The happiest men who live by toil
Are those who cultivate the soil

Hints for the Sick Room.

From an interesting paper on this subject in the Christian Union, by Miss E. R. Scovil, of the Massachusetts General Hospital, we cull the following hints and recipes:

The pure juice may be extracted from beef in two ways: First, by cutting the meat in small pieces, putting them in a tightly corked bottle, immersing it in hot water, and boiling for several hours. Second, by taking a thick piece of juicy steak, broiling it on a gridiron over a clear fire for a few moments, then cutting it in strips and pressing it in a lemon squeezer. The juice thus obtained may be given either cold or hot. It may be frozen, broken into lumps, and given liked cracked ice. A little salt should be added before using it.

An invalid who is tired of hot beef tea will sometimes drink it cold or iced with great relish. Enough isinglass or gelatine may be added to the juice to make a jelly, which can be flavored with sherry, essence of celery, or anything the patient may fancy.

Raw meat is very nutritious, and may be prepared by shedding the beef extremely fine, removing every particle of skin and fat, and mixing it with cracker crumbs. A little salt and pepper may be added, and the mixture rolled into tiny balls.

In convalescence after typhoid fever the greatest care is necessary with regard to the food, and no new article of diet should be given without the express permission of the doctor. Even so slight an imprudence as eating a raw apple has been known to cause death.

While roast, boiled and broiled chicken, mutton chop, and beef steak have long held a recognized position in the invalid's bill of fare, the merits of a veal sweetbread have been sadly overlooked. When properly cooked it is a delicious dish, and may tempt a carpricious appetite that has grown weary of viands. A sweetbread should be parboiled for a short time until quite soft, and then fried in a little butter to a delicate brown. It may be served with gravy or white sauce.

Port-wine jelly may sometimes be given where the wine itself would excite disgust. Dissolve half an ounce of gelatine in three tablespoonfuls of water; add a little white sugar and nutmeg or cinnamon if the taste is liked; let it melt over a very gentle heat put in five wineglassfuls of port, and stir constantly for ten minutes. Strain it into a mould moistened with cold water. A piece as large as an egg should be eaten two or three times a day.

Delicious oatmeal gruel may be made by stirring a cupful of oatmeal into a bowl of water, allowing it to stand for a few minutes until the coarsest particles have fallen to the bottom, pouring off the water, and repeating this once or twice. The water must then be boiled, stirring it constantly until it is sufficiently cooked.

Few persons understand properly the art of making lemonade. The lemon should first be rolled between the hands until it is quite soft, the skin removed with a sharp knife, and every pip extracted, the lemon being held over a tumbler that no juice may be lost in the operation. The pulp should then be divided into small pieces, and the sugar thoroughly mixed with it. Last of all the requisite amount of water should be added. Orangeade may be made in the same way as lemonade, using less sugar. They both should be iced. Imperial drink is made by adding a small teaspoonful of cream of tartar dissolved in boiling water to each pint of lemonade.

In some diseases it is impossible to give anything containing acids, and then the ingenuity of the nurse is tested to provide some beverage at once cooling and palatable. Iced tea and coffee are excellent when they are liked, and may be taken either with or without milk. Barley water is made by boiling two ounces of pearl barley previously well washed, for twenty minutes in a pint and a half of water. It is then strained and flavored with lemon peel and sugar to taste. This may be alternated with flaxseed tea. Steep half an ounce of unbruised flaxseed in a pint of boiling water. Let it stand in a covered jar near a fire for three or four hours; then strain and flavor.

Colic.

As soon as the colic pains are perceptible, give the animal a drench composed of eight ounces raw linseed oil, one fluid ounce of laudanum, one drachm powdered nitre and eight fluid ounces peppermint water. Mix well and drench slowly down the throat from a common drenching-horn or a smooth-necked champagne-bottle. If entire relief is not given in one hour repeat the prescribed drench in the same quantities as here given. If you will give proper attention to the diet of your horse and feed him with sound, sweet and nutritious grain and provender, the only food in character that agrees with the stomach and its functions, you will not have any further difficult as regards colic attacks. Large quantities of water should not be given at any one time to horses that indicate the least predispotion to attacks of colic. The water furnished all live stock should be at all times pure, soft and fresh, and given in small quantities at a time three or four times daily. Both food and water should be given in regular quantities and at regular hours of the day. The stable should be properly ventilated and lighted with sash windows. Where strict attention is given to the hygienic and dietary care and general management of live stock, health will surely follow.

