Horrible Tragedy at Williamsburg N. Y. A most revolting double murder was committed at Williamsburg, New York, last Saturday morning. the particulars of which are thus given in the New

A man named Lawrence Riley, suspecting a crimnal intercourse going on between an acquaint-ance and his wife, Mary Ann Riley, took certain means to satisfy himself, either of her innocence or guilt. On Friday night, contrary to his usual custom, he slept in the garret of his house, (No. 10, north Fourth street), his wife, and her mether, sleeping both together, in the room below.

Shortly after day break, on Saturday morning, Riley coming down stairs, discovered his wife's paramour leaving his wife's room. In a paroxysm of rage, and panting for revenge; he drow a dagger from his bosom and stabbed his wife to the heart, until life was extinct. The weapon still recking with the blood of the daughter, was plunged into the bosom of the mother, who expired in terrible agency.

Just at this moment a girl, living in the same house, alarmed by the groans, was coming up stairs to see what was the matter. Riley at once aimed a holl by a ther, but the girl was fortunate enough to get out of the way, without getting more than one thrust. The slarm being given, the police came and sale the murderer into custody.

Alkinson J C Adams Mar Anderson R Adams Jose this more than one than the murderer into custody.

thrust. The alarm being given, the police came and took the murderer into custody.

The wrotch when placed in his cell, seemed dejected and sullen. He said "he expected to die, but that he was ready. He would rather die than live." He also stated that he and his wife had lived unhapily for years past; that her family were possessed pily for years past; that her family were possessed of some property, and they were all opposed to him. He worked hard and had done all he could to earn an honest living, but nothing could satisfy them.—He further stated that on returning home from his work, he repeatedly found the rooms closed and a young man in the room with his wife,

On being asked whether he would have some breakfast, he replied, "No, he could not eat," and inquired whether the other woman was dead?—When asked why he committed the awful deed, he replied that his wife was not true to him; that he had lived a miserable life.

A warrant is out for the arrest of the person supposed to have been the paramour of the illited wife. Col. Bigler at Home.

We had the pleasure of conversing, a few days since, says the Lewisburg Democrat, with an old acquaintance from Clearfield county, whom we had always known as a "true blue" Whig, "dyed in the wool." In the course of conversation, we enquired whether Col. Brotzer was popular at home. "Popular!" said he, as though he was surprised at the question. "Popular! yes! I should proor of our county. I have known him to pay off mortgage after mortgage on lumber lying indue river waiting for a freshet, and in numerous other instances have I seen him prove himself to be the poor man's best friend. Itoni John Bigler.—Almost simultaneous with the nomination of Col. Wh. Bigler, as the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, was the selection of his brother, the Hon. John Bigler, as the Democratic candidate for Governor of California, as will be seen from our telegraphic news this morning. It will not be forgotten that we prophedicd this result in our article headed "the two brothers," some weeks ago. This is a rare and gratifying coincidence, and is another evidence of the value of good character, of energetic habits, and of intelligence and consistency, in a young mae. One thing is certain, that if the Pennsylvania of the Pacific wants to excel the California of the Pacific wants to excel the California of the United States, in the majority for her Bigler, over that we have bespeken for ours, she will have to get up very carly in the morning—that's all.—Penn'n.

The World's Fair.—The English papers are pro-carly in the morning—that's all.—Pran'n.

The Wonld's Fain.—The English papers are profused their ridicule of the American portion of the Great Exhibition, and specifyly inquire "Why the Committee asked for so much room, when they were unable to fill it?" Some of their amateur writers also condemn the display of American productions, and initiate that Brother Johnathan is colebrated for nothing but wooden nutmegs and mammath pumpkins. A reply in kind to both the query and speck for a certain sea-boat called the Pacific; but that our people, being naturally in a hurry, and unwilling to be over ten days in crossing the big pond, could not spare her until they had time to build a faster one!" To be serious, no one conversant with the state of things here; could have expected from the country a display of jewels, plate and rich silk tissues to match the glittering stores collected from the cold world. There is as much difference between the ruffled Erlish Grems edier, and the ragged, barefooted Continents in this respect as thore was between the ruffled Erlish Grems dier, and the ragged, barefooted Continental soldier in the days of our fathers; the one was adorned for a sacrifice—the other simply girded for a mighty purpose.—New York Journal of Commerce.
