COURT PROCEEDINGS .- The present session of Court has been one of the busiest that Huntingdon has seen for years. The Quarter Ses-sions opened on Monday of last week with the trial of the case of the Commonwealth vs. Jacob Zilius, who was indicted for offenses "too numerous to ention." and convicted of no less than four, viz: selling liquor without license, selling liquor to minors, selling liquor on Sunday and keeping a brothel. A largo majority of young men of this town, who would not like to see ther names in print in connection with this case, were called up-on to testify to the scenes enacted in the "Eagle Hotel," kept by Jacob Zilius in West Huntingdon. Several cases of minor interest, in which the deendants were charged with assault and battery and fornication and bastardy, carrying concealed and fornication and bastardy, carrying concealed weapons, wife descriton, disturbing the public peace etc., were tried on Monday and Tuesday. On Tuesday afternoon a case of more than ordi-nary importance was tried, namely the Common-wealth vs. C. Smith, George Taylor, K. Miller and Malissa Tennyson, in which the defendants just named were charged by the Rev. J. W. Curry of Alteona, with a crime of conspiracy. Malissa Tennyson, the last named defendant, is a colored girl, exceedingly diminutive in body and intellect.
