

Temperance Department.

Pledge of the Cumberland Co. Temperance Society.

We, the undersigned, do agree, that we will not use intoxicating liquors nor traffic in them as beverages...

NOTICE.

The Executive Committee of the Cumberland County Temperance Society, will hold a meeting at Shippensburg on the evening of the 18th...

For the Volunteer.

OUR CIRCULAR PLEDGES.

It is presumed, that by Thursday evening of this week, our Committees will have discharged their duty of collecting these papers.

Any persons, residing within the limits of our county, whose societies are not organized, and willing to become members...

Feb. 15, 1841. M. CALDWELL, Ch'n.

From the Illinois Temperance Herald.

The author of the following is a venerable and highly respectable clergyman, who has spent some fifteen or twenty years, as a missionary, among the Osages...

YOU ARE A LOST CAT.

Now my hand is in, I will send you a short dialogue between a Temperate Drinker and a Drunken Drinker.

Temperate Drinker.—I will give my children what they will drink, and drink myself whenever I need it, and always intend to do so yet, I can govern myself and hope my children can.

Total Abstinence.—What is the use of your children drinking even temperately? Does it do them any good?

Tem. Drinker.—As to that, I am not obliged to answer you. We live in a free country. We are at liberty to speak or let it alone.

The confirmed drunkard now comes up, and hearing the last sentence, begins to sneeze. You drink temperately? I tell you you are a lost cat!

He therefore declared, William Henry Harrison, of Ohio, duly elected President of the United States for four years from the 4th of March, 1841.

He therefore declared John Tyler, of Va. duly elected Vice President of the United States for four years from the 4th of March, 1841.

After this announcement, the Senate retired to their Chamber; and a joint committee consisting of Mr. Preston, of the Senate, and Messrs. Cushing and Wise, of the House, having been appointed to wait on General Harrison, and inform him of his election, the two Houses immediately adjourned.

Mr. Editor.—The above is a true story. It took place about a year since, and as I had a part in it, and felt much interested, I went into the cabin and penned it down, and now send it for insertion in your fact-telling Herald, if you think it may be of any use.

DINNER OF LOUIS PHILIPPE. We have been gratified with the following remarks in an account given in the Knickerbocker, by Gen. Cass, our minister at Paris, of a dinner given by Louis Philippe to himself, and Gov. Everett.

The dinner at Saint Cloud passed as dinners usually pass, in some conversation, but still more in the laudable operations of eating and drinking. Thank heaven, the day of "health" and "toasts" have gone by!

The dinner at Saint Cloud passed as dinners usually pass, in some conversation, but still more in the laudable operations of eating and drinking. Thank heaven, the day of "health" and "toasts" have gone by!

The dinner at Saint Cloud passed as dinners usually pass, in some conversation, but still more in the laudable operations of eating and drinking. Thank heaven, the day of "health" and "toasts" have gone by!

The dinner at Saint Cloud passed as dinners usually pass, in some conversation, but still more in the laudable operations of eating and drinking. Thank heaven, the day of "health" and "toasts" have gone by!

The dinner at Saint Cloud passed as dinners usually pass, in some conversation, but still more in the laudable operations of eating and drinking. Thank heaven, the day of "health" and "toasts" have gone by!

so coarse as the custom,) is unknown. It is a relic of barbarism, and ought to be banished. It leads too often to orgies, and not pleasures; substituting for rational enjoyment excessive indulgence.

Gen. Cass deserves, for the boldness of such remarks, the thanks of every Temperance man in the community; and it is to be hoped that coming from so distinguished a gentleman they will have an influence in breaking up those drinking usages in our country which are fraught with ruin to some of our best citizens.

General Harrison and his friends, before the election, insisted strongly upon the propriety of abstention from all arrogance and ostentation on the part of a Republican President.

The ordinary ornamental furniture of his dwelling, not surpassing that of wealthy citizens, was not to be tolerated, and President VAN BUREN was openly charged by the National Intelligencer with violating the decorum of his station, in replying to the interrogatories of his fellow-citizens, as bringing the power of his place into the discussions of the people.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

gents of the commonwealth, bound by themselves and sureties, to account for it in the ordinary way,—but it was transferred without regard to the law, to persons upon the line of the canal, and with this very money were perpetrated the most stupendous frauds ever witnessed by this government.

