PITTS' MACHINE

Thrashing & cleaning grain. THE subscriber respectfully gives notice to the farmers and all others who feel an interest in an improvement of this kind, that his machine for thrashing and cleaning grain is now in operation on the farm of Mr. Cyrus Ringwalt, near the borough of Carlisle. This machine thrashes the grain from the straw, and completely cleans it ready for the sacks or bags, at one operation while passing through the machine—making the labor of getting out grain very easy both for man and beast. The machine performs the work in a very handsome and expeditious manner, and has never yet failed to give the most perfect satisfaction to all who have purchased or employed it. It may be used in the open field during fair weather without the loss of grain as there is no scattering out from any part of the machine where it should not. This machine is confidently believed to be superior to any thing of the kind ever yet offered to the American farmer for thrashing and preparing his grain for the mill. It is merely cleaned it, propelled by any of the various horse powers commonly used, or any other propelling power. The subscriber is prepared to furnish first rate Machines and the exclusive right to use them in townships, counties, &c. He invites such as are in want of machines to call and examine his before purchasing, as they may be benefited thereby. HIRAM A. PITTS, Carlisle, Aug. 29, 1859.
