Chambersburg, September 6, 1841.

I have in use in my kitchen one of Hathaway's Patent Hot Air Cooking Gtoves, and can recommend it as a very superior article. The one I have is No. 3, it has 5 boilers and an oven sufficiently large to bake 6 loaves of bread. The baking, roasting and boiling, can be done at the same time and with much less wood than required for any stove I have ever used. This size appears to be poculiarly calculated for Parmers, and for their benefit I invite them to call and see this stove in use, as I shall take pleasure in showing the stove to those who wish to see it. S. WUNDERLICH. who wish to see it.

Carlisle, September 12, 1814.

Messrs. E. Robinson & Co. Gentlemen:—I have fairly tested the "Hot Air Stoves" which you put up at my house and can recommend it as possessing principles of economy and convenience far surpassing any other stoves, which I have ever seen. The boilers coming in mmediate contact with the fire gives it great failities for boiling, and the oven is heated on sucl a principle that bread is baked in as fine a mainer as in a brick oven. I find it also a great saving of fuel and labor, and would advise all to adopt it.

Carlisle, September 12, 1841.

Messrs. E. Robinson & Co. Gentlemen .- I have during the few days I have had your Hathaway Hot Air Stove in use become convinced of its great superiority over all other stoves I have used or seen—I find by the trial that boiling, reasting, baking and broiling may all be dome at the same time, in a most perfect manner and with less than one fourth the fuel I have or dinarily used for the same purposes. I have here-tofore been of the opinion bread could not be well baked in a Cook Stove, but I am convinced upon trial that it can be done as well in your stove as it a brick oven. I believe that the general introduc-tion of your stoves into use will be very beneficial to the public, therefore I shall take pleasure in re-

LINES WRITTEN' BY A LADY, As an excuse for her zeal in the cause of Temperance and addressed to a friend, who told her that she "was almost a monomaniae on the subject of alcoholic drink.

Go, feel what I have felt-Go, bear what I have borne-Sink 'neath the blow a father dealt. And the cold proud world's scorn-Thus struggle on, from year to year, Thy sole relief the scalding tear.

Go, weep as I have wept! O'er a lov'd father's fall, See eyery cherished promise swept, Youth's sweetness turned to gall, Hope's faded flowers strew'd all the way That led me up to woman's day.

Go, kneel as I have knelt, Implore, beseech, and pray-Strive the besotted heart to melt, The downward course, to stay-Be cast, where bitter curse, aside Thy prayers burlesqued, thy tears defied.

Go, stand where I have stood, And see the strong man bow
With gnashing teeth, lips bathed in blood, And cold and livid brow; Go, catch his wondering glance, and see There mirrored his soul's misery.

Go, hear what I have heard, The sons of sad despair, As memory feeling's fount hath stirred And its revealings there Have told him what he might have been, Had he the drunkard's fate foreseen. Go to thy Mother's side,

And her crushed spirit cheer,

Thine own deep anguish hide, Wipe from her cheek the tear-Mark her dimmed eye, her furrowed brow, The gray that streaks her dark hair now, . Her toil-worn frame, her trembling limb, And trace the ruin back to him Whose plighted faith in early wouth. Promised eternal love and truth-But who, foresworn, hath yielded up This promise to the deadly cup, And led her down from love and light, From all that made her pathway bright And chained her there, 'mid want and strife, That lowly thing-a Drunkard's Wife ! . And stamped on childhood's brow so mild,

That withering blight-a Drunkurd's Child ! Go, hear, see, and feel, and know, All that my soul hath felt or known-Then look upon the wine cup's glow, See if its brightness can atone; Think if its flavor you would try,

A FEMALE MISER.

Marguerite Boudet, a single woman, seventy-six years of age, living in the Rue Contrescarpe, was taken ill about a fortnight ago, and was sedujously attended by two of her nieces. The morning before last she per-ceived death approaching, and desired that a notary might be sent for to make her will. As she had always lived as if she were in a state of poverty, her two attendants, believ-ing she was delirious, hesitated, and reminded her that this would create an expense which they had no means of paying. The dying woman replied that she knew what she was about, and insisted, on the man of the law being brought.
