LITERARY NOTES .-

The October Scribner opens with an important paper on "Ups and Downs in Leadville," by Ernest Ingersoll, with numerous illustrations by Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote and J. Harrison Mills. naper on "Ups and Downs in Leadville," by Ernest Ingersoll, with numerous illustrations by Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote and J. Harrison Mills. Text and pictures occupy 23 pages, and together including the discovery of the mines, the oarly trush, the recent growth; prospecting and "surveying in;" a trip in a mine; the geological formation; the practical working of the ores; Leadville society, good and bad, etc., etc. Much reliable information may be obtained from this paper.

Another seasonable paper deals with "Field Sports in Minnesota," and is written by Charles A. Zimmerman, a noted sportsman of St. Paul.

The peculiarities of crane, duck, and goose shooting on the lake passes of that state, over decoys and from stubble, are told in a lively narrative style adapted to the non-sporting reader, and supplemented by many picturesque drawing.

An exquisitely soft and beautiful engraving, by Mr. Cole. of Fortuny's "Piping Shepherd," accompanies a poem by Charles de Kay, suggested by the original painting.

Under the title of "Edison's System of Fast Telegraphy," Edwin M. Fox describes the automatic telegraph which was in operation for a year stopped by inigation, and may snort yoe resumed.

A notable feature of this paper is a new portrait of Edison. by Francis Lathrop, which is pronounced by the inventor's assistants to be the best yet published.

The subject of the fifth paper in the Brazil the subject of the first paper in the paper series, by Herbert H. Smith, is "Rio de Janiero," the illustrations representing scenery of the city and vicinity, and the text considering chiefly the obstacles to American trade and manufactures, with much of general interest.

Miss Kate Field's sketch of W. S. Gilbert, in the September number, is succeeded in thi. by a similar account of Arthur Sullivan, interspersed with anecdotes of the boy and the mau. A portrait accompanies this paper.

The illustrated material comprises a suggestive paper by John Arbuckle, entitled "Journalism, as exemplified by the late Mr. Bagehot," in which the writer discuses the relations between journal-ism and literature, and the advantages and disadism and literature, and the advantages and disadvantages of the anonymons method; also the concluding paper on "English Spelling and Spelling Reform," by Prof. T. R. Lounsbury, or Yale, in which he considers the arguments generally advanced against the reforms proposed; a sketch of unique and laughable experiences, by "Jack Randouph," entitled "A Sailor in the Cotton Field"; a full installment of Henry James's "Confidence," and the conclusion of Mrs. Burnett's "Hawarth's," which now gives way to Mr. Cable's "Hawarth's," which now gives way to Mr. Cable's of everything. And cheap! That's no name for it. Come over and see fidence," and the conclusion of Mrs. Burnett's mew novel of Creole life, "The Grandissimes"; two notable short stories: one of Roman life by Mr. Boyesen, entitled "Annunciata," and the other a vigorous dialect sketch by William Hawley Smith, entitled "Dick"—a piece of writing ley Smith, entitled "Dick"—a piece of writing by Irwin Russell, A. B. Boyle, John Vance Cheny and Wil iam M. Briggs.

In his department Dr. Holland writes of "The Popular Wisdom" and "Good Talking," and comments on a letter from Mr. Henry Kiddle taking objections to a previous paper on his recent boot. "Home and Society" contains a list of "Parlor Plays" for private theatricals, "A Short Essay on Washing," and suggestions about "Fall Work in the Rose Garden." The books reviewed are Stickney's "True Republic," Jeffries "Color-Blindness," "The Macvey Napier Correspondence," Bishop's "Detmold," Walford's "Cousin's," Blanc's "Grammar of Engraving and Painting," Molloy's "Autumn Holiday on Person Rivers" "Green's Cheap, come ov eceived at Jounnal Store. This is the best "Grammar of Engraving and Painting," Molloy's
"Autumn Holiday on French Rivers," Green's
"Readings from English History," and Vincent's
"Gates of the Psalm Country." "The World's Work" describes industrial and mechanical novelties, including "Experiments in Automatic Telegraphy." "Beggestive System applied to Gagraphy," "Regenerative System applied to Gas-light," "Testing Machine for Fabries," etc., etc., and "Brica-Brac" is bright and well-gustained. The October number of St. Nicholas closes the sixth volume of the magazine with an array of features hard to match in interest for the little folks.

