TO SCHOOL DIRECTORS .- Election County Superintendents .- As the time for the lection of Superintendents is near at hand, we publish the following advice and sug-gestions, for the guidance of directors. The article is from the columns of the School meet in Convention, in this place, on Tuesday, the 7th day of May:

- Superintendents of schools are to be elected on uesday, the 7th of May next, in all the counties
- election. Let whole communities see to it that the best men shall be chosen.

 County conventions of directors will be called to assemble at the respective county seats, by the county superindentents now in office. The best place for meeting is generally the Court House.
 City and borough conventions will be called by the proper board of directors or controllers in the manner prescribed by law in their usual place of manner prescribed by law in their usual place of meeting. The directors of cities and boroughs that elect superintendents of their own cannot take part in the county conventions. The law
- assistant secretaries may be elected, if desired. County superintendents generally have in their possession full lists of the directors in their respective counties; and when this is the case, a list with the districts properly designated should be handed to the president of the convertion. It should be read, in order that all errors may be should be read, in order that all errors may be corrected, and that it may be known who are present. If the county superintendent cannot furnish a list of the directors, some one from each district represented should hand to the president the names of the directors in his district from which the secretary should prepare a roll, and this, when called, will show who are present. In voting the name of each director must be distinctly called, and his vote recorded: that is, the vote must be taken by yeas and nays. It requires not only a majority of the members woting, but of those pres-
- majority of the members voting, seek, to elect a superintendent.

 Knowing who are members, the convention is prepared to fix the salary of the office of county superintendent for the coming term of three years. It will be found best in nearly every case to fix the salary before electing the officer. If several sums are named, the vote shall be first taken upon the highest, but if a majority of directors do not the highest, but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not the highest but if a majority of directors do not high the highest but if a majority of directors do not high the highest but if a majority of directors do not high the highest but if a majority of directors do not high the highest but if a majority of directors do not high the high the highest but if a superintendent is a subject to fix the electric pole, for example, for example, for example, for example, the pole six sided cubes of silver, and at the negative pole six sided cubes of silver, and at the positive, crystals of silica and chalcedony. The heat was also high the majority of the members voting, but of those present, to elect a superintendent. It will be found best in nearly every case to fix the salary before electing the officer. If several sums are named, the vote shall be first taken upon the highest, but if a majority of directors do not vote for that sum, then the vote shall be taken upon the next highest, and so on, until some sum receive a majority vote. This does candidates receive a majority vote. This done, candidates for superintendent can be nominated and voted for, until some one receives a majority. Nothing further is then done, except for the president and secretary to make out and sign the certificate of election. Blanks for this purpose will be placed in the hands of the several county superintendents and the secretaries of school boards in all the
- The following questions should receive careful consideration at the hands of the members of a
- naid him?

 In answer to the first question, it may be said that such a superintendent should possess certain physical qualifications. No one can properly discharge the duties of the office who is not in the enjoyment of general good health. Especially is this the case with county superintendents who have to visit schools in rural districts, and are
- not possess one of the following documents: A diploma from a college legally empowered to grant literary degrees; a diploma or state certificate issued by the authorities of a State Normal School; a professional or permanent certificate, issued at least one year prior to the election; a issued at least one year prior to the election; a certificate of competency from the State Super-intendent, or a commission as a county, city or borough Superintendent. In addition to the intellectual qualifications usually indicated by the possession of documents like the above named, a provided that the state of t
- superintendent of schools should be a broad, liberal thinker, a good speaker, a man of tact and marked administrative ability.

 Moral Qualifications.—The law says no person shall be eligible to the office "unless he has a sound, moral character." The very letter of the law should in this respect be adhered to, and will be, so far as the Department is concerned. Nor is it sufficient for a superintendent of schools to be guiltless of any gross "immorality." He should be a positive worker for good; if possible, he should have all the moral qualities implied in the noble expression. "a Christian gentleman."

