

From a London paper of Sept. 4th.

THE FALLING STARS AND AURORA BOREALIS.

Between the hours of ten last night and three this morning, in the heavens were observed one of the most magnificent phenomena of that extraordinary phenomena the falling stars and northern lights ever witnessed for many years past. The first indication of this singular phenomenon was about ten minutes before ten, when a light crimson apparently rose from the north and northern portion of the hemisphere, and gradually extended to the centre of the heavens, and by ten o'clock, or a quarter past, the whole, from east to west, was one vast sheet of light. It had a most alarming appearance, and was exactly like that occasioned by a terrific fire. The light varied considerably, at one time it seemed to fall, and directly after rose with intense brightness. There were to be seen mingled with it voluemes of smoke, which rolled over and over, and every beholder seemed convinced that it was "a tremendous conflagration." The constellations in the metropolis were very great, thousands of persons were running in the direction of the supposed catastrophe. The engines belonging to the Fire Brigade stations in Baker street, Farringdon street, Watling street Waterloo road, and likewise those belonging to the West of England station, in fact every engine in London were harnessed, and galloped after the supposed "scene of destruction," with more than ordinary energy, followed by carriages, horsemen, and vast mobs. Some of the engines proceeded as far as Highgate and Holloway before the error was discovered.

These appearances lasted for upwards of two hours, and towards morning the spectacle became one of more grandeur. At two o'clock this morning the phenomenon presented a most gorgeous scene, and one very difficult to describe. The whole of London was illuminated as light as noon day, and the atmosphere was remarkably clear. The southern hemisphere at the time mentioned, although unclouded, was very dark, but the stars, which were innumerable, shone beautifully. The opposite side of the heavens presented a singular but magnificent contrast; it was clear to the extreme, and the night was very vivid, there was continual succession of meteors, which varied in splendor. They appeared to form in the centre of the heavens, and spread till they seemed to burst; the effect was electrical, myriads of small stars shot out over the horizon, and started with that swiftness towards the earth that the eye scarcely could follow the track; they seemed to burst also, and throw a dark crimson over the entire hemisphere. The colors were the most magnificent that ever were seen. At half past two o'clock the spectacle changed to darkness, which of dispersing, displayed a luminous rainbow in the zenith of the heavens and round the ridge of darkness that overhung the southern portion of the country. Soon afterwards columns of silvery light radiated from it; they increased wonderfully, intermingled amongst crimson vapor, which formed at the same time, and when at the full height the spectacle was beyond all imagination. Stars were darting about in all directions, and continued until four o'clock, when all died away. During the time that they lasted, a great many persons assembled on the bridges across the river Thames, where they had a commanding view of the heavens, and watched the progress of the phenomenon attentively.

From the Edinburgh Pilot.
The "Aurora Borealis" was remarkably vivid and magnificent in the firmament on Tuesday night (Sept. 3rd), presenting one vast shifting flame of light from the northern to the southern horizon.
