First part of this poem, entitled "Love at First Sight," can be had on application at Tower Hall, By the Bard of Tower Hall.

Tuesday last I had a toothache-Horrible beyond description— And cold steel was recommended

As the very best prescription,
Sleep I wooed, but, fickle goddess,
Opium could not cajole her;
I must on some dental altar Sacrifice the aching molar. So, I hurried to a dentist; Reached his office in despair; Entered—Lo! before me sitting, In the cushioned dental chair,

In the cushioned dental chair,
Was the maid with golden ringlets
I on Chestnut Street had seen,
She who stole away and left me
In the car at "Twelfth and Green."
Still upon her snowy shoulders
Fell the same bewitching curls;
But, alas! her "lips of coral"
Were no longer "couched on pearls."
Not a tooth had they to rest on,
And I saw, to my dismay,
That the pearls which blessed my vision
Then upon the table lay.
She had had a tooth extracted,

She had had a tooth extracted,
And the pain had made her faint;
From her check the rose had vanished (?) On the towel was some paint! She was from the swoon reviving, When, oh! horror! Shall I tell? Through an effort made in sneezing To the floor her ringlets fell! On the head, by curls forsaken,

Hair was starting, coarse and thick, But the shade was far from golden,
"Twas the color of a brick,
From my tooth, the pain departing,
Settled in my head and heart, As no dentist sould extract it,

I made up my mind to start, And I also made my mind up That when I again did write, I would caution fellow creatures I would eaution fellow creatures
'Gainst the drofts of Love on Sight.
Trusting that no one will mention
... 'Priceless Jewel,' "Beauty's Queen,'
I can pear to hear of "Twelfth Street,"
But let no one utter—"Green!"

It may be by some remembered,
And, perhaps, it may by all,
That the "ocean of my passion
Swallowed up the Tower Hall."
But the "waves of admiration"
Swell no more the ocean's dry!

Swell no more the oceans only
Tower Hall is still existing,
Where you can your clothing buy—
Where, unlike the bard, you will be
Safe although you chose on sight,
For the prices are the lowest, And the garments always right.
