

AMERICAN VOLUNTEER.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

A large and respectable meeting of the democratic citizens of West Pennsborough township, was held at the Mount Rock School House on Tuesday evening the 17th inst. ABRAHAM GOODHEART was appointed President; Major Joseph Trzoo, Major Samuel Tritt, John Brown, Bruce J. Sterrett, George J. Lightner, James Reed, John Hissner, Geo. W. Matthews, George Shaeffer, and Jeremiah Myers, Vice Presidents; and John W. Woods, David Hippinhamer, Henry Greter, Robert M. Keenan, John Cart, and Jacob Nagley, Secretaries. On motion Messrs. Samuel Graham, Capt. John Dunlap, and A. J. North, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting, who reported the following, which were adopted.

Resolved, That we approve of the able and fearless manner in which our Chief Magistrate has discharged the important duties entrusted to him, and we view with pleasure our present prospect of re-electing him in November next.

Resolved, That we approve of the measures pursued by our U. S. Senators, Messrs. Buchanan and Sturgeon.

Resolved, That we have full confidence in our member of Congress, Mr. Ramsey.

Resolved, That this meeting approve of an Independent Treasury in preference to a bank depositary.

Resolved, That this meeting is entirely hostile to the banking system in any other way than that of redeeming their notes with the precious metals, when presented at their counters.

Resolved, That this meeting has full confidence in D. R. Porter, and approve of the faithful manner in which he has caused the laws of the State to be respected, in preventing the issuing of shill plasters by any corporation.

Resolved, That our confidence is not the least shaken in our representatives in the Legislature, and hope that they will use their endeavors to compel the banks to the speedy redemption of specie payments.

Resolved, That we consider our present banking system deficient and unsound, and hope by carrying out true democratic principles to remove all present embarrassments.

Resolved, That our country ought to be ruled by a majority of the people, and no administration influenced by any bloated and unsound banking institution.

Resolved, That we believe a speedy redemption of specie payments should take place; that the present situation of our country imperiously demands a thorough reform in the banking system, and that the community should hereafter be secured against the fluctuating state of the credit system.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the American Volunteer.

(Signed by the Officers.)

THE LABORING MAN'S WAGES.

It is certainly "something new under the sun" to see those whose principles and measures, have always been such as were destructively antagonistic to every interest of the working man, now profusely shedding their sympathies over an imagined evil which is to befall him. To see the advocates of all kinds of monopolies—of the worst system of paper credits that exist upon the face of the globe—of speculation, panic and confusion—now, pouring out their solicitations for the laborer, is certainly a paradox in our experience, that we know not how to account for. We say it is something new, for never since we have known them as a party, have we seen any thing in their conduct, that did not clearly conflict with the nearest and dearest interests of the man who lived by the sweat of his brow. We ask the public to look around and enquire who it is that has been grasping for a concentration of political and money power in this nation? Who is it that has encouraged a system of banking, that is fraught with every thing injurious to the stable and permanent prosperity of the country—to-day producing a temporary and unnatural inflation of business, and to-morrow a wretched and destructive depression? Who is it that has opposed every measure calculated to relieve the nation of a curse, that all feel has blighted its fairest prospects, and carried misery and starvation to the abodes of the laborer. Who has refused to reform, when reform was offered? Who has preyed upon the toil of the honest working man, and stole his heart against the universal cry for relief? Was it he who proposed to give permanence to trade, to commerce, and to labor, by restricting speculation? Was it he, who endeavored to reform the currency, by making paper money equal to specie, and providing against the contingency of such a disaster as a suspension of the bank? Was it he who labored to make the wages of a laborer payable in good money, instead of a depreciated paper currency? The answer is written in the universal gloom and distress that now sits upon the brow of the working man—it is written in his heart, and he feels and knows, that his worst enemy is the advocate of that miserable system, by which the shadow and not the substance—the hope and not the reality—has so long been held out to delude and mislead him.

Mr. Buchanan's remarks in the Senate, have been the subject over which these very men, who have thus opposed every wholesome and salutary interest of the laborer, have feigned to shed their grief. They have perverted his sentiments, and falsified his principles. They have attributed to him language he never used, and principles he never entertained. Mr. Buchanan, nor his administration friends, are inimical to the interests of the laborer, and he most manfully shows it in his reply to Mr. Davis, from whom the federal press has received its cue, in this sudden outburst of assumed solicitude for the working men.

But why we ask it, that the Whigs have become so suddenly concerned for the laborer? They hope to alarm him, by the cry of "hard money" and reduced wages, that he may the more willingly approve of their policy of an unrestricted paper currency.

They hope by presenting the reform which is proposed by Mr. B. and the democratic party, in its extreme light, to render it odious and unacceptable. They dare not tell him that Mr. Buchanan and his party wish only to purify the currency, and not destroy it. We are not for an exclusive hard money currency, nor has such a policy to our know-edge, ever been advocated by any of our distinguished men. They would have the banks reformed—they would guard against suspensions—they would improve the currency, by enlarging the specie basis. They believe the larger denominations of paper essentially necessary for commercial transactions, but they also believe that the wages for labor, the hard earnings of the working man, should be paid in something that is as intrinsically valuable as the labor he has given for them.

