Are those who cultivate the soil.

Salt on Wheat.

Inquiries are often made as to the utility and advantages of the application of salt to wheat land. As bearing upon this question The Rural New Yorker refers to the following experiments tried in different localities:

Last spring Mr. Joshua Knight, of Ogle county, Illinois, sewed thirteen barrels of of salt on twenty acres seeded to wheat, and left a strip in the middle of the piece without salt. The ground on which he sowed the salt produced over eighteen bushels of good spring wheat per acre, while that on which there was no salt was hardly worth cutting—the wheat being badly shrunken, injured by rust, chinch-bugs, etc.

I consider this a fair test, and it has never before been published, though I deem it of sufficient importance to report it to the Department of Agriculture. A similar experiment was tried in Iowa last spring and the result was published in the Iowa City Republican as follows:

"H. G. Coe, of Cedar county, tried the experiment of spreading three bushels of salt broadcast over two acres of wheat field. The yield was forty bushels per acre, while the rest of the field gave only nine and a half bushels per acre. The straw was bright, not being injured by rust, as the wheat alongside of it was, and it stood six inches higher."

The following from the Montreal Gazette is apropos, as it gives the results of valuable scientific experiments of the effect of salt on wheat:

"In an interesting series of experiments recently made on the farm of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, the manure value of salt was unmistakably indicated. An acre of wheat dressed with 300 pounds of common salt yielded thirty-nine bushels of grain, with a proportionate amount of straw; while an adjoining acre, left unmanured, produced only twenty-nine bushels per acre, with the straw imperfectly developed. The entire cost of the crop is not stated, but this experiment shows that the additional ten bushels resulting from the salt were produced at a cost of 30 cents each. In another case a piece of ground intended for wheat was plowed the preceding fall, and again in May, when it was sowed with salt, and afterwards plowed before seeding. On the 1st and 2d of September wheat was sown at the rate of two bushels to the acre. The crop when harvested, yielded, according to the estimate of the owner, Mr. John Pard, not less than forty bushels of grain to the acre, with a luxuriant growth of straw. From these and many similar cases the inference seems to be that salt is a specific for the wheat crop, imparting solidity to the grain and firmness to the straw. But it must not be concluded that equally good results will always follow the application of salt."

Fertilizers on Wheat.

Mr. W. W. Reed, of Erie Penn., states in local paper the results of some recent experiments by him the past season with different fertilizers on a field of about 14½ acres sown in Lancaster red wheat in the fall of 1877. The field was divided into six sections, five a little over two acres each, and one about four acres—the last alone being without fertilizers, with the exception of a little lime, while on the other five were respectively applied the following:

No.	Fertilizer.	Cost per acre.	Yield per acre.
1	Salt, 1 barrel per acre	$1.00	29-6 bush.
2	Guano, 400 lbs per acre	4.50	29-3 bush.
3	Phosphate, 310 lbs per acre.	7.28	37-5 bush.
4	Bone dust, 500 lbs per acre.	5.16	37-7 bush.
5	Ground lime, 800 lbs pr acre.	1.20	35-7 bush.
6.	No fertilizer		14-3 bush.

These yields are by thresher's measure, and as the wheat weighs 65 pounds per bushel, are less than the actual quantity.

Mr. Reed says: This ground was carefully measured and staked off, and the different sections harvested and threshed separately, and every precaution taken to secure accurate results. The field is a clay soil mixed with some gravel, and has been thoroughly underdrained. It was sown to barley the spring before the wheat was sown, and yielded 18 bushels per acre. Before the wheat was harvested the sections on which salt and guano were used looked equally as well as those sections treated with phosphate, bone dust and ground limestone, and if they had not been threshed separately, it would not have been possible from the appearance of the wheat to determine which was the best. This fact has convinced me that the only way to arrive at accurate results is to thresh separately, as in this case sections yielding 37 bushels to the acre looked no better than those yield 29 bushels per acre. I think it is not inprobable that fertilizers have been condemned as useless, in many cases, when, if the grain had been threshed separately, they would have shown favorable results. In this case the ground limestone proved to be the most economical fertilizer, showing a profit over bone dust of $1.96 per acre, over phosphate of $4.28 per acre, over guano of $9.70 per acre, and over salt of $5.90 per acre. I am using the ground limestone on about 70 acres of wheat this fall, and hope I may not have occasion to change the opinion formed from the foregoing tests, that in proportion to the cost it is the best fertilizer for wheat. The field on which the above tests were made is again sown to wheat, with a uniform dressing of 100 pounds of ground limestone to the acre, and will be again harvested and threshed separately, to ascertain the yield of the different sections of the second year."

The farmer who wishes to avoid an excess of labor, with unprofitable result, will not spread a small quantity of manure over a large surface of poor land, but will only plow as much as he can highly manure, when his income will be as large and his labor nearly one-half saved.

One evening spent at home in study is more profitably than ten spent in lounging around country taverns.

Around the Fireside.

Come Inside.

