Mrs. Neal and her companions had been out in the country in a one-horse carriage, and arriving at the crossing while the 4:15 train was lying at the depot, she stopped her horse until the train would pass on, and as soon as it did so she started her horse, but the animal had only made a step or two when the "shifter," which was close behind the passenger train, steamed past, and had the horse not luckily frightened and changed its course, we would now be chroni-ling the death of the occupants of the carriage. The horse ran upon the Miller House pavement, and as soon as the engine was out of the way attempted to flee up Fourth treet, but with the assistance of the bystanders, and Mrs. Neal, who is a good horsewoman, he was stopped before he got fairly under way. Is a most revolting and pittable sight, and of the most sunken and debased, but, shall we say it, here were young ladies, no, not ladies, but young women, daughters of respectable cities case which calls for the minimum penalty. While we are of the opinion that the facts in the case do not warrant the infliction of the maximum, yet we do not think it calls for the minimum. There are some aspects of the case which point to the theory that the connection was not had by force, such as her conduct subsequent to the commission of the horrid outrage, but it was submitted to the jury, and they have found by their verdict that it was done by an ignorant gir', who was not aware of what was proper behaviour un as some of the whiskey bottle, smoking cigars and singing blackguard songs! And even this was eclipsed the whiskey bottle, smoking cigars and singing blackguard songs! And even this was eclipsed the whiskey bottle, smoking cigars and regaling the crowd with slang phrases, obscene remarks and snatches of vulgar songs, while others, more sompletely overnot aware of what was proper behaviour un der the circumstances, and who was probably frightened and knew not what she was doing; but we take into view those subsequent facts, while other the content of the which have not changed the verdict, but which to some extent mitigate the penalty, and we have reduced it considerably from the maximum, but we do not intend to have it understood at all that this Court does not view with the greatest indignation the carrier from the carri stood at all that this Court does not view with the greatest indignation the crime of rape, and were this case one which presented all the crime of rape, and were this case one which presented all the crime of rape.

A MOTHER AND BABE FALL EIGHTY FEET INTO A PIT.—The Altoona Tribune of Friday last gives the following account of a ingular accident which occurred to a Mrs. Haley and her year-old child at Allegheny ore bank, below Blair Furance and about three miles from that city, on Saturday night last. There had been a picnic at a place called Sandy run, within easy walking distance of Mrs. Haley's residence, and the festivities were kept up until after dark. On her way home Mrs. Haley had to pass an old ore-shaft. The night being dark she walked nearer to it than she supposed. The rain of the afterno had softened the earth about the mouth the shaft, and as she innocently trod upon it it gave way beneath her weight and slid into the pit, carrying Mrs. Haley along with it. Just then she realized her peril and screamed. She fell about eighty feet to the bottom. party of men who were most fortunately following not far behind her heard the shou and on arriving at the spot from appearances about the mouth of the pit correctly surmised that some one had fallen in. Lights were procured and ropes were brought into requisition. A descent was made, and Mrs. Haley was found in a position which indicated that in the fall she had maintained her equilibrium. r she was erect, but was sunk in mud and water to her arm pits. Mrs. Haley in her rupt the secretions and offend the breath. It terror had evidently temporarily forgotten her infant and it had slipped from her embrace, for it was found several feet away from its mother floundering about the bottom of the Thousands in all walks of life, testify to the mother floundering about the bottom of the shaft in the mud. Both mother and child were successfully raised to terra firma and the derangement of the digestive organs. Get conveyed to their home. When the little one the genuine. In this case the jury has found you guilty of pictures of immorality, drunkenness, obscefelonious rape. This is a most henious crime.

There is just one crime that is deemed by the fallen to my lot to witness. Never, since, or even during the war, have l law a little higher, and that is murder in the first degree. The other grades of murder are seen as demoralized a crowd or as disgusting-not considered higher offenses than rape. ly shameful conduct as on board the crowded Murder in the first degree, where the penalty is death by hanging, is a little higher crime, and there is no higher crime except rape. of suffering, misery and crime. BUGGY STOLEN .- On Wednesday of last week two nice (?) young men from Broad Top City, Huntingdon county, having in their possession a pacing grey mare, came to the livery stable of ex-sheriff Cessna, in this place nd desired to hire a buggy to go to the Springs. They got a good top buggy, but instead of going to the Springs they took the other end of the road, and the last heard of them was in Juniata township. One of the young men is a physician and the other is an agent for the sale of cigars. Diligent search has been made for these scoundrels but up to this time it has been truitless.—Bedford Gazette, 22nd inst.

Abercrombie, of Baltimore, Md., and wife of William A. Saxton, esq., of Washington, D. C., aged 52 years.

The deceased was an invalid and was spending a portion of the season on the mountain for the benefit of her health, in company with her daugh-ter. They were joined by the husband and father a week or ten days previous to her deemise. By arrangement, the writer of this notice was to meet the family on the mountains and spend a week with them. We arrived there on Monday, the 11th, and found Mrs. S. very ill. She continued 11th, and found Mrs. S. very 11l. She continued to sink until the afternoon of the 13th, when she expired. This sad and unexpected affliction interfered with our plans and expectations of recreation on these grand old mountains, and illustrates the uncertainty of life and human hopes and expectations. The deceased was a member in good standing of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and was no doubt fully prepared for her change.— Urbana (0.) Gazette. GRIFFITH-In Cass township, on the 22d inst.
