If it be sad to mark the bow'd with age Bink in the halls of the remurseless tomb. Sink in the halls of the reinurseless tomb, Closing the changes of life's pligrimate, In the still darkness of its incultering gloom; O? what a shadow o'er the heart is flung; When peals the requiem of the lov'd and young! Yet this is life! To mark from day to day, Youth in the freshness of its morning prime, Pass, like the authern of a brezze way, Sinking in waves of death, ere chill'd by time, Ere yet dark years on the warm cheek had shed Autunnal mildew o'er the ross-like red.

And yet, what mourner, through the possive eye, Be disnly thoughtful in its burning tears. But should with rapture gaze upon the sky. Through whose far depths the spirit's wing careers There gleanes eternal o'es their ways are flung. Who fade from earth while yet their vays are flung.
