Communicated. Our friend and fellow citizen, Major STERRETT RAMSEY, has once more returned among us on a visit; not, we regret to say, to "his wife and children" but to the scenes to the sale, one third on the first day of April of his childhood and friends of former times -and for their gratification has with his friend, brought some curiosities which will wholly astonish the natives who may see them. They are of various composition, some natural, others artificial-some of the latter of wax, others rags-both however rare specimens of the art of a people supposed by us to be far behind ourselves: yet in reality are far before us in the art, at least we have hitherto never seen any thing of North American production to equal either the county, the following described Coast or Mountain Indian of Mexico.— PLANTATION AND TRAC