For a kicking horse fill an old sack with hay and suspend it from the loft by means of a rope, in such a manner that the horse will be able to kick it until he stops of his own accord, and you will have no more trouble with him that way.

Plant tansy at the roots of your plum trees, or hang branches of the plant on the limbs of the trees, and you will not be annoyed with curculio. An old successful fruit grower furnishes the above and says it is the most successful curculio preventative he ever tried.

Old Hundred.

BY R. E. TAYLOR.

In a rustic church opposite, while we write, a company of worshippers are singing the old hymn—

"Be Thou, O, God, exalted high!"

The air is, also, the immortal "Old Hundred."

If it be true that Luther composed that tune, and if the worship of mortals is carried on the wings of angels to heaven, how often has he heard the declaration, "They are singing Old Hundred."

The solemn strain carried us back to the times of the reformers—Luther and his devoted band. He, doubtless, was the first to strike the grand old chords in the public sanctuary of his own Germany.

From his stentorian lungs they rolled, vibrating, not through vaulted cathedral roofs, but along a grander arch—the eternal heavens. He wrought into each note his own sublime faith, and stamped it with that faith's immortality. Hence, it cannot die! Neither men nor angels will let it pass into oblivion.

The blue-eyed girls of old "Faderland" sung these same strains with all the enthusiasm of a new and holier religion. They had been bound to priests, prayer-book and rosary. They had raised adoring eyes to the spangled image of the Virgin, and bent unblushingly before the carved semblance of the Saviour of sinners. They had knelt at the dark confessional, and placing their lips to its cunningly wrought portals, told the choicest and most sinful emotions of their hearts into the ears of the father confessor, whom sometimes they feared more than they feared God. But Luther, in the face of the fathers, had thrown down his rosary, and refused to acknowledge any intercessor save Christ. Luther had, as it were, nailed his anathema over the openings of the confessional. Luther had laughed to scorn the holy relics, pretended miracles, and saving power of the priesthood, and with daring, burning eloquence denounced their sensuality and their idolatry. First the mothers heard, and the maids—they went to listen and remained to pray; aye, and to sing with throbbing hearts and tearful eyes—

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Can you find a tomb in the land where sealed lips lay, that have not sung that tune? If they were gray old men, they had heard or sung 'Old Hundred." Sinner and saint have joined with the endless congregations, where it has, with and without the pealing organ, sounded on the sacred air.

The dear little children, looking with wondering eyes on this strange world, have lisped it. The sweet young girl, whose tombstone told of sixteen summers, she whose pure and innocent face haunted you with its mild beauty, loved "Old Hundred," and as she sang it, closed her eyes and seemed communing with the angels who were soon to claim her. He whose manhood was devoted to the service of God, and who with faltering feet ascended the pulpit steps with the white hand placed over his laboring breast, loved "Old Hundred." And though sometimes his lips only move, away down in the heart, so soon to cease its throbs, the holy melody was sounding. The dear, white headed father, with his tremulous voice, how he loved "Old Hundred." Do you see him now, sitting in the venerable arm chair, his hands crossed over the top of his cane, his silvery locks floating off from his hallowed temples, and a tear stealing down his furrowed cheeks, as the noble strains ring out? Do you hear that thin, quivering, faltering sound, now bursting forth, now listened for almost in vain? If you do not, we do; and from such lips, hallowed by fourscore years' service in the Master's cause, "Old Hundred" sounds, indeed, a sacred melody.

You may fill your church choirs with Sabbath prima donnas, whose daring notes emulate the steeple, and cost almost as much, but give us the spirit stirring tones of the Luther hymn, sung by old and young together. Martyrs have hallowed it; it has gone up from the beds of the saints. The old churches, where generation after generation has worshipped, and where many scores of the dear dead have been carried and laid before the same altar where they gave themselves to God, seem to breathe off "Old Hundred" from vestibule to tower-top—the very air is haunted with its spirits.

Think a moment of the assembled company who have, at different times and in different places, joined in the familiar tune! Throng upon throng—the strong, the timid, the gentle, the brave, the beautiful, the rapt faces, all beaming with the inspiration of the heavenly sounds.

