

TERMS OF PUBLICATION.

$2 00 per annum, in advance—or $2 50, if not paid within the year. No subscription taken for a less term than six months, and no discontinuance permitted until all arrears are paid. A failure to notify a discontinuance at the expiration of a term, will be considered a new engagement. Advertisements—$1 00 per square for the first three insertions, and twenty five cents for every subsequent one.

American Volunteer.

BY GEO. SANDERSON.

"OUR COUNTRY—RIGHT OR WRONG."

[AT TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM.]

Whole No. 1421.

Carlisle, Pa. Thursday October 21, 1841.

New Series—Vol. 6, No. 19.

LEMUEL TODD, ATTORNEY AT LAW. OFFICE No. 10, Harper's Row, in the room formerly occupied by Isaac Todd, Esq. Carlisle, August 26, 1841.

LAW NOTICE. SAMUEL R. HAMILL, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Will practice in the several courts of Cumberland county. Office in Main street, the office now occupied by James H. Devoe, Esq. Carlisle, September 30, 1841.

WILLIAM B. KNOX, ATTORNEY AT LAW, Carlisle, Pa. OFFICE a few doors west of the Post Office, in Main street.

CHARLES M'CLURE, Attorney at Law. OFFICE in Main street, a few doors west of the Post Office. Carlisle, April 29, 1841.

WILLIAM H. LAMBERTON, ATTORNEY AT LAW. WILL practice and attend to collections in the county of Venango. In any business that may be entrusted to him, he will be assisted by Samuel A. Purvisner, Esq. of Butler. Franklin, August 12, 1841.

HAT MANUFACTORY. PATENT SUBSCRIBER'S HAT MANUFACTORY. The subscriber has removed his shop to the corner of the street and Mr. John Shiller's store, where he is prepared with the best materials and will keep constantly on hand and manufacture to order.

Hats of every Description, such as RUBIA, BRUSH, NUBIA, CAS, TOBACCO, &c. &c. The work will be done in a fashionable style, and at moderate prices. He solicits a share of public patronage. WILLIAM H. PROUT, Carlisle, May 20, 1841.

BOOTS AND SHOES. The subscriber respectfully announces to the inhabitants of Mechanicburg and vicinity, that he has just received from Philadelphia the most splendid assortment of Ladies, Misses, and Children's Morocco and Kid Boots and Shoes, ever offered to the public in this place, varying in price from $1 to $1.50; Misses and Children's in price from $1 to $1.50; and he intends to confine his work more particularly to the Ladies' branch of the business, and he flatters himself that he will be able to please the most fastidious. The Ladies are most respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves. Don't forget Cain's Boot and Shoe Emporium, Mechanicburg. GEORGE F. CAIN, September 9, 1841.

Public Sale of Real Estate. WILL be sold at public sale, on Friday, the 23d of October next, on the premises, in pursuance of the last will and testament of Anthony Black, late of Dickinson township, deceased, the following described real estate, to wit: The property of said testator, to wit:

A tract of land situated in Dickinson township, in said county, bounded by lands of John Black, John Hoikes, John Myers, John Fishburn and others, containing about 85 acres, of which about seventy acres are cleared and the residue well timbered.—The improvements are a large

LOG HOUSE & KITCHEN, ADOUBLE LOG BARN, Wagon Shed, Corn Crib & other out Buildings, a never failing well of water convenient to the house, and a young and thriving Apple Orchard, and a large tract of rich Land. This farm is situated in the "Graded Lands," is limestone land of a superior quality and in a good state of cultivation, and about three fourths of a mile south of the turnpike road from Harrisburg to Pittsburg, and about 6 miles west of Carlisle.

The terms of sale are as follows: One half of the purchase money to be paid on the 1st of April next, when possession will be given and a deed made to the purchaser, the residue in two equal annual payments thereafter, to be secured by a lien on the land, or bonds with security satisfactory to the undersigned. The rent due on the 1st of April next is reserved, and will not pass to the purchaser. If the above farm is not sold, it will be rented at the time and place above mentioned, for one year. WILLIAM CAROTHERS, Executor of Anthony Black, dec'd. September 9, 1841.

Valuable Town Property for Sale. THE subscriber will dispose of at private sale, that valuable property at the corner of Hanover and North streets, in the town of Carlisle, adjoining Mr. Whitley's Hotel. The property is comprised of a full lot of ground, on which are erected a large

TWO STORY FRAME, WEATHERBOARDED HOUSE, Hanover street, and two Frame Weatherboarded Houses on North street. The first mentioned building has been for many years occupied as a store and is admirably calculated, from its situation, for public business of any kind. There is also a Frame Stable on the premises, and a well of excellent water with a pump in it, at the front door of the large building. The lot, on which a large building might be erected, (this part, if the purchaser wished to build, he might have possession of immediately.) Possession will be given of the other part of the property on the 1st of April next. An indisputable title will be given, and terms made easy to the purchaser. EZRA BULLOCK, August 26, 1841.

