

green sward of the wide spreading prairie be replaced by a burning sheet of liquid matter.

The democrats of Cumberland, hand in hand with their brethren in other parts of the State, and United States, have uniformly evinced an attachment to these good, old and well tried usages.

Once again have these usages been put into requisition, and we are now called upon to aid in the good cause.

Messrs Editors:—Should you be so kind as to give publicity to these few lines, you would oblige many decent persons, who felt really ashamed with the contents of the last Herald.

How can they forget in what manner Jesus discharged the frail woman? I shall not enquire whether the charges of the hypocritical scribblers of the Herald made against the afore-said individuals be true or not.

organized body we would have partially admitted their right, at least given color to their claim, or acknowledged our own weakness and inability to restrain a spurious body from acting in our seats with Legislative power.

The prudence of our course in keeping possession of the Hall is fully established by many reasons besides those above stated.

He says also in the same ferocious letter, that the legitimate House, as well as the Rump, most only be regarded as a peaceful assemblage of citizens whose respective rights are hereafter to be determined.

The only mode of establishing right in such cases is a resort to physical force. If men in a state of insurrection wish to establish a minority House, by force or fraud, the majority or legitimate House has a right to present a firm but peaceful resistance to their pretensions for a reasonable time.

The Speaker's chair had been protected from the moment the Speaker left it, until 4 P. M. when being exhausted by many hours anxiety, I left the chair and was proceeding up the principal aisle, when I met Mr. Spackman, who informed me that he was going to take the Speaker's Chair, organize and adjourn the House till to-morrow afternoon.

In a few minutes Spackman advanced towards the Speaker's platform. I placed my hand on the desk so as effectually to obstruct his entrance to the Chair.

you are? I immediately said to our friends, "Remove this man from the Hall!" He was instantly seized by Major Frederick Fritz and Capt. Joseph Hall of Philadelphia, and I think Mr. James Humes, of Lancaster.

Mr. Cunningham displayed unusual sagacity in sending a man of Spackman's fragile form on such a dangerous duty, and the accusations against the Democrats as "an infuriated blood thirsty mob" is not sustained by the anxiety of those who were thus represented to shield his person from injury.

At the interval a heavy rush was made and the folding doors between the Hall and the Rotunda were burst from their hinges and many individuals leapt from the windows and this too in broad day light.