DAVID R. PORTER, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, February 9, 1841.

ARRIVAL OF GENERAL HARRISON.

The President elect arrived in the city about eleven o'clock to-day.

General Harrison and his friends, before the election, insisted strongly upon the propriety of abstention from all arrogance and ostentation on the part of a Republican President.

The ordinary ornamental furniture of his dwelling, not surpassing that of wealthy citizens, was not to be tolerated, and President VAN BUREN was openly charged by the National Intelligencer with violating the decorum of his station, in replying to the interrogatories of his fellow-citizens, as bringing the power of his place into the discussions of the people.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

galize the present suspension and allow the Bank to issue small notes?" but this was negatived by a decided majority. Pending the discussion of these amendments, and when it seemed probable that Mr. Miles' amendment would be adopted, Mr. Dallas stated that if any action was made by the meeting in favor of the United States Bank, he should ask to be excused from a further participation in the proceedings, as he could not and would not in any way sanction or excuse the conduct of that institution.

He said that he was willing to unite in an effort to relieve the business community, and such Banks as had acted in good faith to the public and the law, although he made some sacrifice of political views in doing so; but he could not so far transcend his general principles as to yield or ask any indulgence to a bank which proved itself utterly unworthy of such considerations.

Joseph Randall, Esq. addressed the meeting very eloquently in favor of the amendment, and endeavored to persuade the gentlemen that, unless they yielded their participation of abstention from all arrogance and ostentation on the part of a Republican President.

The ordinary ornamental furniture of his dwelling, not surpassing that of wealthy citizens, was not to be tolerated, and President VAN BUREN was openly charged by the National Intelligencer with violating the decorum of his station, in replying to the interrogatories of his fellow-citizens, as bringing the power of his place into the discussions of the people.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

General Harrison has, in all things, already falsified the professions of log-cabin plainness, simplicity, and modesty, that were made to win the confidence of the yeomanry of this country.

On the 25th ult. Farrington was arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, and held to bail in the sum of $500.

On the 27th ult. he was again arrested on a charge of uttering and passing forged notes of the Bank of Gallipolis, and an examination was held to bail in the sum of $100,000 which he was unable to give, and has been committed to the jail of the county.

On the 28th ult. one of the Bank Commissioners made his appearance in our midst, but the Directors refused possession; and took "the responsibility," and which may indeed prove a heavy one.

Sanson, the Headsman. We copy the following graphic account of the employment of Henri Sanson, the principal executioner during the French Revolution, from the Pennsylvaniaian:

"Have you read the French papers? Do you know who is dead? Let me enlighten you, there died in Paris on the 20th August last, an old man of 87, named Henri Sanson, Headsman of the department of the Seine.

"He was the headman par excellence, the Nemesis of the French nation; the last act of the bloody drama of 1793. In him has a portion of France's blood-inscribed story sunk to the grave; for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

History can tell of no second executioner, who has separated from their shoulders so many world-renowned heads, or marshalled so much of life's way to dusty death.—In the times when the guillotine permanence held the French populace in check, for he was during the first Revolution, the Executioner des hautes causes, through whose hands passed the heads of nearly all those who at that period perished by the guillotine in the Place de la Concorde.

Henri Sanson was at that time an active young man of 20 years, attached to no party, and he struck off to-day the head of an ardent royalist, with the same composure that he would do the next day that of a suspected republican.

means of obtaining correct information) the loss of the General Government alone, by the banks at that time, was thirty-five millions. If we add to all this the loss which the public have sustained by suspensions not alluded to above, and almost incalculable loss sustained by banks breaking; and from various causes, becoming insolvent; and that occasioned by the total destruction of their notes by the various casualties to which a paper currency is ever subject; we will have an amount of actual loss sustained by the community through these institutions, which will startle the most devoted advocate of the present paper system."

The following libel is going the round:—'Never trust a secret with a married man who loves his wife, for he will tell her, and she will tell her sister, and her sister will tell her aunt Hannah, and aunt Hannah will impart it to a profound secret to every one of her female acquaintances.'

