Who the Inflationists Are.

How to Make Times Good. Curse the capitalists; frighten them all you can. Do not let them go into business. If they show any disposition to do so, call a meeting; get up a set of rules and regulations for managing the business so as to break them up as soon as possible, and threaten those who will not go in under the rules until they gather up their money and leave the country, as they have already begun to do. Nothing helps times so much as to let men know that if they get more by working hard than you do by idleness that you will compel them to divide. They will work all the harder for such encouragement. Go right ahead with your communistic speeches; they are doing a great deal of good. All that is necessary is to follow it up, and we will all soon be on the ground floor, all equal—all poor, all idle, all worthless.—Franklin (Pa.) Press.

The county is not large, thriving or populous; indeed, quite the contrary, and the enterprise was not formidable. The act having been approved lat April, 1870, was promptly followed by a supplement containing the following remarkable section:

"Section 4. That said company shall connect with the Eric Railway at the railroad bridge constituted by the Eric Railway at the village of the commonwealth to the extent of the credit of the commonwealth to the extent of the credit of the commonwealth to the extent of the thousand dollars annually, for the period of ninety-nine years; loaned or given to this proposed Milford and Matamoras Railroad Company, a corporation created by the Legislature of the State.

The most outrageous inflationist of the whole party is Peter Herdic, who has become bankrupt for three millions. The Lewisburg Chronicle, published at the home The real friends of workingmen are those who insist upon having honest money in circulation, and not those who clamor for a currency that would foster speculation, increase the power of capital, and cheat the laborer out of part of his hire. Workingmen have nothing to do with the manipulation of the money market, nor do they profit by fluctuations of value. They have their labor to sell, and they want conditions which will give steady employment to industry and a fixed solve to the money which they receive for their contents of the money market, nor do they approved by the Executive, and, its true character becoming apparent, Governor Geary in his annual message of 1871 made it the subject of the following recommendation:

to issue a "fiat" that this must not be. In full confidence in its powers to "fix the value" of money at just whatever point it pleased, this body passed a resolution which, reciting the fact that "several evil-disposed persons," in order "to obstruct and defeat the efforts of the united colonies have attempted to depreciate the bills of credit emitted by authority of this congress," "Resolved," that "any person so lost to virtue" as to refuse to receive these bills, shall be "deemed published and treated as an enemy, of his country." Here was a "fiat" severe enough surely. If the mere command of a government can ever arrest depreciation of money, this one should have done so. Now let our "Flat" philosophers of this day—the mese who tell the people that a gold and silver basis for money is an "idiotic" idea (see Ben Butler's Massachusetts platform), and that all we have to do to make as many paper dollars as we choose to is-
