penalties. I say as a matter of police, this is important to us of the middle and northern states. The slave population is not such as we should desire, or mivite within our borders. The negro race, with some few honorable exceptions, is a nuisance in the free states, and although nominally free they occupy and will continue to do so, stations of a menial character, to as great an extent as they do in the slave states themselves. They are a worthless population and impose serious taxes upon our citizens, through our criminal courts, alms houses, jails and penitent itarles—and unless I much mistake the signs of the times, the question will soon be agitated, whatler more negroes than we now have, bond or free, shall be permitted at all to make their residence in Penn.
