WE don't believe there are more than two papers in the district that have published correctly the official, vote for Congress. Mr. Fisher's majority is two hundred and seven, as published in last week's JOURNAL. Our figures were correct, as certified by the board of return judges at Chambersburg. We notice in several of our exchanges intimations that Mr. Stenger proposes to contest the election of Mr. Fisher, but he will find that he will have more trouble in setting aside Mr. Fisher's majority than he had in persuading poor old Swineford to nominate him.

HON. WM. S. STENGER cannot get over his defeat for a third term in Congress, and seems to be cross at everybody in general and John Dougherty, esq., in particular, whom he charges with nipping his aspirations in the bud. He took a run down to Washington, the other day, and while there met a number of Western Democrats, who had fared no better than he had, and who were as "mad as March hares" over their discomfiture, the blame for which they tried to lay at the door of the Nationals. They held a kind of experience meeting, during which Stenger threatened to excommunicate all Democrats who are known to have strayed from the fold during the late contest, and he swore-with an "uplifted hand," we suppose-that "this is no time for trifling, and that all political dissenters should be held under the ban." So, Democrats, you know what is in store for you, and you can make your arrangements for doing penance for your crime of having assisted in bringing about the defeat of the "Great Persuader."