Caution.—Never go any distance from home these times, to collect money, however large the dues to you, without taking along enough to defray your expenses. A friend of ours neglected this and had to borrow enough to bring him back!—Dayton Journal.

Why, said a country clergyman to one of his flock, do you always sneeze in your pew when I am in the pulpit, while you are all attention to every stranger I invite? Because, sir, when you preach I am sure all's right; but can't trust a stranger without keeping a good look out.

The deepest malice often vents itself in the lightest ridicule. He who is passionate and hasty, is generally honest—it is you cold dissembling smiling hypocrite; of whom you should beware.

'There is a time for all things.' 'This may be true,' as the lover said the other day, 'but if the time ever comes for me to pay my debts, it will be something new under the sun.'

REPORT OF THE REGISTER GENERAL OF ENGLAND.—The last number of the Boston Medical Journal contains an article condensed from the above report, and giving a variety of curious facts, such as that out of 121,083 couples married, there were 40,587 men and 58,959 women who could not write.—The pastoral, agricultural, and purely manufacturing classes are the most ignorant. The better educated artisans and trades people appear to emigrate, and assemble in the metropolis; for it is not probable that children born in the metropolis are educated in the schools so much more extensively than are those born in the country, as the abstract would imply.

Of the above number married, 5628 men and 16,414 women were under 21 years of age. The average age of the men was 27 years, of the women 23 years and a few months. The mortality, in England and Wales for 1839, it is as 1 to 47.5. In 1838 it was 1 to 46.

Auditor's Notice. The subscriber appointed auditor by the Orphans' Court of Cumberland county to marshal the assets in the hands of Jacob Hiner, administrator of George Ramsey, deceased, among the creditors of said deceased, will sit for that purpose at his office in Carlisle, on Saturday the 20th inst. at 10 o'clock, A. M.

ATTENTION! CUMBERLAND GREENS. A Court of Appeal will be held at the public house of John Corman, Esq. in Carlisle, on Monday the 22d inst., between the hours of 10 o'clock, A. M., and 6 o'clock, P. M. Delinquents will do well to attend.

A. LAMBERTON, Capt. Carlisle Light Artillery.

ATTENTION! Washington Artillery. You are ordered to parade at the ARMY, on MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15, at 10 o'clock, precisely, in the forenoon, with arms and accoutrements in good order.

Also, with Blue Pantaloons and Red Stripes. By order of the Capt. C. COCKLIN, O. S. Carlisle, Feb. 4, 1841.

Dissolution of Partnership. THE partnership heretofore existing between Philip Arnold, Ansel Arnold & Simon Arnold, under the firm of Arnold & Co., was on the 29th ult. dissolved by mutual consent.

Persons who have any claims against the firm, will make payment to either of the undersigned. PHILIP ARNOLD, Chambersburg. ANSEL ARNOLD, Carlisle. SIMON ARNOLD, Mechanicsburg.

N. B. The Books of Arnold & Co. Carlisle, must be settled immediately, as the undersigned intends leaving this place within ten days. PHILIP ARNOLD, ANSEL ARNOLD.

P. S. The store in Mechanicsburg will be continued in the name of the subscriber, where great bargains may be expected. SIMON ARNOLD. Carlisle, Feb. 3, 1841.

NOTICE. THE Stockholders of the Harrisburg, Carlisle & Chambersburg Turnpike Road Company, are hereby notified that in pursuance of an act of the General Assembly, passed the 15th day of April, A. D. 1826, an election will be held at the public house of Simon Wonderlich, Esq. in the borough of Carlisle, on Monday the 15th day of March 1841, then and there between the hours of 3 & 5 o'clock P. M., to elect Three Managers for said Company.

JOHN IRWIN, President. February 4, 1841.

BAKERS and others that make use of genuine N. N. Orleans molasses, are informed that it is for sale by C. BARNITZ.

BAKERS and others that make use of genuine N. N. Orleans molasses, are informed that it is for sale by C. BARNITZ.

BAKERS and others that make use of genuine N. N. Orleans molasses, are informed that it is for sale by C. BARNITZ.

BAKERS and others that make use of genuine N. N. Orleans molasses, are informed that it is for sale by C. BARNITZ.