make the following extracts:

To show with what rapidity inventors made improvements on inventions embodying original principals, says the writer, it may be noted that in the early days of the sewing machine 116 patents were granted for improvements thereon in a single year; and out of the 2,910 patents issued in the year 1857, 152 were for improved cotton-gins and presses, 164 for improvements on the steam engine, and 198 for novel devices relating to rail-roads and improvements in the rellies. reads and improvements in the relling stock. In the year 1848, three years after the publication of this paper was commenced, but 660 patents were granted; but under the stimulus of publish-ing those inventions as they were patented, ten years later, in 1858 the number had increased six-fold, reaching 3,710, while up to January 1, 1850, as already stated, the aggregate of patents.

fold, reaching 3,710, while up to January 1, 1850, as alroady stated, the aggregate of patents issued amounted to 17,467; since that time and up to the present the total is 181,015.

And curiosity here leads us (adds the editor) to review our own work, extending back, say, twenty years, or to 1857, a period during which 179,745 patents have been issued. We find, by actual count, that 62,062 applications have been made through the Scientific American Patent Agency for Patents in the United States and abroad. This averages almost ten applications per day. Sundays averages almost ten applications per day, Sundays excluded, over the entire period, and bears the re-lation of more than one quarter to the total num-ber of patents issued in this country up to the time Competition Defied ! of writing.

EDITOR JOURNAL—Dear Sir:—There has been a great deal said on the Waiver of Exemption Note question; to me the subject does not seem to be exhausted, as the writers, in favor of them, do not defend them on any other ground than that not defend them on any other ground than that every poor man is a villian or a soundrel. I am aware that some men think it a crime to be poor. I am now an old man and have worked hard all my life and have felt the inconveniences of poverty, but do not feel the degration that Farmer or John Snoodenhobble would attach to poverty. (The last name ought to have been Logerhead). Farmer complains that poor men cheat the farmer out of his produce; there is no one who has lived to be ten years old but knows that Farmer never lost a dollar in his life by poor men or was the smallest advantage to a poor man; for he would never give him any employment unless the laborer or poor man would first agree to take something in exchange for his work, that the Farmer could neither eat nor sell. If he could pay him in damaged wheat or meat or buckwheat straw they could deal, not otherwise. If dry goods or grocery men were writing up the waiver note we would not think it hard or strange, but it is idle and ridiculous for a Farmer; who are by far the sharpest business men in the country; who never lose anything by bad debts, except when they deposit their money in the country; who never lose anything by bad debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything by and debts, except when they deposit their money in the country is who never lose anything the country is who never lose anything the country is who never lose anything the country is when the coun Sewing Machine.
