twice the amount of employment that all the manufacturing and mercantile establishments put together now afford. This must be evident to any one who will set down and make a calculation. Can any one, for a moment, doubt the great advantages of such an enterprise? Should any one hesitate, a single instant, to subscribe the last share of stock for which he can devise means to pay? Hundreds of hous the great advantages of such an enterprise? Hundreds of hous of the town and devise means to pay? Hundreds of hous of the town and the column; the world does the good faith of the town and woman who has a spark of pride will not leave it stick!

large concerns make handsome dividends, and more general every day of our lives. Ninety-four per cent. of that which is now used in America is imported from Europe; is it possible that it cannot be manufactured as cheap here as it can be manufactured over there, shipped three thousand miles, and be subjected to a heavy duty besides? It seems to us to be the merest twaddle to alledge that it cannot be. Here we have inexhaustible quantities of sand, as pure as can be found anywhere on the continent, tested in a hundred different glass establishments, and universally admitted to be the article wanted; here are thought differently we should be very loath to advise any one to invest more than he could realize out of it by the mere establishment of the Works.

During last summer, Messrs. Durfee and Gobert issued a pamphlet to the citizens of the United States, in which they make the following points in favor of establishing this grade of Glass Works in this country :

"1st. We have all the raw material of the very best quality.* We are enabled to say this as the result of a personal inspection of very many widely separated localities, some of which contain in close proximity nearly all the materials required. At several points that we have visited we find that the important items of coal, sand, and limestone are not only of better quality, but they can be delivered at the manufactory at much lower price than is paid in Belgian works.

"2d. A large saving of freight, insurance, breakage, and boxing; this last item is large, and could amount, owing to the comparative-ly low price of lumber in this country, to not more than one-third of the cost in European 113d. A saving of nearly all the expenses interest on capital, and profits represented by Glass in the principal sea-board cities.

"4th. There is a duty of fifty cents per square foot on "cast polished plate not silvered" on all plates over ten square feet, and twenty-five cents per foot on all below ten and over five square feet. The duty on the smaller sizes ranges from three to eight cents per square but over three fourths of the glass im ported is of large size and carries the larger duty, which at present prices amounts to abou cighty per cent. of the value of the glass abroad The duty on "cast polished plate silvered" is variable, the larger sizes over ten squar; feet carrying a duty of sixty cents per square foot, while plates over five square feet and less than ten carry a duty of thirty-five cents per square foot. The duty on "rough unpolished plate" is much less than the above, amounting on an average to but one and one-half cents per square foot; but at the same time the cost o manufacturing this variety of glass is much lower than that of polished plate, and its conmption much less. al are very low, and an establishment could be erected at a minimum cost both of money and

"6th. The certainty of a ready sale at remunerative prices for the product of the works; the American works already in operation pro-ducing but eleven per cent. of the total consumption of the country, and another establishment if erected would not probably pro-duce over another six per cent., so that there would be no danger of prices suffering by over

"7th. From our knowledge of the subject, resulting from extended experience and careful investigation, we believe that dividends of thirty per cent. upon the capital invested can be easily realized if the works are located and erected in accordance with sound manufacturing principles and the most recent improve-

"8th. We believe that the necessary skilled labor can be easily procured from Belgium, so that a new works can be started with a complete body of trained workmen, and will not be subject to the various mishaps and delays resulting from the attempt to educate inex-perienced men in new duties."

These practical representations, with the additional representations made by Messrs. Durfee and Gobert to the meeting on Tuesday night, ought to satisfy the ordinary mind that the project presents pecuniary advantages seldom presented to our people. No one can give a decent reason why it should not pay? The projectors, we are satisfied are honest and honorable men, above the littleness that so frequent-

THE SERVANT QUESTION.

The question of servants is what is now agitating the mind of the New York matron. In the olden time the intelligent farm house people of New England and the State of New York furnished "fired girls" for the city, but that is all gone. The factories, stores, telegraphy, book keeping, and kindred arts which are now almost the exclusive property of women, give this class employment, and New York families have had to depend upon foreign importation. The Irish girls have control of New York houses, and they have established a domination that is very severe. There are not servants enough who understand their business to fill the demand, and the result is, the Biddies are as exacting as they choose. They insist upon from $15 to $25 per month, and are very particular as to their rooms and the furnishing thereof, they demand a certain portion of their time out, and also stipulate as to what food they which to their offices property in the record in the control of the control of the countrol of the control of the co DROCLAMATION-Whereas, by a pro
