DEATH FROM A NEEDLE .- About a month ago a twelve year old daughter of Rev. J. A. J. Williams, of Roaring Spring, complained of a difficulty in swallowing and breathing. She also alleged that she had swallowed a needle or a pin. Dr. Stayer was sent for and examined her throat and also gave her some medicine. She soon recovered and appeared to be restored to her usual health.— Two weeks ago the little girl again complained of the difficulty in her throat. She became quite sick, nor did any remedy alleviate her

They found her suffering with a difficulty in breathing; her pulse was hurried; one of the fingers of her left hand was gangrened; the left lung was apparently solidified; there was no circulation in the left arm. The physicians informed the parents that there was no hope for the child. She died on Friday.

In accordance with the wishes of the tather a post mortem examination was held on Saturday by Drs. Irwin and Stayer. In the cavity day by Drs. Irwin and Stayer. In the cavity of the chest was found a pint or more of blood. This blood had forced the left lung upwards, stopping the circulation in the left arm. It had forced the heart out of its position, over toward the right side, and had also crowded the right lung out of position. The left lung was solidified and gangrened. In this lung was found a long, fine cambric needle the evident cause of her death. The child was right. She had swallowed a needle and had resulted in her death.

We do not know that we have been able to give the above facts just as the physicians would state them, but we have done our best, and the report is believed to be essentially correct.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

The millions are made a thing to brag of by cutting down your wages. Every man not controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad is with you heart and soul. So long as you are orderly, interfering in no other's business, you will have the support of Blair county and of Pennsylvania. I was colonel commanding the Fifth Regiment, and have had in the past a great deal of bad luck, but I think that I have, as the boys say, "struck a good streak just now," and I wish to add one thing just here: Not one man under the present military code of Pennsylvania, can be compelled to turn out. There is nothing in the military law that can be construed as compulsory. In conclusion I would say, as a better man said before, "United you stand, dir vided you fall." Now is the accepted time. LOCATING LAND IN THE WEST .- The Philadelphia Ledger gives the following information in regard to the Homestead law: The first step is to select the land to be entered, and the next to make affidavit before th Register or Receiver of the land Office in which the entry is to be made, setting forth that the applicant is the head of a family, is twentythe applicant is the head of a family, is twenty-one or more years of age, or has performed service in the army or navy of the United States, that the application is made for his exclusive use and benefit, and that it is made for the purpose of actual settlement and cultivation, and not, either directly or indirectly, for the use and benefit of any erson. On filing this affidavit the fee is $5 if the entry is of not more than eighty acres, and $10 if more. A registry fee of $1 for each declaratory statement filed; a commission to be paid by the homestead applicant, at the time of entry, of one per cent. on the cash price as fixed by law of the land applied for and a like commission when the claim is finally established, and the certificate issued finally established, and the certificate issued therefor as the basis of a patent. There is also, it appears, an additional fee of $5 for this final certificate. But a patent for the land cannot be obtained until fire years from the date of the entry, when he must prove by two witnesses that he has resided on the land or cultivated it during that period, that no part of the land has been alienated, etc. The law does not appear to exact any fee for the issue of the patent. An honorable discharged soldier or sailor has six months after locating his homestead and filing a declaratory statement within which to commence his settlement his homestead and filing a declaratory state-ment within which to commence his settlement and improvement, and he may perfect title in one year, provided he served four years in the or cultivation required of other persons.

To FISHERMEN.-We find the follow ing paragraph in the Elmira Gazette, of a late date, and transfer it to our columns for the consideration of bass anglers in this neighbor-

"Yesterday Mr. Silas McLaughlin and Mr. Josiah Richmond fished for bass in the river near the Mountain House. They caught a fine lot. On dressing them they found inside a quantity of small white worms, 'alive and quantity of small white worms, 'alive and kicking.' They concluded not to use the fish caught, not liking the looks of the worms contained in the bess. One of the fish brought to this office had half a dozen or more of the worms, one of which was over half an inch long. The question now arises are bass, thus affected, good cating? It is said for a month, this cases of the contained to the cases. at this season, such worms are common to the fish; and after a time disappear. The presence of them in bass have been known to fishermen for some time; and some say that they are not injurious to the fish, although we should say they were to the eater. As for ourself we prefer no bass on our plate just now."

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT .- We regret to chronicle that our aged townsman, Andrew Johnston, eq., accidentally shot himself on Saturday evening last, at his residence on Second street. He was outside his house engaged in fixing a Colt's seven shooter, and held it between his knees with the hammer held it between his knees with the hammer raised and caps on, when the revolver slipped and fell to the ground, and was immediately discharged. The ball penetrated the flesh of his right thigh, going through near the centre but not touching the bone, and passed upwards cutting his undershirt in one or two places, and cut his chin and right cheek bone. places, and cut his chin and right cheek bone. He walked into the house when a physician was immediately sent for and the wounds properly dressed. It was a very narrow escape from death, as the ball entered the thigh within half an inch of the great artery, and as it is he is very weak from the loss of blood. Mr. Johnston is a well-known and respected citizen and his meny friends symmethies with citizen, and his many friends sympathize with him in the misfortnne.—Local News.