The Democratic party have not been the friends of suspensions by the banks—they have not resisted resumption. But the Whigs have. The Whigs called loudly for a suspension before it occurred, and are the very last to ask for a resumption. Has any one of them ever lifted up his voice in favor of a return to specie payments? And who prays, suffers by these things? Is it the lordly speculator, who as Mr. Buchanan says, "snuffs danger from afar," and has provided himself against the disaster, or the day-laborer, who after a week's toil, receives his pittance of wages in a depreciated paper currency, that he cannot spend at market for his food? This is the touch-stone, by which to test the question as to who is the real friend to the laborer.—Maysville Monitor.

Wages of Labor.—The following remarks extracted from the speech of Mr. Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, in relation to the wages of labor, should be read by every working man. They furnish in a few words, unanswerable arguments, to the nonsense put forth in the British Federal Whig press:

"All other circumstances being equal, I agree with the Senator from Kentucky, that that country is most prosperous, where labor commands the highest wages. I do not, however, mean by the term 'highest wages,' the greatest nominal amount. During the Revolutionary war, one day's work commanded a hundred dollars of continental paper; but this would scarcely have purchased a breakfast. The more proper expression would be to say that that country is most prosperous where labor commands the greatest reward; where one day's labor will procure not the greatest nominal amount of a depreciated currency, but most of the necessities and comforts of life. If, therefore, you should, in some degree, reduce the nominal price paid for labor, by reducing the amount of your Bank issues within reasonable and safe limits; and establishing a metallic basis for your paper circulation, would this injure the laborer? Certainly not; because the price of all the necessities and comforts of life, are reduced in the same proportion, and he will be able to purchase more of them for one dollar, in a sound state of the currency, than he could have done, in the days of extravagant expansion, for a dollar and a quarter. So far from injuring, it will greatly benefit the laboring man. It will insure to him constant employment and regular prices, paid in a sound currency, which, of all things, he ought most to desire; and it will save him from being involved in ruin by a recurrence of those periodical expansions and contractions of the currency, which have hitherto convulsed the country.

"This sound state of the currency, will have another most happy effect upon the laboring man. He will receive his wages in gold and silver, and this will induce him to lay up, for future use, such a portion of them as he can spare, after satisfying his immediate wants. This he will not do at present, because he knows not whether the trash which he is now compelled to receive as money, will continue to be of any value a week or a month hereafter. A knowledge of this fact tends to banish economy from his dwelling, and induces him to expend all his wages as rapidly as possible, lest they become worthless in his hands."

Gen. Harrison and his Keepers! An extraordinary course has lately been taken with General Harrison by his friends in Ohio. They have raised a committee, to whom they have given him in charge, as a sort of committee to receive and read his political letters, and determine upon the answers to be given, leaving the poor old gentleman without any discretion or agency in the matter. George the Third, of England, in the days of his old age and insanity, deprived of all power in his own government, was a king after much the same fashion that Harrison is now a candidate.

The Oswego Palladium, of Wednesday, contains a correspondence between the Oswego Union Association and the committee who have taken possession of Harrison. We copy the letters, which we have the positive assurance of the Oswego print are genuine.

Oswego, Jan. 31, 1840.

To the Hon. William H. Harrison.

Dear Sir—In accordance with a resolution of the Union Association of Oswego, I am instructed to propose three questions to you in relation to subjects that a large portion of this section of the country feel a deep interest in. The first is—

Are you in favor of receiving and referring petitions for the immediate abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia?

Second—Are you in favor of a U. States Bank, or some institution similar to that, for the safe keeping and disbursing of the public monies, and for giving a uniform currency throughout the United States?

And last—Would you favor the passage of a General Bankrupt Law, by Congress, so that its operations might be equal in all the States of the Union?

I have only to say, sir, that the above inquiries are made in accordance with the unanimous wishes of this association, the members of which, I am instructed to say, entertain the highest regard for your past services, and hope, should you be elected to the high office for which you are nominated, that nothing may occur to lessen you in the estimation of a great and free people.

I am, sir, Respectfully, your obed't, serv't.

MILES HOTCHKISS, Corresponding Secretary.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 29, 1840. Oswego Union Association.

Gentlemen—Your letter of the 31st ult., addressed to General Harrison, has been placed in our possession with a view to early attention. This is unavoidable, in consequence of the very numerous letters daily received by the General, and to which his reply in person is rendered absolutely impracticable. As from his confidential committee, you will look upon this response; and if the policy observed by the committee should not meet with your approbation, you will attribute the error rather to ourselves and his immediate advisers than Gen. Harrison. That policy is, that the General make no further declaration of his principles, for the public eye, whilst occupying his present position.

