Cutting Back Young Trees.

We observe that mistakes are still made by some who set out young trees, and who are nevertheless aware of the importance of reducing the heads to correspond with the unavoidable reduction of the roots in taking up. The trees are set out, and the cutting back is put off till the new leaves are partly out. To do it then will do more harm than good. If not performed before the buds open, it should be entirely omitted. Growth is always checked by pruning when the leaves are opening or expanded. We have seen good trees nearly ruined in this way. If the operation is not already done, let all the roots and leaves remain, and make up for the neglect by keeping the surface of the soil for several feet about the tree constantly mellow, mulching with manure as hot weather approaches, and if the weather should be very hot and dry, daily showering the leaves, branches and stem. This showering should be regular, not occasional. There is a difference in different kinds of trees, as to the amount of injury caused by cutting back too late. Peach trees will withstand the effect of such treatment better than most kinds; apple trees not so well; cherry trees worst of all—we have seen them actually killed by it. Country Gentleman.

Working Land in Drouths.

During drouths crops should be well cultivated, as the working of the soil is always beneficial to the crops, no matter how severe a drouth may be. Then, also, is the best time to eradicate weeds, as the scorching sun and drying winds soon end their existence. When farmers see their crops wilting beneath the rays of the sun, and the ground without any perceptible moisture, having had no rain for four, six, eight weeks, they are excusable if they feel "blue," or have the "horrors," but during half a century I have never heard of more than a failure of about half of any crop in any part of the country from drouth, and in most cases, though drouths may be very severe, yet at last we get an average crop of most things. So let no farmer despair, as we are promised "seed time and harvest" to the end, and well has this promise been fulfilled up to the present season. When drouths come, work the harder, and when the rain comes—as it surely will come—let it find your cultivated crops free from weeds, and look at them, and see them grow as if by magic. You may say, as you look on a field of corn twenty-four hours after a soaking rain, "Can it be possible that this is the same parched up corn that I beheld here yesterday." The motto that old farmers should have posted up in their kitchens is "Never Despair!" Half the battle of life is won by cherishing a determination to take the world as it comes, and never to give up in view of adversity.

Hogs Need Sulphur.

One singular fact stated in the following paragraph which we take from the Louisiana Home Journal, has been repeatedly corroborated in the experience of the writer:

Whether hogs require sulphur as an essential to health or whether it is sought by them as a condiment, may not be discovered. But one thing is true, they devour it with great relish whenever it is to be found. It is for this purpose probably that they will eat large quantities of soft coal, which contains a large amount of sulphur. Perhaps this is the most economical method of supplying the hogs with sulphur during the winter, when they require a good deal of carbon. But in summer it is best to feed it to them in substances which contain less carbon on account of their producing less heat. Mustard is one of the best things for this purpose, and some of it should be sown in every pasture into which hogs are turned. If hogs are kept in, or are in small yards, it is well to supply them with wild mustard that grows in the fields or highways, or to cultivate some of the best varieties for them. They will eat its leaves, its flowers, seeds and stalks.

Some years ago we had occasion to buy a large quantity of Hocking valley (Ohio) coal. It was stored in a lot in the rear of a factory, easily entered by the neighbor's hogs, which were permitted to run at large in the town. On several occasions these hogs were observed to be eating the coal, and became such a nuisance that they were exoluded. They appeared to select the purest lumps, or those which on the fire would yield the most tar, melting, so to speak. Many of these hogs were very fat, not seeming to require any food

GOOD ADVICE.—The Maine Farmer says: "First enrich all the ground you can, and while you are at it enrich it well. Then plant what you can take good care of and no more. If it is weedy do not sow wheat on "the other half acre." If you try to smother weeds with wheat you will learn that "two can play at that game." Plant your weediest land and then hoe it. Clean cultivation for a crop is like extra feed for an animal. It gives that increased yield that makes the operation pay. Here in Maine we do not work large fields enough to make it profitable to give weeds a good a chance as we do the crop by half hoeing both; advice from New York to the contrary, notwithstanding. Whether you plant 1 or 2 acres of corn plant beans and pumpkins with it. Then they will get hoed when the corn does. I do not think it need to, or often does, make half the difference in the yield of corn that the Farmer called it; and as for the bother, it is our business to be bothered. It is the little bothers that make the difference between profit and loss."

A HORSE, no matter how vicious and obstinate he may be when attempts are made to shoe him, can be rendered quiet and manageable by making him inspire during the operation a few grains of the ethereal oil of parsley dropped on a handkerchief. A large number of trials of this substance have been made with the most troublesome and violent animals, and in every case with perfect success.

VEGETINE

IS MY FAMILY

MEDICINE.

