On Monday afternoon we had the pleasure of taking by the hands of our legal friend, Hon. A. A. O'Brien, esq., of St. Paul, Minn., who is visiting friends in this place. He speaks in flattering terms of his new home, and looks as if the climate of this State would be a good one for him to follow, and we are pleased to know that his star is in the ascendant.

Owing to our largely increased circulation the JOURNAL offers superior advantages to advertisers. Our edition is now over 2,000 copies weekly, and the paper is read by the citizens of this county. Farmers and others who have real estate to sell should avail themselves of the advantages our large circulation offers. If you want to either sell or buy advertise in the JOURNAL.

This from the M'Veystown Journal's report of the last day of the Juniata Valley camp meeting: "A ray-checked toy," attached to the Juniata Valley camp meeting, and named nearly dislocated the jaws of the juvenile in his endeavors to pronounce it, was enquired out of a girl early in the evening, but managed to capture one in time for the boat ride. In the bright lexicon of youth there's no such word as fail."

We have been informed, by the building committee of the Baptist church, of this place, a card, in which the names of the donors of the receipts and expenditures of the fair and festival recently held for the purpose of raising funds to aid in paying the church debt, was presented to the council, and the names of the donors and the amount of their contributions were read. The total receipts from all sources were $400.24, the expenses $363.33, and the net profit $33.91. The committee thanks the donors and the public for the liberal patronage received.

The Lewistown True Democrat advises an old maid's show at the coming Milton county fair, and adds that that town "has enough of 'em to make a grand display." If you hear of a young lady who is a spinster, and who is missing one of these fine mornings, you can bet your last shakedown that it is Pysinger, for the old maid of the town, and who is missing her fine time, they have a good chance to break their vengeance upon him. Get your "sin was sinned," man, for you are a "gone law sin."

We understand that the petition is about to be presented to the council for asking the Town Council to extend the Fifth street sewer to the northern end of that thoroughfare. We see no valid reason why the council should not comply with the petition. There never will be a time when material and labor can be had lower than at the present, and outside the cost of the material, the sewer will be required, as the work can be done by persons who are unable to pay their taxes in any other way. As soon as the petition is presented to the council, the petitioners should be notified, and they should proceed at once with the work.

An old law passed in 1767, by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, has been revived in Northampton, and a German baker, residing in that borough, was brought before a magistrate on Monday, charged with selling bread by the loaf. Two prosecutors had bought a loaf of him and sold it at a higher price than he had offered, and he was charged with selling bread by the loaf, and not by the pound. The defendant was held for trial at court.

Brother Fry, of the Newport News, made us feel quite at home during a brief visit to that town on Thursday last. We took a ramble about the town, and found the harbor, and the large number of handsome private residences to be seen on every hand. The town has several industries which give employment to a large number of the people, and the extensive of which is the mammoth steam tannery located in the Western part of the place. There is also a large planing mill in the Eastern part of the town, and in prospect, at the same time, employs a score or more of men. There is an air of neatness about the town which cannot fail to create a favorable impression that any one visiting it.

The borough authorities would save considerable money if they would adopt some plan for the conduct of the large volume of water which rushes off the school house hill during the winter months, carrying tons of dirt to the pavements and gutting along the upper end of Fifth street. For the removal of this gravel it costs the borough several dollars every winter, and it is a very messy job. In a year or two will aggregate quite a sufficient sum to extend the sewer far enough up the street to obviate the trouble. This trouble and expense will continue until the sewer is extended to that point, and the sooner it is done the better it will be for those living in that vicinity and the tax-payers generally.

Several years ago Mr. Casper Fox, a former well known resident removed from Johnston with his family and subsequently located in Memphis, Tennessee. As soon as the yellow fever broke out in that city he sent his daughter on to Johnston, and she subsequently located in that city, and she should remain with relatives, that she should remain with relatives in Cambria borough until the epidemic would run its course. They did not feel alarmed for themselves, but it seems shortly after her departure of the young woman her mother was taken down with the terrible disease and soon died. Her father also fell a victim to this scourge, and she was buried in the same grave as her mother. The news of this was extended to that point, and the sooner it is done the better it will be for those living in that vicinity and the tax-payers generally.
