fying the desires of fishermen. During the last several years fish of various varieties have been placed in the Juniata, at this point, and the result is seen on our streets every day in the week in large strings of black bass. With this variety the Susquehanna, from its mouth to the head waters of both the Juniatas, may now be said to be well stocked. It is not uncommon to hear of black bass weighing three and four pounds being caught at this point of the Juniata River and the Raystown Branch On the 1st inst., a new variety of bass was introduced into our river. Mr. Hewitt, carrying out the promise made in the last report of the State Commissioners of Fisheres, sent to this place twenty-five Grass Bass. They were in good condition, and were in charge of Mr. Seth Weeks, of Newark, Ohio, who placed them in care of George B. This variety is a native of our western waters, and is, in the language of Prof. Reitland, in the American Sportsman, "the fish for the million." For endurance and rapidity of increase it is unequalled. Its weight will vary with age, the quality of water and feeding ground, attaining often five and six pounds, is lighter in color than our common bass, longer and narrower. All persons should abstain from fishing in Fishers' dam, in the Juniata, during this and next season, so that they will become settled and acquainted with our waters. They are universal favorites wherever known, and live harmoniously with all other fish, refraining from attacks, but formidable in resistance.
