There is trouble brewing in the Democratic camp in this town, and by the arrival of the time for the election of delegates to the county convention of that party, there will be "music in the air," but, unless we mistake the signs of the times, it will not have any "charms" to "Soothe the savage breasts"

POLITICAL TAFFY.—The recent Dem. ocratic gathering in New York, the city of draft riots and Democratic lawlessness, was at least remarkable in the amount of political taffy that was used in fixing up the wounded feelings of the "old man of cipher alley." His self-denying patriotism speech, had called Hancock the Artful in laying aside all claims to the Presidency in 1876, when he was not elected and could neither steal or buy the office, even with the bar'l tapped at both ends, was enough to create a smile on the face of a dead jackass. His undying devotion to the Democratic party, which led him to decline to be a candidate at Cincinnati, when he knew he could not knock the persimmon, was alluded to by one of the faithful in words so tender and pathetic, that eyes unused to weeping were suffused with tears-of the crocodile order.

Gen. Rosecrans on Gen. Garfield.

Milton S. Lytle, esq, of this place, writes to the Philadelphia Press as follows: writes to the Phili delphia Press as follows:
I have in my possession a little volume containing the General Orders issued from Herdquarters
Department of the Cumberland during the year
1863. They are the orders of Major General Rosecrans, who was then in command of that department, and who is now claimed by the Democrats as a supporter of General Hancock. Whatever may be his political views at the present time, he in that year and in his official capacity, passed one of the highest encomiums unon General Garfield that one soldier could bestow upon another, and never did General Hancock receive from any

Rosecrans language explains the circumstances ander which his words of peerless commendation were written. They occur in General Order-No. 231, dated at Chattanooga, T nn., October 10, 1863, and are as follows: s63, and are as follows:

"Brigadier General J. A. Garfield has been hosen by his fellow-citizens to represent them in the councils of the nation. His high intelligence, potless integrity, business capacity and thorough cquaintance with the wants of the army, will report his carriers if one the councils.

We learn from a friend that Mr. Speed received a telegram from Mr. Stenger on Tuesday morning, announcing his withdrawal from the Congressional contest. Mr. Speer is now master of the situation, as far as the nomination is concerned, but he will find a hard road to travel before he reaches the goal of his ambition. This will be a bad year for "complimentary retes," and without a goodly number of them he can never be chosen to represent this district in Congress.

Last week's issue of the Bedford Gazette contained the valedictory of J. M. Reynolds, esq., who for the past eight years was one of its editors and proprietors. Mr. Reynolds has sold his interest in the paper to R. C. M'Namara, esq., who will mount the editorial tripod this week. The Gazette has reached the ripe old age of seventy five years, sufficiently old, we should think, to have sense enough not to advocate the latter-day principles of the Democratic party, but it seems that it is it alone in its blindness. I have been using your Cattle Powder for horses, bows, chickens and pigs, and find it a first-class thing.—George Boxo, Germantown, Pa.
Please send me half a gross of Cattle Powder. I THE COW GAVE NEARLY TWICE THE QUANTITY OF MILK that she did before, and gave TWICE THE AMOUNT OF BUTTER. My chickens were dying, but were CURED IMMEDIATELY after I had used the powder. Yourstruly, JOSAS PASOUR, Dallas, N. C. I have used and compared your Cattle Powder with all others, and must say it is the best for horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, etc. I have tried it on poultry for many complaints, with SUCCESS IN EVERY CASE.—ONATHAN JWEAVER, BETTYSBURG, Pa. Last summer you sent me a package of your powder which I gave to my poultry, and have not had one droopy turkey or chicken since.—Mrs. Wm. KNAPP, Orange, N. Y.

FOREIGN COUNTS VERSUS HOME MECHANICS.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

In a far-off Eastern city, A pretty maid did live, Who was determined never Her heart and hand to give To a living human creature Unless almost divine; She had a poor opinion of The gender masculine.

First a young mechanic asked her If she would be his bride, "No! I'll wed no poor mechanic." She haughtily replied.

"I was born for something better, I'd have you understand; You are bold in your presumption. To ask of me my hand!"

Then a beardless dandy wooed her; He had an oily tongue, ut as no mustache had started.

But as no mustache had started, Because he was so joung. Ste gave him such a gentle hint, As led him to infer That he must raise some whiskers ere,

He raised his eyes to her.

Overwhelmed with disappointment,
And almost in despair,
That his chance to win the maiden Hung on a single hair, He went off and took a julip:

In that he drowned his woe;
He did not blow his brains out, for
He had no brains to blov. Then there came another suitor To win the maiden fair:

To win the maiden fair;
He was not a bear-faced wooer,
But muzzled like a bear;
He had a fine imperial,
Moustache, and whiskers, curled,
And a lordly air about him, As if he owned the world.

'T sas said he was a foreign counIncognito while here,
And had at home a shady park,

He thought the maiden of our song Would find herself in luck For, wedding him, the happy dear
Would get a fine young buck.
They met, and when the fair one gazed

Upon his whiskers fine, She felt that she had found at last The paragon divine.
They courted through the summer months,
And married in the fall;
She gave her heart and band, and he Gave beard, moustache, and all. One night they passed in pleasant dreams A happy wedded pair; But ah, alas! the next morn's light But an, aras: the next morn singue Brought sorrow and despair. The count arose and washed his face, But fear o'erwhelmed his soul; The give had started, and he left His whiskers in the bowl. The wife looked up, she saw his face Smooth as a new-mown lawn;

Save here and there a single hair, His whiskers all were gone.

She swooned and fell upon the floor,
Her reason overthrown;
The count secured her jewelry,
And left for parts unknown.

Then, ladies, dear, don't let your hearts
Be wreeked by foolish pride,

Smooth as a new-mown lawn;

In spurning any honest hand
By labor dignified.
Mechanics are our noblemen—
They clothe at Towar Hall— Wed them and shun the foreign counts Of no account at all.
