The watchers for the meteoric showers of November had bad luck in this city .- One of the nights was clear, but no meteors appeared, and the next night was cloudy. In vew York they did better as may be seen by the subjoined articles:-Penn.

The Meteors .- Tuesday night was favor able for observing the meteors, and a goodly number of them were seen. A friend states that about 5 o'clock on Wednesday morning, he counted ten in the course of five minutes. They appeared to come from a south westerly direction. The same person remarked that he had noticed an unusual number for several nights past. He is not a star gazer by profession.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

The Meteors, which have been seen fo several years past on the morning of the thirteenth of November, made their appearance this year as usual. The display in the h avens, as we learn from those who were upon the watch for the spectacle, was not as brilliant as it was in 1834, when this great increasing, or as it has been an several accasions since. What few meteors there were, appeared to move towards the northeast. Journal of Commerce.