Estate of William M. Duncan, dec'd. LETTERS of administration on the estate of William M. Duncan, late of Southampton township, Cumberland county, dec'd, have been issued to the subscriber, residing in the said township, and persons knowing themselves indebted in any way to said estate are requested to make payment immediately, and those having claims: to present them properly authenticated for settlement. WILLIAM G. DUNCAN, Adm'r. September 10, 1841.

E. ROBINSON & CO. HAVE located in Carlisle for the purpose of manufacturing and selling Hathaway's Patent Hot Air Cooking Stoves, and being aware that the people in this place and vicinity have been much imposed upon by the introduction of new and highly recommended articles which they have been induced to purchase, articles which have been so slightly made, and of such bad material, that in a short time they have failed and become useless. We therefore do not intend offering stoves for sale until they are fairly tried in this community and pronounced more durable in their construction, and better adapted to the purposes of boiling, baking and all the various articles of cooking, also that they are a great saving of fuel as well as labor. We earnestly invite farmers as well as residents of this place and the neighboring villages, to call on us at S. Wunderlich's hotel, or notify us by letter (postage unpaid) that they are willing to try

Dr. Swayne's Syrup of Wild Cherry. CINCINNATI, February 15, 1840. Dr. SWAYNE—Dear Sir—Permit me to take the liberty of writing to you at this time to express my approbation, and to recommend to the attention of my friends, families and others your invaluable medicine—the Compound Syrup of Prunus Virginiana, or Wild Cherry Bark. In my travels of late I have seen in a great many instances the wonderful effect of your medicine in relieving children of very obstinate complaints, such as Coughing, Wheezing, Choking of Phlegm, Asthmatic attacks, &c. &c. I should not have written this letter, however, at present, although I have felt it my duty to add my testimony to it for some time, had it not been for a late instance where the medicine above alluded to was instrumental in restoring to perfect health an "only child," whose case was almost hopeless, in a family of my acquaintance. "I thank Heaven," said the doating mother, "my child is saved from the jaws of death! O how I feared the relentless ravager! But my child is safe!" Beyond doubt Dr. Swayne's Wild Cherry Syrup is the most valuable medicine in this or any other country. I am certain I have witnessed more than one hundred cases where it has been attended with complete success. I am not an admirer of the tuck of Brandy, and I think it proved effectual in an exceedingly short time, considering the severity of the case. I can recommend it in the fullest confidence of its superior virtues; I would advise that no family should be without it; it is very pleasant and always beneficial—worth double and often ten times its price. The public are assured there is no quackery about it. R. JACKSON, D. D. Formerly Pastor of the 1st Presby'n. Ch. N. Y. September 23, 1841. AGENTS—J. J. Myers & Co. Carlisle; Martin Lutz, Market street, Harrisburg; G. & R. W. Davis, (254 Market street) and Rev. J. P. Cook, (42 Market street) Baltimore.

LAND FOR SALE. Friday the 23rd day of October next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., a tract of land containing 425 Acres & 52 Acres, situated in Dickinson township, Perry county, three miles south-west of Landisburg, on the M'Clure's Gap road, leading from Landisburg to Newville, being 9 miles from the latter place—it adjoining lands of the heirs of Mathias Hollenbeck on the south, Samuel Numanacher on the west, and Daniel Miller on the east. Said land is divided into eight tracts or lots, the smallest containing 40 acres and the largest 60 acres. One of said lots, marked No. 2 in the plot or draft, contains 45 acres and 18 perches, with a

LOG HOUSE AND STABLE THEREON. The following is an extract of a letter from Mr. Baring, to the Printer. Doctor Green's remedy is to be taken inwardly, is innocent, and performs the cure by strengthening the nerves. My neighbor Jones' wife thought she would try it, to be long time troubled with weak and aching limbs, and with her deafness, caused by nervous weakness; so she sent the customary fee of five Dollars and got some, which, in little more than a week made them as good and strong as ever—doing needle-work now without spectacles, and now is restored to her eye-sight as well as to her hearing—therefore, friend Baring, by publishing the above, I doubt you will receive the blessing of many a distressed creature: together with the thanks of your subscribers. YORK, Pa. 1841. C. F. BARRING. Until quite lately the people had to go to the Doctor to get help.

A GRIST MILL AND FARM FOR SALE. THE subscriber, Executor of the last will and testament of Peter Creamer, late of Southampton township, Cumberland county, dec'd, will offer for sale by public outcry, on the premises, on Friday the 5th of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, the following described Real Estate of said deceased, situate part in Cumberland and part in Franklin counties, viz: ONE HUNDRED & SEVENTY ACRES OF PATENTED LAND, 160 of which is first-rate limestone land, and the balance is excellent slate land—about 100 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation, and the residue covered with thriving timber. A portion of the tract is excellent meadow. The improvements are a

A STONE GRIST MILL, A DOUBLETWO STORY DWELLING HOUSE PART STONE—STONE BARN—TWO APARTMENTS. The Mill, House and Barn, and about 25 acres of the land, are in Cumberland county, and will be offered for sale separate. The balance, 145 acres, is in Franklin county, in two separate tracts, adjoining each other. The whole is situated about 3 miles north-west of Shippenburg, on the Middle Spring—said stream running through the tract. It is one of the most desirable properties in the two counties. Terms will be made known on the day of sale by JACOB CREAMER, Jr. Ex'r. September 9, 1841.

