdon county, see ourselves compelled to pro-claim the following caution to all the trusting people of this county, and to open the eyes of the truth loving: It having come to our knowledge that a certain class of shop-keepers in this town considered themselves smart enough, as they are certainly unscrupulous enough in their means to attain a certain end, to pull the wool over the eyes of their former patrons, under a FALSE PRETENSE of shielding them against us by warning them not to buy an inferior article than they sell, they try to get a high price for their goods. Why do they not act as men of uprightness and fairness would do, acknowledge equality of goods, and by trying to undersell us, compel people to buy of them? But they seem to have forgotten, if they ever knew it, that the straight path is the best, and instead they choose to follow the path of crookedness, with its natural consequences of falsehood, and blindness to all that common sense dictates. We are astonished to hear a man talk of shoddy trash who advertises one of the necessities of life, namely calico, one of the commonest trashes (to use his refined expression) the universe can boast of. It has been remarked to us that a man who offers the best Madder prints, an article which would be easily mistaken for a poor imitation of cob-web, must be either knave, or a fool, or both. He either imagines he can fool his enlightened fellow-citizens with SOFTWORDS and bland smiles, or thinks they are not able to tell the difference, which would bring him under the humbugs. Having probably been living in the city for a short time and listening to the harrangue of street peddlers, now tries to imitate their style and tricks on an enlightened public, by advertising an article, which he either never kept, or never intends to sell at the advertised price. As they have posted in the city

WE, B. OPENHEIMER &SONS,

"BEWARE OF PICKPOCKETS!" we are to post up in front of such people's honses, BEWARE OF HUMBUGS and would do a lasting favor to all our fellow citizens. As a wolf in disguise is difficult to detect, except by a practiced eye, but when in his true hide everybody will be forewarned and therefore forearmed. LISTEN! LISTEN!