Recently, in illustrating the theme, "A man in Christ," Mr. Spurgeon told a story that is worth repeating. He said: Some Christians remind me of the little boys who go to bathe; all frightened and shivering, they enter the water just a little—up to their ankles they wade and shiver again. But the man who is really in Christ is like the practiced swimmer who plunges into the stream head first, and finds water to swim in. He never shivers. It braces him. He rejoices in it. It has become his element. This is the man who understands the happiness of religion in a manner far beyond the conception of the half and half professor who has only religion enough to make him miserable. I sometimes illustrate this by a quaint American story. An American gentleman said to a friend, "I wish you would come down to my garden and taste my apples." He asked him about a dozen times, but the friend did not come, and at last the fruit grower said, "I suppose you think my apples are good for nothing, so you won't come and try them." "Well, to tell the truth," said the friend, "I have tasted them. As I went along the road I picked up one that fell over the wall, and I never tasted anything so sour in all my life; and I do not particularly wish to have any more of your fruit." "O," said the owner of the garden, "I thought it must be so. Those apples around the outside are for the special benefit of the boys. I went fifty miles to secure the sourest sorts to plant all around the orchard, so the boys might have given them up as not worth stealing; but if you will come inside, you will find that we grow a very different quality there, sweet as honey." Now, you will find that on the outskirts of religion there are a number of "Thou shalt nots," and "Thou shalts," and convictions and alarms; but these are only the bitter fruits which this wondrous Eden is guarded from thieving hypocrites. If you can pass by the exterior bitters, and give yourself right up to Christ and live for Him, your peace shall be as the waves of the sea; and you shall find that the fruits of "this apple tree among the trees of the woods" are the most delicious fruit that can be enjoyed this side of our eternal home.

True Thrift.

Some of those who are emphatic in their recommendations of thrift, as a wise provision against want and distress, are them selves lacking in that more important form of thrift which consists in "redeeming the time." The "rich fool" mentioned by our Lord, in the parable recorded by St. Luke, was a thrifty man, so far as his worldly interests are concerned. He had made a timely and abundant provision for future years. And, so far, he was right. But then he had neglected the chief thrift of all. He made no provision for the long hereafter. He was an absolute pauper as to practicable recourse to God for the salvation of his soul. He had looked after his body, as if he were merely a brute animal. But he was blindly ignorant as to the future of his spiritual being. He had made no effort to be "rich towards God" (the only abiding riches) rich in the habits of humility and prayer and faith, rich in the love of Christ, rich in the communion of the Holy Spirit, rich in the knowledge of the Holy Scriptures. As to these, the true riches, he was a destitute pauper at death. Hence he is known universally by the name of Rich Fool. And, as such, he still has a vast posterity. For many of the thrifty ones as to this life are utterly improvident for eternity. This is gross folly. It is as if a steamer should start on a voyage round the world with only a supply of food and fuel to last her crew for one day. Even so, that is not true thrift which cares for the brief space remaining of this life only, and neglects to make provision for the infinite period of life to come. Yet God has given abundant promise of reward for all such efforts. As it is written, "Whatsoever good things any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord." And God repays with most manifold additions What earthly investments are so reliable? Yet, personal advantage, great as it may be, is quite an inferior consideration, when compared with the infinite claims of Christ's love upon the grateful devotion of his people.—London Record.

Fashionable Foolishness.

There is no modern fashionable notion quite so absurd as the generally received idea that to be beautiful and attractive a woman must possess a wan, spirituelle face and a figure of sylph like proportions—a fragility in nine cases out of ten the result of disease. By many fashionable belles it is considered a special compliment to be spoken of as frail and delicate. They forget that the naturally delicate face and petite figure are very different from the pale and disease stricken faces that meets us in the city thoroughfares, look out from the luxuriant carriages of wealth and glide languidly through our crowded drawing-rooms. If disease were unfashionable, as it ought to be, not a lady in the land but would take every possible precaution to secure the fresh, blooming face and well-rounded figure that only health can give. Ladies should remember that much as gentlemen may profess to admire the face and form paled and emanciated by disease, when they choose a wife they prefer a blooming, healthful, buoyant spirited woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the acknowledged standard remedy for female diseases and weaknesses. It has the two-fold advantage of curing the local disease and imparting a vigorous tone to the whole system. It is sold by druggists.

Ideas go booming through the world louder than cannon. Thoughts are mightier than armies. Principles have achieved more victories than horsemen or chariots—Paxton.

I think the first virtue is to restrain the tongue; he approaches nearest to the gods who knows how to be silent, even though he is in the right.—Cato.

Wherever you go, endeavor to carry with you a sense of God's presence, his holiness, his love; it will preserve you from a thousand snares.

Patents
obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada, and Europe at reduced rates. With our principal office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office, we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost, than other patent attorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German-American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington; Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims; to the Officials of the U. S. Patent Office, and to Senators and Members of Congress from every State.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!
Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc.; also Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.
Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps.
