COLD AND SILVER.

And in the last of the local data and the hefore he ventures an obinion upon-currency. Mr. Gallatin, in 1831, thus speaks of "The total amount of gold and silver prowhered by the mines of America, to the year 1803 inclusively, and remaining there or exmonted to Europe, has been 'estimated by Humboldt at about five thousand six hun dred millions of dollars; and the product of the years 1804-i830, may be estimated at seven hundred and filty millions. If to this we add one hundred millions, the nearly as--certained product, to this time, of the mines of Siberia, about four hundred and fifty milgions for the African gold dust and for the product of the mines of Europe, (which vielded about, three millions a year, in the beginning of this century,) from the discovery of America to this day, and three huuare discovery of America to this day, and three hui-alred millions for the amount existing in Eu-rope prior to the discovery of America, we lation, slaves, included (for their labor is to find a total not widely differing from the. fact, of seven thousand two hundred millions of dollars. It is much more difficult to ascertain the amount which now remains 'in Europe and America together. The loss day friction and accidents might be estimated, and researches-made-respecting the to-, tal amount which has been exported to countrics beyond the Cape of Good Hope; but that which has been actually consumed in igilding, plated ware, and other manufactures of the same character, cannot be correctly ascertained. From the imperfect Hata within our souch, it may, we think, be affirmed, that the amount still existing in Europe and America certainly exceeds four thousand, and probably falls little short of five thousand millions of dollars. - Of the medium, or four-thousand-five-hundred-millions, which we have assumed, it appears that from one whird to two-fifths is used as currency, and what the residue consists of plate, jewels, and other manufactured articles. It is known that of the gross amount of seven thousand rtwo hundred millions of dollars, about eighwhole in value, and one-forty-eighth in weight, consisted of gold. Of the four thou-sand five hundred millions, the presumed cremaining amount in gold and silver, the pro-portion of gold is probably greater, on account of the exportation to India and China Braving been exclusively in silver, and of the igreater care in preventing every possible wastein an article so valuable as gold."

Upon this statement, Mr. Gouge, in his Journal of Banking, makes the following rearemarks.

"We begin to-day with Mr. Gallatin's es-Europe and America. In a work published sumption: at the end of two years half the ttimate of the quantity of gold and silver in by him in 1831, entitled "Considerations on