Such course has been adopted, not for purposes of concealment, nor to avoid all proper responsibility; but under the impression that the General's views, in regard to all the important and exciting questions of the day, have heretofore been given to the public, fully and explicitly; and that those views, whether connected with constitutional or other questions of very general interest, have undergone no change. The committee are strengthened in regard to the propriety of this policy; that no new issue be made to the public, from the consideration, that the national convention deemed it impolitic at the then crisis, to publish any general declaration of the views of the great opposition party, and certainly the policy at the present, remains unaltered. In the meantime we cannot help expressing the hope, that our friends, every where, will receive the nomination of General Harrison with something akin to generous confidence. When we reflect upon the distinguished intelligence of the nominating convention—how ably all interests were represented in that body; we certainly have a high guaranty, that should General Harrison be the successful candidate for the presidency, that office will be happily and constitutionally administered and under the guidance of the same principles which directed our Washington, Jefferson and Madison. Believing you will concur with us in the propriety of the policy adopted, we have pleasure in subscribing ourselves.

Your friends, DAVID GWYNNE, J. C. WRIGHT, O. M. SPENCER, H. E. SPENCER, Cor. Sec'y.

The committee are now publishing in pamphlet form many of the former expressed opinions of the General, and facts and incidents connected with his past life, which will be forwarded to you at an early moment.

"Thus," says the Oswego paper, "General Harrison has passed into the hands of a committee, without the formality of a writ de lunatico inquirendo. He is interrogated on three questions of high importance, and by the direction of the committee he stands mute. They acknowledge that numerous letters daily arrive, addressed to the whig candidate for the presidency, and we infer from the language of the committee, that these letters contain inquiries in regard to his political opinions. These letters answered only with a denial of the information which their numerous writers solicit; they are told that the candidate of the whig party, or rather the committee which has him in charge, has adopted the policy of those who nominated him,—that of making no declaration of his opinions, allowing no expression of his views in regard to the great contested measures of the present moment to escape him, but demanding that the people shall put the helm of state into his hands without knowing whether he is to steer the vessel. We have heard much of non-commitment in our time, but this is non-commitment with a vengeance.

After all, the friends of Harrison are, perhaps, right to surround him with a cabinet, while he is yet a candidate. He would make as wild a work of a Regency as the poor crazy old grandfather of the present Queen of England. If he were to answer at his own discretion the letters he receives, he would, unquestionably, give answers that would embarrass his party, answers sometimes extravagant, sometimes aside from the purpose, sometimes merely foolish, and sometimes perhaps right by accident, which we suppose would prove to his friends the greatest embarrassment of all. They are right, doubtless, in standing guard over the unhappy old man, lest the muzzle should slip from his mouth and he should betray himself by uttering nonsense.—New York Eve. Post.

CIDER DRINKERS. The women of New Jersey have borne the following testimony against the "cider drinkers." As the advocates of Mr. Harrison, says the indefatigable and talented correspondent of the Baltimore Republican, are daily in the habit of commending him on the score that he keeps muddled in hard cider, and smells like a vinegar barrel, it is to be hoped, that the arguments of the matrons of New Jersey, will be most attentively considered and dwelt on by the advocates of Mr. Harrison.—Old Dominion.

Your memorials beg leave to add, most respectfully, that from their own experience they are satisfied that there is no kind of intemperance like that which is called into existence by the too free indulgence of cider. Men who get drunk on strong alcoholic liquids, as our own experience has shown us, soon become incapable of action, fall into a state of torpid lethargy; sink beneath the influences of these potentia, and are soon rendered harmless and impotent. But your cider drunkard is at all times in a greater or less degree under the influence of intoxication; he is at all times morbid and querulous, ever ready to abuse and defame his own family, and may be regarded as the greater of all the miseries in the country. Satisfied of these facts, and anxious as we are that nothing should be done to add to the sorrows and afflictions of the undersigned wives of drunkards, we very respectfully and humbly implore the Temperance Convention not to recommend the abolition of alcoholic liquids, and the general substitution of cider. If we are to be doomed to remain the wives of drunkards, let us be the wives of rum drunkards, and not of cider drunkards."

The "Log Cabin Candidate."—In May, 1828, says the Chillicothe Advertiser, Gen. Harrison received from John Quincy Adams the appointment of Minister to Colombia. He remained at home until late in the fall, electing for Mr. Adams, and arrived on the coast of Colombia, as appears by his own journal, the 22d of December, 1828. Having quarreled with all the Cabinet officers of that Government, he took his leave of them on the 21st of September, 1829, after a stay of nine months in the country, and for this service he drew TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS out of the U. S.

Treasury! No wonder Gen'l. Harrison is very poor! It reminds one of the story of the sick father, who sat down to fourteen dumpings; his child seeing him swallow all but the last one, begged for it;—no, my child, replies the father, papa is very sick and can't spare it. So with Gen. Harrison. He owns a farm of 850 acres of prime land, on the river near Cincinnati, and also receives a sinecure of $6000 a year as Clerk of the County Court;—and yet papa Harrison is very poor!—Duck Eye.
