I thank you "WHAT IS A 'HOODLUM ?" - During the past week or two we have heard the above question repeatedly asked, and the following answer we find in the Philadelphia Ledger The word "hoodlum" is used on the Pacific coast as a descriptive term for idle young rowdies of the kind that make up the gangs of "corner loungers" of our Atlantic cities. They stand about in groups in the disorderly parts of all towns, and are very free with their foul tongues in making offensive remarks upon all persons passing by. If spoken to about their conduct, they reply by repeating their insults, and indulging in other ruffianism, including profanity, obscenity, and, not infre-quently, actual assault with fists, clubs and stones. This tribe of rascally boys and young men the Californians call "hoodlums." There is no peculiarity about the matter but the name. There are plenty of just such fellows about the outskirts of our large towns, and some small ones too. The "hoodlum" is the hem.

Having recently been engaged in investigating the history of the early iron enterprises of Huntingdon county, and in furnishing information for a work upon the iron manufactures of Pennsylvania, now in course of preparation by Mr. James M. Swank, Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association, Philadelphia, I have gathered many facts in addition to those that will be used by that gentleman and that have not been heretofore published. The building of the first furnaces and forges in this county is scarcely within the recollection of any person now living, and it is remarkable how nearly correct knowledge upon the subject has passed from the minds of the present generation. At the beginning of my inquiries I was disposed to rely upon reminissences and traditions given me by the oldest inhabitants, but I soon discovered that I was being led into numerous errors, and was convinced that these sources of information, especially with relation to events occurring as early as the beginning of the present century were entirely unreliable. I therefore sought and found data supported by written and cotemporary evidence.

IMPORTANT.—Many grocerymen and other dealers in tobacco, are in the habit of cutting plugs of tobacco up into small pieces and retailing them from cases, jars, etc., which is a technical violation of the Internal Revenue laws. The law allows retail dealers to sell only from packages properly stamped. Tobac-co can only be retailed from stamped pack-ages, and to sell it otherwise than from the original stamped packages they are liable to seisure. Peremptory orders are issued to Revenue Agents and Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue to seize all tobacco not found in stamped packages. Penalities are inflicted for not destroying stamps on cigar boxes and tobacco packages as soon as emptited. If all engaged in the sale of tobacco and cigars read this and comply with the requirement they will save money and trouble.

The proprietors, Messrs. Anderson & Schneider, have just burnta kiln, and we have it from competent judges that the quality of tile and drain pipe taken from it is surpassed by no other establishment in the country. They have two kinds of clay—yellow and blue—in close proximity to their works, either of which is well adapted to the manufacture of these articles, and Mr. Patton and Col. Samuel Miles, two Revolutionary soldiers, who were intimate acquaintances and friends of Greenberry Dorsey. From them Dorsey purchased metal to make iron at Barree forge; hauling it in wagons a distance of thirty miles over rough roads. It is probable that the forge was built for the purpose of working the metal made at Centre furnace. HUNTINGDON FURNACE.

This furnace is usually said to have been bui This furnace is usually said to have been built by John Gloninger and George Anshutz, and this may be strictly correct, but they did not build it as joint owners. It was erected in 1796, upon land belonging to Mordecai Massey and for which he had patents. On the 10th of August, 1808, Massey conveyed to Gloninger an interest in the lands, the deed containing the following recital: "Whereas the said Mordecai Massey and John Gloninger by certain articles of agreement have agreed to erect and did erect a furnace in partnership," &c.

He then conveys to Gloninger all of the lands, "excepting and reserving the one fourth part of

He then conveys to Gloninger all of the lands, "excepting and reserving the one fourth part of said furnace and lands which he the said Mordecai Massey has since sold unto George Shoenberger," &c. On the same day Massey conveyed to Shoen-berger the one fourth reserved in the above men-tioned deed. This seems to have been the be-ginning of Shoenberger's connection with the furnace.

On the 30th of Juna. 1814 the Assignment of

On the 30th of June, 1814, the Assignees of Martin Dubs, who had made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and who must have obtained his interest from Gloninger, conveyed to George Anshutz all of Dubs' interest, excepting and reserving the one fourth, and on the 10th of March, 1825, Gloninger conveyed to Anshutz all of his interest, excepting and reserving the one fourth. These deeds were made to Anshutz in pursuance of an agreement between Gloninger, Dubs and himself, dated Nov. 11th, 1808, in which Gloringer and Dubs, "did agree to admit the said George Anshutz into the partnership aforesaid and to let him have the one fourth part of the Huntingdon furnace," &c. Thus it seems that Anshutz had no interest until 1808, and no title till 1814. till 1814.

The land upon which Juniata forge stands was patented to Andrew Anderson, April 22nd, 1794; to conveyed by him to Peter Shoenberger, June 13th, of the same year, and by the latter to George Shoenberger, Spetember 27th, 1890. On this tract, Peter Shoenberger laid out the town of Petersburg, the plan of which was recorded May 28th, 1795.

As to the time of the erection of the forge, we find that it was built prior to 1805. On the 29th of January, of that year, Samuel Fahnestock, of Lancaster, and George Shoenberger entered into an agreement, which contains the following: "The said Samuel Fahnestock, for himself, his heirs, &c., doth grant, bargain and sell unto the said George Shoenberger, his heirs, &c., all his mioty or equeal share of a certain forge (salled Juniata forge) situate in West township, Huntingdon county," &c. From the best information that can be obtained, it appears that the forge was built the previous year, 1804, by Shoenberger and Fahnestock.

S. Consul at Pevuambueo, Brazil, S. A.

This was a death under peculiar trying circumstances. This estimable lady was a native of Schenectady, N. Y., and at the time of her death was a guest among the relatives of her husband. Only two weeks before her decease, she had arrived with a sister's daughter, in apparently good health, and in quite cheerful spirits. Suddenly she was prostrated by sickness on the 3d of August, and, despite the diligent efforts of her many friends, on the 6th inst. she fell into a complete stapor from which she did not recover, even for an instant. This stupor, commencing on Monday, A. M., the 6th inst., continued, uninterrupted, until she died. Her separation from her absent husband, on duty, at his post under the Government, was a severe trial to her. She had found it impossible after trying it, to endure the climate of Brazil with her husband and yielding to the imperative necessity she had returned to New York about two years ago. During that time she had not seen her hus-