I WISH NO OTHER.

PROVIDENCE, April 7, 1876.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: When I was about 8 years of age a humor broke out upon me, which my mother tried to cure by giving me hot teas and all other such remedies as she knew of, but it continued to grow worse, until finally she consulted a physician and he said I had the salt rheum, and doctored me for that complaint. He relieved me some, but said I could not be permanently cured as the disease originated in the blood. I remained a great sufferer for many years, until I heard of and consulted a physician, who said I had the scrofulous humor and if I would allow him to doctor me he would cure me. I did so, and he commenced healing up my sores and succeeded in effecting an external cure, but in a short time the disease appeared again in a worse form than ever, as cancerous humor upon my lungs, throat and head. I suffered the most terrible pain, and there seemed to be no remedy, and my friends thought I must soon die, when my attention was called, while reading a newspaper, to a VEGETINE testimonial of Mrs. Waterhouse, No. 364 Athens Street, South Boston, and I, formerly residing in South Boston and being personally acquainted with her and knowing her former feeble health, I concluded I would try the Vegetine. After I had taken two bottles it seemed to force the sores out of my system. I had running sores in my ears which for a time were very painful but I continued to take the Vegetine until I had taken about 25 bottles, my health improving all the time from the commencement of the first bottle, and the sores to heal. I commenced taking the Vegetine in 1872, and continued its constant use for 6 months. At the present time my health is better than it ever has been since I was a child. The Vegetine is what helped me, and I most cordially recommend it to all sufferers, especially my friends. I had been a sufferer for over 30 years, and until I used the Vegetine, I found no remedy; now I use it as my family medicine, and wish no other. MRS. B. C. COOPER,
No. 1 Joy Street, Providence, R. I.

VEGETINE.

The range of disorders which yield to the influence of this medicine, and the number of defined diseases which it never fails to cure, are greater than any other single medicine has hitherto been even recommended for by any other than the proprietors of some quack nostrum. These diseases are Scrofula and all eruptive diseases and Tumors Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, and Spinal Complaints and all inflammatory symptoms; Ulcers, all Syphilitic diseases, Kidney and bladder diseases, Dropsy, the whole train of painful disorders which so generally afflict American women, and which carry annually thousands of them to premature graves; Dyspepsia, that universal curse of American manhood, Heartburn, Piles, Constipation, Nervousness, Inability to sleep, and impure blood.

This is a formidable list of human ailments for any single medicine to successfully attack, and it is not probable that any one article before the public has the power to cure the quarter of them except Vegetine. It lays the axe at the root of the tree of disease by first eliminating every impurity from the blood, promoting the secretions, opening the pores—the great escape valves of the system—invigorating the liver to its full and natural action, cleansing the stomach and strengthening digestion. This much accomplished, the speedy and the permanent cure of not only the diseases we have enumerated, but likewise the whole train of chronic and constitutional disorders is certainto follow. This is precisely what Vegetine does, and it does it so quickly, and so easily, that it is an accomplished fact almost before the patient is aware of it himself.

BEST REMEDY IN THE LAND.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Sept., 23, 1876.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: I desire to state to you that I was afflicted with a breaking out of blotches and pimples on my face and neck for several years. I have tried many remedies, but none cured the humor on my face and neck. After using 2 or 3 bottles of your Vegetine the humor was entire y cured. I do certainly believe it is the best medicine for all impurities of the blood that there is in the land, and I should highly recommend it to the afflicted public. Truly Yours,
P. PERRINE, Architect.

Mr. Perrine is a well-known Architect and builder of Little Falls, N. Y., having lived there and in the vicinity for the last 33 years.

The following is an extract from a description of Vineland, published in the New York Tribune, by the well known Agriculturist, Solon Robinson:

All of the farmers were of the "well-to-do" sort, and some of them, who have turned their attention to fruits and market gardening, have grown rich. The soil is loam, varying from sandy to clayey, and surface gently undulating, intersected with small streams and occasional wet meadows, in which deposits of peat or muck are stored, sufficient to fertilize the whole upland surface, after it has been exhausted of its natural fertility.

It is certainly one of the most extensive tracts, in an almost level position, and suitable condition for pleasant farming, that we know of this side of the Western prairies. We found some of the oldest farms apparently as profitably productive as when first cleared of forest fifty or a hundred years ago.

The geologist would soon discover the cause of this continued fertility. The whole country is a marine deposit, and all through the soil we found evidences of calcareous substances, generally in the form of indurated calcareous marl, showing many distinct forms of ancient shells, of the tertiary formation; and this marly substance is scattered all through the soil, in a very comminuted form, and in the exact condition most easily assimilated by such plants as the farmer desires to cultivate.
