ARRIVAL OF THE EUROPA. SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

CONVICTION OF SMITH O'BRIEN. RECOMMENDATION TO MERCY.

NO HOPE FOR HIS LIFE. TO BE EXECUTED AT CLONMEL.

New York, Oct. 25.
The steamship Europa has arrived in eleven days from Liverpool, bringing papers of the 14th inst.

Smith O'Brien has been found guilty, with the following recommendation to mercy; which was handed in at the same time with the vertilet by the jury:

"We carnestly recommend the prisoner to the merciful consideration of the government; the jury being manimous of opinion that for various reasons his life should be spared."

Sentence of Smith O'Brien. After the verdict had been rendered, the Clerk of the Crown asked Mr. O'Brien what he had to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon

Mr. O'Brien said—my lords, it is not my intentior Mr. O'Brien said—my lords, it is not my infention to enter into any vindication of my conduct, however much I might have desired to avail mysolf of this opportunity of so doing... I am perfectly satisfied with the consciousness that I have performed my duty to my country—that I have done only that which, in my opinion, it was the duty of every Irishman to have done, and I am now sprepared to abide the consequences of baving performed my duty to my native land. Proceed with your sentance. (Cheers to the collects) the gallery!)
The Lord Chief Justice then proceeded, amid the

In the gallery!)

The Lord Chief Justice then proceeded, smid the most profound and painful silence, to pronounce the extreme sentence of the law upon the prisoner. He said—William Smith O'Brien, after a long, painful, and laborious trial, a jury of your countrymen have found you guilty of high treason. Their verdet was accompanied by a recommendation to the morey of the crown. That recommendation, as is our duty, we shall send forward to the Lord Lieutenant, to whom, as you must know, exclusively belongs the power to comply with its prayer. It now romains for us to perform the last solemn act of duty which the law marks the enormity of your guilt, and aims at the prevention of similar crimes, by the example and infliction of a terrible pudishment. Oh; that you would regret it as it is regretted by every rational being—that you' would feel and know that it is really and substantially as repugnant to the profession of the profession. J. C. & G. The few words you have addressed to the court, however, forbid me proceeding any further with this subject. It now only remains for the court to pronounce the seatonce of the flaw. Here his lordship assumed the black cap, and, amid a silence at once solemn and painful, proceeded as follows:—That sontence is, that you, William Smith O'Brien, be taken from hence to the place from whence you came, and be theree drawn on a hurdle to the place of execution, and be there danged by the neck until you be dead; that afterwards your head shall be severed from your body, and your body be heck that you to dead, that attended with body he first shall be severed from your body, and your body bod fivided into four quarters, to be disposed of as her Majesty shall please, and may God have morey on your soul: The most profound sensation followed the conclusion of this sentence, and continued to manifest itself for several minutes afterwards.
