The great wrong in Sheriff sales is in taking a very large amount of property to pay a small debt. Sometimes a property worth ten times the debt, when sold, does not pay one-tenth of it, and for the nine-tenths the poor debt-or is still bound if he ever accumulates anything the law can seize. Who would call this justice? It is alleged that the law does provide a just remedy by giving the right of assignment, and in the bankrupt act, but these are lame measures, the process is too complicated. when a man has added largely to the value of a property, and it is by law transferred to another, who has not moved a finger to obtain it, for but a tithe of its real value, is downright injustice. And it is to this process that objection is so seriously made. If nothing is added to an estate no one can seized, taken in execution and to be sold as the By tinware of M. S. & A. S. Harrison. Operations were confined to the creat of Brush Ridge, where the ore outcrops. The decomposed slate and earth covering it being excavated, the ore was easily removed with a pick and shovel. "About one-third fossil-ore was used at this time in making up the furnace burden; it proved to be of very good quality and as rich in iron as the brown hematite ores which had before this been used exclusively." The Broad mountain anticlinal passes through "The Lick" and the western end of Brush Ridge. As this anticlinal flexure is overturned, we find the Clinton rocks, along the north side of it, with a steep southerly dip. The ore outcrop on this dip. passes a little south of J.