 Professional Qualifications.—It is provided in the law, that a person cannot hold the office of superintendent of schools unless "he has hal successful experience within three years of the time of his election." The spirit of this provision is, that a superintendent must be a professional
- that a superintendent must be a professioned teacher—not a lawyer, doctor, minister, or a member of some other profession, desiring to hold the office until a way opens to engage in something The office of superintendent of schools belongs to the teachers, it has to do with teachers, and should always be filled by a teacher. If directors can find in a county a teacher devoted to his pro-fession, who always attends institutes, who reads
- lession, who always attends institutes, who reads works on teaching, who advocates common schools, who, like Richter, "loves God and little children;" who in short, is something of an enthusiast in his work—he, in all probability, is the man to make a superintendent, even though he has not been to The second question is a difficult one to answer. The salaries of superintendents are now very unequal, and some change in the mode of fixing them has been thought desirable. With regard to cities and boroughs, the plan now pursued is a proper one, as they pay their superintendents out of their own funds; but with regard to the counties it leads to great irregularities. It is considered within the power of the Section of their own funds; but with regard to the counties within the power of the Section of their own funds; but with regard to the counties it leads to great irregularities. It is considered when the countries of the section of the s it leads to great irregularities. It is considered within the power of the State Superintendent to
- change the mode of paying county superintendents' salaries, and to pay the superintendent of each county in whole or in part out of the appropriation to that county, and in case the irregularities, which now exist become much greater, that power will be exercised. Superintendents ought to be paid liberal salaries.
- Superintendents ought to be paid to errai sataries. Their work, well done, is both delicate and difficult.—Good officers can hardly be paid too much, and we had better have none at sall than poor ones. The judges of our courts received $4,000 a year; other county officers in many counties receive even larger salaries; why should not well-qualified superintendents of schools be as liberally paid? In view of the whole subject, school directors are most earnestly advised to elect as superintendents services can be obtained, have it understood that they are to devote their whole time to the work of the office, and then pay them well for what they are required to do. It is in this way and in this way only that the office can accomplish the greatest

 Tuesday, the 7th of May next, in all the counties of the counties of the Commonwealth, and in all cities and boroughs, having seven thousand inhabitants, that desire to do so. Scarcely any other election should not should so deeply enlist the interest of the people. We can afford bad government anywhere else better than in respect to our schools. Good schools make good citizens are necessary to the very existence of a State. Pennsylvania has 900,000 children in her common schools and more than $9,000,000 are annually expended for the purpose of instructing them. Whether these children shall be well instructed or otherwise, whether this vast sum of money shall be well or ill applied, will depend in good measure upon the officers placed over the schools at the coming election. Let whole communities see to it that the flower flow are far that there lower ends are farely lound, and mines have an idea that they reach quite through the earth.

- generally found richest in slate when it approaches the granite.

 Till a recent time, two theories as to the formation of metallic veins were predsminant, one representing them as the result of a forcing of fused matter from below into the chinks, the other accounting for them by supposing an infiltration of the matter in water from above. These theories, respectively termed Huttonian and Wernerian, are now given up. Many veins are fissures of mechanical origin, into which metalliferous matter has been sublimed from the effects of high temperature; but others have resulted from an electrodoes not say at what hour the seemble, and the local authorities calling the assemble, and the local authorities calling the assemble, and the local circumstances. One o'clock, p. m., is generally adopted as the most suitable hour. It would be well for the directors of cities and boroughs entitled to elect a superindentent, but not now having one, to determine the question whether they will elect such an officer, at a preliminary meeting.

 The seem now go that to white the effects of high temperature; but others have resulted from an electro-chemical separation, or segregation of certain mineral and metallic particles from the mass of enveloping rock while it was in a soft or fluid state, and their determination to particular centers. Within the last few years much light has been thrown on the subject by electro-chemical experitions. thrown on the subject by electro-chemical experiments, whereby the workings of nature, in this department of her economy, were imitated on a very small scale. Becquerell and Mitcherlich, foreign mineralogists, have succeeded in forming crystals by electricity. Our own countryman, Mr. Andrew Crosse, of Somersetshire, have in like manner formed calcareous spar out of water which had percolated through a limestone rock, and which was forming crystals naturally at the place where the experimentalist obtained it. The same gentleman produced quartz crystals, and thus made the formamentalist obtained it. The same gentleman pro-duced quartz crystals, and thus made the forma-tion of what are called precious stones no longer a mystery. The electric apparatus used by Mr. Crosse was of small powder, but kept long in operation, such being the way in which nature

In science there are a very suggestive article entitled "Can we Separate Animals from Plants?" and the first installment of a series on "The Earth's Place in Nature," by J. Norman Lockyer, the astronomer. Of what may be called "timely" articles, there is an instructive one on "The European Situation," by M. John Lemoinne; "Modern Greece," by J. P. Mahaffy; "Popular Superstition of the Turks," and "Pope Leo XIII." The poetry includes Tennyson's "Ballad of the Fleet," the longest poem he has published for some time; and a modernized version of "Chaucer to his Empty Purse." Other articles which should be mentioned are "German Universities," "French Home Life; the Influence of Women," a neat essay "On the Decay of Fine Manners," a touching story entitled "Only Jean," "Albatross Notes," and four more chapters of Mr. Black's "Macleod of Dare." A fine steel-engraved portrait of Sir John Lubbock, with biographical sketch and four editorial departments filled with interesting items, complete the attractions of a number which surpasses even the customary high standard of this magazine.
