

Farm and Household.

The happiest men who live by toil are those who cultivate the soil.

Law Regarding Fertilizers.

For the benefit of our farmer readers, we give below, the law regulating the sale of fertilizers. This law is intended to protect farmers against the imposition of dealers in a spurious article and will be read with interest. Many States have enacted similar laws. The following, we believe is the full text of the enactment: An act to regulate the manufacture and sale of commercial fertilizers.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, That every package of commercial fertilizer sold, offered or exposed for sale, for manual purposes within this Commonwealth, shall have plainly stamped thereon the name of the manufacturer, the place of manufacture, the net weight of its contents, and an analysis stating the percentage therein contained of nitrogen, or its equivalent in ammonia, in an available form, of potash soluble in water, of soluble and reverted phosphoric acid, and of insoluble phosphoric acid; provided that any commercial fertilizer sold, offered or exposed for sale which shall contain none of the above named constituents shall be exempt from the provisions of this act.

SECTION 2. Every manufacturer or importer of commercial fertilizers, as specified in section 1 of this act, shall, on or before the first day of August next ensuing, or before offering the same for sale in this Commonwealth, file annually in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth an affidavit stating the amount of said fertilizer or fertilizers sold within the State during the last preceding year, and if said amount be one hundred tons or less, he or they shall pay to the Treasurer of the State the sum of ten dollars for each and every such article of such commercial fertilizer sold within the State during the last preceding year; and if said amount shall exceed one hundred tons, and be less than five hundred tons, he or they shall pay the sum of twenty dollars as aforesaid; and if said amount shall be five hundred tons or more, he or they shall pay the sum of thirty dollars as aforesaid.

SECTION 3. Any person selling, offering or exposing for sale any commercial fertilizer without the analysis required by section 1 of this act, or with an analysis stating that it contains a larger percentage of any one or more of the above-named constituents than is contained therein, or for the sale of which all the provisions of section 2 have not been complied with, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction, shall forfeit a sum not less than twenty-five nor exceeding one hundred dollars for the first offense, and not less than two hundred dollars for each subsequent offense, one-half of which shall be for the use of the informer and the remainder for the county in which the conviction is secured; provided, said informer be the purchaser and the goods be for his own use.

SECTION 4. It shall be the duty of the Board of Agriculture to analyze such specimens of commercial fertilizers as may be furnished by its agents, said samples to be accompanied with proper proof, under oath or affirmation, that they were fairly drawn; the fee for such analysis shall be determined by the Executive Committee of the Board, and be based upon a fixed rate for each determination, shall in no case exceed seventy-five per centum of the usual price paid for such services, and shall be payable from the Treasury of the Commonwealth in the manner as now provided by law.

SECTION 5. The money paid into the Treasury under the provisions of this act shall constitute a special fund from which the cost of such analysis shall be paid; provided that the total amount thus expended in any one year shall in no case exceed the amount paid into the Treasury during the same year, and that any moneys remaining in this special fund at the end of the year shall be passed into the general fund for the use of the State.

SECTION 6. The term "commercial fertilizers," as used in this act, shall be taken to mean any and every substance imported, manufactured, prepared or sold for fertilizing or manuring purposes, except barn-yard manure, lime and wood ashes, and not exempt by the provisions of section 1 of this act.

SECTION 7. This act shall go into effect on and after the first day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine. Approved June 28, 1879.

DRY SCRATCHES.—Wash the horse's foot in soap suds, let it dry, anoint with spirits of turpentine, and let remain for twenty-four hours, then make a strong solution of copperas and lye soap, and wrap the affected parts with a cloth wet with soap and copperas. In one week the horse will be well. You can cure a mule of her cough by drawing a small wisp of hair about the size of a goose quill from a horse's tail, out about 1-16th of an inch in length with a pair of scissors, and mix in meal or any other food that the mule will eat; do this three or four times, at intervals of a day or two between. I know this to be an infallible remedy.

DON'T DO THAT.—Never use soap to wash hair brushes. Take a piece of soda, dissolve it in warm water, stand the brush in it, making sure that the water only covers the bristles. It will almost instantly become white and clean. Place it in the air to dry, with the bristles downward, and it will be as firm as a new brush.

