The happiest men who live by toil

When the Cows Come Home.

When klingle, klangle, klingle, Far down the dusty dingle,
The cows are coming home—
Now, sweet and clear, now faint and low-Now, sweet and clear, now faint and low—
The airy tinklings come and go,
Like chimings from the far-off tower,
Or patterings of an April shower
That make the daises grow;
Ko-ling, ko-lang, kolingle lingle
Way down the darkening dingle,
The cows come slowly home;
And old-time friends and twillight plays,
And starry nights and sunny days,
Come trooping up the misty ways,
When the cows come home.

With jingle jangle, jingle,
Soft tones that sweetly mingle,
The cows are coming home.
Malvine and Pearl and Florimel,
DeKsmp, Red Rose and Gretchen Schell,
Queen Bees and Sylph and Spangled Sue,
Across the fields I hear her "loo coo,"
And chang her silver bell;
Go-ling, go-lang, golingle-dingle,
With faint, far sounds that mingle
The cows come slowly home;
And mother-songs of long-gone years,

And mother-songs of long-gone years, And baby joys and childish tears, And youthful hopes and youthful fears, When the cows come home. With ringle, rangle, ringle,
With twos and threes and single,
The cows are coming home.
Through violet air we see the town,
And the summer sun a-slipping down,
And the maple in the hazel glade,
Throws down the path a longer shade,
And the hills are growing brown;
To-ring, to-rang, toringle-ringle,
By threes and fours and single,
The cows come slowly home;

The cows come slowly home;
The same sweet sound of wordless psalm
The same sweet June-day rest and calm;
The same sweet smell of buds and balm, When the cows come home.

When the cows come home.

With tinkle, tankle, tinkle,
Through fern and peri winkle,
The cows are coming home;
A loitering in the checkered stream,
Where the sun-rays glanes and gleam,
Clarine, Peachbloom and Phebe Phillis,
Stand knee-deep in the creamy lillies,
In a drowsy dream;
To-link, to-lank, tolinkle-linkle,
O'er banks with buttercups a-twinkle,
The cows come slowly home;
And up through memory's deep ravine
Come the brook's old song and its old-time sheet
And the crescent of the silver queen,
When the cows come home.

With klingle, klangle, klingle,

When the cows come home.

With klingle, klangle, klingle,
With loo-oo, and moo-oo, and jingle,
The cows are coming home;
And I hear o'er there on Merlin Hill,
Tae plaintive cry of the whip-poor-will;
And the dewdrops lie on the tangled vines,
And over the poplars Venus shines
And over the silent mill;
Ko-ling, ko-lang, kolingle-lingle,
With a ting-a-ling and jingle
The cows come slowly home.
Let down the bars; et in the train;
Of long-gone songs, and flowers, and rain;
For dear old times come back again
When the cows come bome.

Snares.

The commonest snares are those of the tongue, and those of lowering to the lukewarm level. Men's greatest unwatchful ness is in respect to the unruly member. Words proceed from us so easily without due thought before utterance of their effect that even the wise and the cautious too often fall unawares into this snare; and what passes for innocent pleasantries too often incautiously carry an intended sting in them. Words are the ready vehicle for every thought and for every feeling of whatsoever complexion or character, and they alone escape doing the mischiefs occurring thereby, who studiously use the fewest words and those only by instinctive forethought not difficult to acquire after an habitual consecration of that member to a use simply and entirely for the good of man and the glory of God. And another snare is that easy comformity to the popular phase of a luke-warm Christianity. Religion is thereby made a means to an easy going, unsacrificing indolence, or to popular esteem, or to schemes of earthly honor and promotion, or for securing wealth as well as of place. All these are the abhorrence of God; and at some stage souls thus indulgent, to carnal life, come to grief; they get what

Guards and helps are at hand against all snares. Our Father in heaven has infinite pleasure in providing for us against them. Our interceeding Savior untiringly prays for us against them. Our energizing Helper, the Holy Spirit, is ever present to the humble and confiding call, to inspire with wisdom and strength to resist and avoid them .- Bannister.

A Saucy Dog in the Pulpit.

When Spurgeon was still almost a lad, says a London paper, he was sent down to preach for an aged Baptist minister in the country. On his arrival, the old man | looked at him as if he expected the world of to come to an end by the mere force of the boy's impudence; and, instead of giving the accustomed greeting, walked up and down muttering loud enough to be heard. "Tut, tut, is it come to this! boys for pulpits ! children to preach ! babies to ing that pay may be an open question, but preach !" Mr. Spurgeou too muttered to that there are very many farm practices himself, but not loud enough to be heard, that don't pay is beyond a doubt. It "You shall pay for this, old boy."
