SAMUEL R. MASON, late Greenback candidate for Governor, to follow in the wake of the party he trained with, has gone into bankruptey with liabilities amounting to $25,000.

THE Republican party of Huntingdon county demonstrated its vitality and growing strength by electing a portion of its county ticket by majorities ranging from about four hundred to a thousand.

THE greenback leaders boasted two months ago that they had more than fifteen hundred voters enrolled in Huntingdon county. But their candidate for Governor, Mr. Mason, received but little more than one third the number of votes that had been claimed for him, and Republicans elect their candidates for the most important county offices. Respectable greenbackers repudiated the Speer North coalition.

Some of the Democratic papers intimate that Gev. Curtin will contest the election of Seth Y. Yocum in the Centre District. The Democrats have the majority in Congress, and after the treatment of Belford of Colorado, who was unseated, with a majority of 2,000 in his favor, we are propared not to be astonished at any rascality the coming Congress may be guilty of .-The next thing we hear will be that the "Persuader" is going to contest the seat of Mr. Fisher.

THE remains of A. T. Stewart, the dead millionaire, were stolen from the family vault, in St. Mark's burying ground, in New York city, on Wednesday night of last week. The vault was broken open, the casket smashed and the remains carried off. Mr. Stewart has been dead for two years. Mrs. Stewart and Judge Hilton offer a reward of $25,000 for the recovery of the remains and evidence that will lead to the conviction of the ghouls who despoiled the grave.

An election board in one of the townships in Armstrong county have been arrested and lodged in jail for crookedness in making up the final count. We are informed, by a gentleman who spent the greater part of election day at a certain district in this county, that all the members of the election board were so drunk s mewhere, either in voting or counting trick: We are of the opinion that it would be well enough to look after the matter.

It is now of years, at least .- Delaware County Reapparent that there will be but two parties publican. in the national contest of 1880, and it is even more apparent that one of those two will be the Republican party. It is probable that the other will be the Democratic for Governor from every county. The re signs of disintegration in that organization that should be treated as a presumption rather than accepted as a fact. With th contest confined to two parties, the candi date of one must receive a majority of the Electoral votes, and be duly declared th President. This is the view of the nex Presidential campaign taken by prominen public men who have given it thoughtfu consideration in the light of the recen elections. It is admitted, however, that there wa a general feeling among the political lead ers on both sides that the settlement of th next Presidential contest by the House of Representatives was by no means improba ble, and to some extent this contingenc was given full weight, if it was not mad one of the issues, of the contest for Repre sentatives in the Forty-sixth Congress With a solid South to begin with, and with considerable gains made in October to encourage them, the Democrats were con fident that they would emerge from the November contest with large additions to their present numerical strength, and with a clear majority of States on a unit ballot. In neither case have their expectations been realized. Their majority in the Forty-sixth Congress has been reduced. and should the election be thrown into the House, they could not command the constitutional majority necessary to an election. were in ruins. > Pennsylvania, Vermont and Wisconsin. In order to secure a majority the Democrats must get the votes of Florida and California. The former has already elected one Republican and one Democratic member, which makes it a tie, while California, whose delegation is now evenly divided between the two parties, will not elect members to the next Congress until September, and Republicans are confident that they will elect three of the four members from that State. While it is thus shown that the Democrats have failed to secure a majority of States in the Forty-sixth Congress, it is likely they will create a majority by forcibly reversing the expressed will of the people in Florida and California, unseating Republican members, and voting their seats to Democrats. Indeed, it is already intimated in Democratic circles that in