COL. JIM MILLIKEN ARRESTED. - Col. A Result of Obstructed Dig estion. Among the hurtful consequences of obstructed ligestion, is the impoverishment of the vital fluid which not only produces dangerous organ-ic weakness, but according to the best medical authorities, sometimes causes asphyxia, it is apparent that to improve the quality of the blood by promoting digestion and assimilation, is a wise precaution. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is precisely the remedy for this purpose, since it stimulates the gastric juices, conquers those bilious and evacuative irregularities which interfere with the digestive processes, promotes assimilation of the food by the blood, and purifies as well as enriches it. ment in his favor. We have known this to be done; again, Squires often act as counsel for the Plaintiff. They hear his complaint, they lay out for him the best plan to bring his action in order to beat the Defendant. The reader will readily see the situation of the squire; he has the Plaintiff's side of the trouble whatever it may be, and has laid out for him the best plan to defeat his opponent, and of course will feel like seeing him through, and is really prejudiced against the Defendant when he comes before him, so that he is not prepared to do him justice, or hear his side of the question. There are however, some exceptions to tais kind of practice. When the parties appear with an action before this kind of a squire, if the Defendant is poor, and a man of little or no influence, he will proceed at once to try the case and decide in favor of the Plaintiff, telling the poor Defendant at the same time that he cannot do otherwise according to the acts of Assembly. But, when the parties appear before him, if he dizeovers that the Defendant is a men of wealth and influence and that some day he may wield a power state the Defendant is a men of wealth and influence and that some day he may wield a power against him, he will address the parties thus: "Gentlemen, as this matter between you is rather complicated, I would much rather you would appoint reierees to decide the case, and you will oblige me by doing so." Again we have known the magistrate to allow the Plaintiff to reduce his bill when it exceeded $5.33 in order to prevent the Defendant from appealing from his judgment, and nent in his favor. . There is more truth in this old gentleman's remarks than poetry. We were present at a trial before a squire some time ago where we heard the Plaintiff make this remark to the Defendant before the squire had passed his judgment: "You can appeal and take this suit to court if you wish to do so I am entirely satisfied." This showed that the squire had promised him the judgment, and the sequel proved the fact, although it was a very unrighteous decision, he gave judgment in favor of the Plaintiff, and if we had not been personally acquainted with the squire we would have been the Plaintiff, and if we had not been personally acquainted with the squire we would have been certain he was acting as attorney for the Plaintiff all through the trial. A Justice who will listen to every little complaint that is made to him, and encourages the party to bring a suit, (as many squires do) will keep his neighborhood in a continued turmoil. The writer has often persuaded men to make up a difficulty without ever issuing a writ and had them to partigood friends. It is often easier to commence a suit than to close it, suits are often carried on for years in consequence of costs that have accrued that neither party want to pay. A man came to our office once and said he wanted to bring suit against L., but said he I want to make a sure thing of it. He went on then and stated his case, and what he was able to prove, and to make a sure thing of it. He went on then and stated his case, and what he was able to prove, and after he was through he wanted to know whether we would be certain to give judgment in his favor, provided he would prove everything just as he had stated. We replied that we never had, and never would, decide a case as a Justice, until we had heard both sides of the question, told him that in all probability after hearing the Defendant's story we would give judgment against him. He left in a bad humor and returned the same day and urged us still more to promise him the judgment, still we refused. We relate this to show how Justices are tried sometimes and that bargains of this kind A FINE HEAD OF HAIR is such an indisponsable adjunct to beauty that no one who prizes good looks should neglect to use "London Hair Color Restorer," the mest delightful article ever introduced to the American people for increasing its growth, restoring its natural color, and at the same time a lovely hair dressing and beautifier. It is a fact, that one dishonest Justice in a community brings more or less disgrace on all the rest. We feel this, and no doubt others do too. We have been called "Squire" for almost fifteen years, and we feel like blushing yet, when we are introduced to a stranger as a Justice lest he may think we are like one of those described above. Before closing we have one favor to ask of every Justice who may read the above. Look over your dockets and see how many suits you have decided in favor of the Defendant, if any, and how often you have acted as counsel and Justice both for the Plaintiff, and would it not be well for you and I before we pass our judgment on a suit just to think for one pass our judgment on a suit just to think for one nent of the hereafter and the "little house or the hill" that you and I will soon occupy. "And all whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." In our next we will try o show the honorable position Justices of the eace should hold in the community and what heir practice must be in order to gain that posion.