LOOK HERE! The subscriber, having sold his stock of DRUGS, &c., intending to call his business, and would hereby notify those indebted to him and settle their accounts, before the first of January next, when his books will be left with J. E. INYARD, Esq. for collection. A. T. NORTH, Newville, Sept. 23, 1841—3m.

Short Patent Sermon. BY "DOW JR." ON THE LOQUACITY OF WOMAN. Text.—Nature, impartial in her ends. When she made man the strongest, In justice, then, to make amends, Made woman's tongue the longest. T. H. SMITH.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

Friday the 23rd day of October next, at 10 o'clock, A. M., a tract of land containing 425 Acres & 52 Acres, situated in Dickinson township, Perry county, three miles south-west of Landisburg, on the M'Clure's Gap road, leading from Landisburg to Newville, being 9 miles from the latter place—it adjoining lands of the heirs of Mathias Hollenbeck on the south, Samuel Numanacher on the west, and Daniel Miller on the east. Said land is divided into eight tracts or lots, the smallest containing 40 acres and the largest 60 acres. One of said lots, marked No. 2 in the plot or draft, contains 45 acres and 18 perches, with a

LOG HOUSE AND STABLE THEREON. The following is an extract of a letter from Mr. Baring, to the Printer. Doctor Green's remedy is to be taken inwardly, is innocent, and performs the cure by strengthening the nerves. My neighbor Jones' wife thought she would try it, to be long time troubled with weak and aching limbs, and with her deafness, caused by nervous weakness; so she sent the customary fee of five Dollars and got some, which, in little more than a week made them as good and strong as ever—doing needle-work now without spectacles, and now is restored to her eye-sight as well as to her hearing—therefore, friend Baring, by publishing the above, I doubt you will receive the blessing of many a distressed creature: together with the thanks of your subscribers. YORK, Pa. 1841. C. F. BARRING. Until quite lately the people had to go to the Doctor to get help.

A GRIST MILL AND FARM FOR SALE. THE subscriber, Executor of the last will and testament of Peter Creamer, late of Southampton township, Cumberland county, dec'd, will offer for sale by public outcry, on the premises, on Friday the 5th of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, the following described Real Estate of said deceased, situate part in Cumberland and part in Franklin counties, viz: ONE HUNDRED & SEVENTY ACRES OF PATENTED LAND, 160 of which is first-rate limestone land, and the balance is excellent slate land—about 100 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation, and the residue covered with thriving timber. A portion of the tract is excellent meadow. The improvements are a

A STONE GRIST MILL, A DOUBLETWO STORY DWELLING HOUSE PART STONE—STONE BARN—TWO APARTMENTS. The Mill, House and Barn, and about 25 acres of the land, are in Cumberland county, and will be offered for sale separate. The balance, 145 acres, is in Franklin county, in two separate tracts, adjoining each other. The whole is situated about 3 miles north-west of Shippenburg, on the Middle Spring—said stream running through the tract. It is one of the most desirable properties in the two counties. Terms will be made known on the day of sale by JACOB CREAMER, Jr. Ex'r. September 9, 1841.

LOOK HERE! The subscriber, having sold his stock of DRUGS, &c., intending to call his business, and would hereby notify those indebted to him and settle their accounts, before the first of January next, when his books will be left with J. E. INYARD, Esq. for collection. A. T. NORTH, Newville, Sept. 23, 1841—3m.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy upon the soul as stewed horse nails upon a dyspeptic's stomach. In its operations it should be guided by prudence and moderation; else it becomes a bore instead of a blessing. Some people have naturally so much loquacious steam in their boilers, that when they once get the clappers to their corn mills in operation, they never know when to stop them. Such folks, generally speaking, are as empty as egg shells and softer than soap fat. A dam with a gate that's always hoisted can hold but little water; and a man who leaks at the mouth, can't have much in him excepting that gas with which the bladder of vanity is ever inflated.

My HEARERS.—Keep your nut crackers closed, and be tongue tied while I tongue it for a few moments on the subject of tongues if you please. As regards the utility of the tongue, it is needless to say that it is one of the most important appendages of the human system. It is designed for other uses than licking molasses and carrying grub from one grinder to the other during the pleasant, but sometimes tedious, process of mastication. Its principal office is to form or finish words as they bubble up in a chaotic state through the thorax, from the well spring of life. In society the tongue is both a useful and pleasing member—as it not only imparts information to the unlearned, but serves in beguiling many a weary hour, and aids in digesting sorrows, that sit as heavy