Around the Fireside.

The Loom of Life.

All day, all night I can hear the jar Of loom and shuttle, and near and far It thrills with its deep and muffled sound, As the tireless wheels go always around. Busily, ceaselessly goes the loom In the light of day and the midnight gloom, The wheels are turning early and late, And the web is wound in the warp of fate. Click clack! there's a thread of love wove in Click clack! another of wrong and sin; What a clever thread will this life be When we see it unrolled in eternity!

Christian Character.

"Giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue."—2 Peter i. 5. Christian belief and Christian character ought never to be separated even in imagination. The one is the root, the other is the plant. The one is the fountain, the other is the stream which must flow from it. The plant could not live without a root; the stream could not flow if it were not supplied by a fountain. That which we are in our lives is the result of that which we believe in our hearts, yet diligence on our own part is necessary that the full effect of faith may be produced in our characters. "Add to your faith virtue," etc., says the apostle. He writes to those who have faith, not to the unbelieving world, and what that faith was he has already in the previous verses explained. He has spoken of that knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord by which "grace and peace were multiplied" to those whom he addresses; he has reminded them of the "exceeding great and precious promises" given unto us; those who had received that knowledge, and who believed those promises, were to aim at becoming "partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust;" and to attain this all diligence was needed. As we read the fair catalogue of graces which complete the Christian character, we own that not one could be well spared; "virtue" (or fortitude), knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly-kindness, charity, have each their places, and would be sadly missed if wanting. But who is sufficient for these things? In all things we come short; we are too often content with merely admiring this beautiful picture, forgetting that to the man of faith it is given to copy it in his own life, and that he who believes in the great and precious promises of his God and Saviour, may ask and receive strength and grace for all to which he is called.

"Jesus, my strength and hope, On thee I cast my care, With humble confidence look up, And know thou hearest my prayer, Give me on thee to wait, Till I can all things do, On thee, Almighty to create, Almightily to do."

Sowing and Reaping.

"Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" both in the natural and in the moral world. Every deed in the one and every deed in the other, yield fruit after its kind. This principle of sowing and reaping is especially important to the young, who are just beginning to shape their character and destiny. In the spring-time of life we sow what we must reap in the autumn of age, and perhaps through the endless ages of eternity. The chief possibilities of good or evil for all the future are bound up in the period of youth. The sowing may be done thoughtlessly and carelessly, but it will report itself in due time according to this law.

Men in age often say, "If I could but live my life over again how differently it should be!" While this is impossible, still the young may have the advantages of a second life by trying the counsels and experiences of the aged.

It is of the utmost importance for them to understand this relation of sowing to reaping, which is affixed to our physical, mental and moral nature. Men who in early life vortex the brain or body in the frenzy to get rich; men who overload the wheels of life by gluttony; men who bestialize themselves with sensuality; men who burn out the vital forces with the damning fires of alcohol; all such are liable to a strict account in after years. When remembrance and retribution come upon them, then too late, they begin to realize that whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Starving to Death.

Thousands of men and women are starving themselves to death. They dare not eat or drink this or that, fearing it will increase their flesh. Life depends upon continuous self-denial. The only safe and reliable remedy for this terrible condition is Allan's Anti-Fat. It is wholly vegetable and perfectly harmless. Its use insures a reduction of from two to five pounds per week. Sold by druggists.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 15th, 1878. TO THE PROPRIETOR OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat: "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week, until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost."

Yours Respectfully, POWELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists.

UNDER no circumstances, whether of pain or grief, or disappointment, or irreparable mistake, can it be true there is not something to be suffered. And thus it is that the spirit of Christianity draws over our life, not a leaden cloud of remorse and despondency, but a sky—not perhaps of radiant, but yet of most serene, and chastened, and manly hope. There is a past which is gone forever, but there is a future which is still our own.

A THANKFUL spirit has always fresh matter for thankfulness. To praise God for the past is the sure way to secure mercies for the future. Prayer to preserve life or die together.