Louisa M. Alcot contributes the opening story entitled "Jimmy's Cruise in the 'Pinafore,"' charming narrative illustrated with fine portraits of characters in the "Children's Pinafore," which will delight every boy and girl who has heard the amous operetta.

The Elevated Railroads of New York are described in a long article by Charles Barnard, and with it are given eight admirable pictures of various views along the lines of the three New York Roads. The text and illustrations also show how the roads were constructed, and together furnish a capital and entertaing account of those wonderful "Railroads in the Air."

"Noah's Ark Ashore," is the title of another descriptive article which will be eagerly read by every boy and girl. It is a well-told narrative of a visit to a queer "Ark" on the Amazon river which a kind-hearted native had turned into a sort of asylum for beasts and birds of various scribed in a long article by Charles Barnard, and drawings which accompany this article.

Besides these, there is a timely little paper telling all about the strange doings and mysteries of "Halloween," and illustrated with a lovely frontispiece; while a very "Curious Monastery" is shown in a full-page picture; and a fascitating "School in the Woods" is described by Maurice Thompson, the literary archer.

Of Stories there is a capital budget, beginning with the two serials "Eyebright" and "A Jolly Fellowship," which are both concluded in this number with "climax" installments. Then there number with "climax" installments. Then there is a lively fishing story—"Mr. Carothers' Secret," written by the author of "Dab Kinzer" a pleasant fanciful tale by Moncure D. Conway, and a strong home story for girls called "What Kate Found in the Well." "An Educational Breakfast at the Peterkins," a very comical affair is told about by Miss Lucretia P. Hale; Mary E. Bradley contributes a fine poem called "Duke Leopold's Stone," for which Alfred Fredericks has drawn a beautiful illustration; and there are several funny pictures and verses scattered through the number, ictures and verses scattered through the number, while the Departments at the end will look at least as inviting as ever to the young eyes that read them so carefully every month.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE .- The October number o the Eclectic, con ains a finely-executed portrait on steel of Francis Parkman, one of the most eminent of American historians; and the portrait is accompanied by a brief but complete and interesting sketch of his life. The literary contents of ring House is chuck full of Clothing for Menf Youths, Boys and Children, and stacks of OVERCOATS, and at prices that are satisfactory to all. Don't fail to examine goods and prices before purchasing.

woman who had sinned." My understanding of the reading of that particular circumstance was that they brought the woman to Jesus, but however that may be I cannot quite see the point aimed at by the learned writer. He point aimed at by the lea of such contributors as Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. "He Harding Davis, Marietta Holley, the author of "Josiah Allen's Wife," etc., etc. Then there is a Supplement, with full-size diagram, containing a pattern for a dress, which is alone worth the price of the number. The terms of this, the cheapest and best of the lady's books, are but two dollars a year, with very great reductions to clubs, and a free copy and other premiums to those getting up the club. Now is the time to begin to get up clubs for 1880. Specimens sent gratis, if written for, to those wishing to get up clubs. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia We have received the Phrenological Journa and Science of Health for October, and find it fill ed with material at once lively, entertaining, crist remain on a lower plane than that which he occupies, yielding of course to superior wisdom and taking it for granted that he knows all about "moral suasion," "abstract morality," "fallen humanity," and the duties incumbent upon us as good Samaritans to cover up the sins and faults of our neighbors and our neighbor's children, instead of bringing tem to public notice. I would like, however, to sit for a time at the feet of this great Gamaliel of "ethics abstractly considered" instructive and seasonable. The features which closing Exercises of the Gassylland and will be able to decide whether the available gold fields in Virginia can be work to the very creditable manner in which the participants acquitted themselves.