"Old Hundred!" King of the sacred band of sacred airs! Never shall our ears grow weary of hearing, or our tongues of singing thee! And when we get to heaven why knows but what the first triumphal strain that welcomes us may be—

"Be thou, O, God! exalted high!"

Give what you give from interest in men. Do what you do with thought of the distant results in making them noble. Live for God, and you shall find the secret of God, which is with them that fear him. If you will grasp with your sympathies and efforts the world, "All things are yours, and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's."

It is our folly to betray our duty by our wishes. If it were thus and thus with us, we would serve God readily and cheerfully. Thou fool, there is no condition but grace can improve it to some religious use, for the advantage of some duty or other; it is they laziness, and the blame of thine own neglect must not be charged upon Providence.

Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed is a compound fluid extract of smart-weed, or water-pepper, Jamaica ginger and other ingredients known to be efficacious in curing colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, bloodflux, and kindred affections. It also breaks up colds, fevers and inflammatory attacks. Sold by druggists.

God be thanked for books. They are the voice of the distant and the dead, and make us heirs of the spiritual life of past ages.—Channing.

Bunions, corns, and other ailments of the feet, cause much suffering among all nations by whom shoes are worn. There is more than $100,000 worth of boots and shoes destroyed annually in the United States (in the rest of the world more than $1,000,000) by cutting while new, or nearly so, to make room for painful bunions, corns, ingrowing nails, sore instep, etc. Besides this great sacrifice, there is paid in New York to chiropodists, about $25,000 annually, in the New England States about $25,000 annually; in the Western and Southern about $50,000, besides this there is $600,000 spent annually for caustics and other worthless compounds for the cure of bunions, corns, sore insteps, tender feet, etc. To avoid these great losses and expenditures, use Dr. Josiah Briggs' Bunion Balsam and Sure Corn Cure, which is the only preparation known that gives immediate relief, and radically cures hard, soft or ulcerated bunions, hard, soft and festered corns, vascular excescences, callosities, large and small; sore instep, blistered heel, tender feet, ingrowing nails, etc., without causing or leaving any pain or soreness. BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR, and in a trice your neuralgia, with all his demands, has departed, and once again you may be happy.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorhœa or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

A first-class Steel Plow, made in the ordinary way, full rigged, retails for twenty-two dollars. Inferior Steel Plows retail from sixteen to nineteen dollars.

The price of our new Plow will be but Seventeen Dollars, and it will be the cheapest Agricultural Implement ever sold.

Its mold board will outwear three of the very best kinds of the ordinary steel mold boards.

It will scour in soils where all steel plows and all other plows have hitherto proved a failure.

With this Plow will be introduced a corrugated Plow Point and Jointer Point, on which we have also obtained a Patent, and which is also a great improvement, both as regards strength and wear.

The Jointer can be shifted so as to take more or less land, and also more or less pitch, and it can always be kept on a line with the Plow.

The wheel will run under the beam or one side of it as desired, and always kept in line.

The beam is adjustable for Spring or Fall Plowing, and also for two or three horses.

The handles can be adjusted to accommodate a man or boy, on the same Plow.

It is a perfect Plow.

Wooden beams are going out of use because they shrink, swell and warp, and never run two seasons alike.

Iron beams are too heavy.

Malleable beams become demoralized and bend, which is much worse than to break.

A Steel beam is the necessity of the day. It is three times as strong and very much lighter than any other style.

When we say a Mold board is chilled, the farmers know what it is.

We do not palm off on them a composition of various metals and call it chilled metal.

We want agents for this new Plow in every town in this State.

We can give but a very small discount to them, but we will pay the Railroad Freight.

We propose to place this Plow in the hands of Farmers as near the cost of manufacture as possible.

It will be the best Agricultural Implement ever sold.

It shall also be the cheapest.

Persons therefore who are not willing to act as agents on the principle that "a nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling," need not apply for an agency.

No Plows on commission. All sales absolute.

☞This is the only Steel Chilled Plow in the World.

Steel costs several times more than Iron.

But this Plow, full rigged, by giving small discounts, can be sold for Seventeen Dollars. Compare this price with that of any Iron Plow ever made.

It is cheaper than any other Plow now made would be at five dollars and a half.

Where there are no agents we will, on receipt of Seventeen Dollars, send a Plow to any Railroad station in the State and pay the freight. Address,
