

tryman, secure each person in the perfect enjoyment of all his rights. The spectacle is exhibited to the world of a Government deriving its powers from the consent of the governed, and having imparted to it only so much power as is necessary for its successful operation. Those who are charged with its administration should carefully abstain from all attempts to enlarge the range of powers thus granted to the several departments of the Government other than by an appeal to the People for additional grants, lest by so doing they disturb that balance which the patriots and statesmen who framed the Constitution designed to establish between the Federal Government and the States composing the Union. The observance of these rules is enjoined upon us by that feeling of reverence and affection which finds a place in the heart of every patriot for the preservation of our children and our children's children, through countless generations. An opposite course could not fail to generate factions, to excite the gratification of their selfish ends; to give birth to local and sectional jealousies, and to ultimate either in breaking up the bonds of union, or in building up a central system, which would inevitably end in a bloody sceptre and an iron crown.

THE BANK BILL.—THE VETO.—Last week we gave the Bill of Abominations in extenso—and this week we present our readers with the mystery and convincing Veto Message of the Governor. We hope our readers will give both the Bill and its Death-blow a careful and attentive perusal—and if they are not then convinced of the soundness of Gov. Porter's arguments, we shall be egregiously mistaken in their intelligence. We look upon the message in question, as worthy to be placed alongside the admirable Veto of Gov. Snyder of the Bank Bill of 1841.

THE PRESIDENT'S FUNERAL.
The Globe of Wednesday evening, the 7th inst. says,—"The funeral of President HARRISON was conducted to-day with propriety—with pomp and solemnity. A vast multitude attended. Uniform companies from the cities of Baltimore and Philadelphia united with those of the District, and those, added to several bodies of United States troops drawn in from neighboring regts, made a very imposing military display. Several bands of fine music led different sections of the military array, and, with melancholy strains, blended the sympathies of the people. The whole procession, including a large concourse of citizens from the neighboring States, filled the Pennsylvania avenue to a very great extent. The houses immediately on the Avenue were for the most part hung with black drapery, and the windows were crowded with fair faces. The day was soft and beautiful, enabling the immense throng (a great many of whom were on foot) to attend the remains their honored to the place of sepulture, some two or three miles from the President's mansion. There the last rites being paid and the body deposited in the tomb, the scene was closed by the firing of cannon and volley of small arms. Throughout the day minute guns were fired, and during the procession the bells of the city tolled.

Grand Military and Civic Procession.
AT CARLISLE, PA.
On Saturday last, the 10th inst., agreeably to a resolution of the meeting of citizens without distinction of party, held at the Court House on the Wednesday evening previous, the Soldiers and Citizens of this Borough and vicinity had a procession on the occasion of the death of the late President of the United States, Gen. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON. The following was the order of arrangement in the procession, as agreed upon at the meeting:

- First Division.
Capt. Sumner's Command, mounted.
- Volunteers.
Militia Officers in uniform, without command.
Soldiers of the Revolution.
Officers and soldiers of the late war.

- Third Division.

- Sixth Division.
Marshalls—WILLIAM GOULD—Maj. WILLIAM M. HENDERSON—Capt. A. LAMBERTON.
Citizens and Strangers.

The day was wet and disagreeable—yet, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the procession made a most imposing appearance—probably, when on march, not less than half a mile in length. The military, in particular, made a very handsome display. This part of the procession was composed of a large company of mounted Dragoons in full uniform, from the Barracks—Capt. Roberts' well disciplined company of Volunteer Infantry, from Harrisburg—Captain Bricker's Artillery, from Newville—Capt. Hood's company of Infantry, from Springfield—Captain Porter's Light Artillery, Carlisle—Capt. Cropp's Washington Artillery, Carlisle—Capt. Goodyear's company of Infantry, Spring Forge—and Captain Reharr's Light Infantry, Carlisle.

A NATION IN MOURNING!
Every where from one end of the Union to the other, do the people manifest tokens of sorrow at the decease of the Chief Magistrate. Perhaps never before since the death of Washington, has the same spirit animated the mass, without distinction of party. It is emphatically a great nation in mourning at the fall of its Chief. This general expression of sorrow is creditable to the American people—and shows that although they differ widely in the principles and details of government—although the two great parties of the Republic are antipodes to each other in their political predilections—on such a solemn occasion, they can unite as a band of brothers in paying the tribute of respect to the memory of their departed Chief Magistrate. Gen. Harrison had his faults, (but what living man is exempt from them?) but they are buried in the grave with him—while his virtues shall be cherished and remembered by his countrymen in all future time. May he rest in peace.
